

GLIDDEN'S TRIP

From Springfield a Successful One

The Springfield Republican published the following account of the balloon ascension made in that city this week, by Charles J. Glidden:

Charles J. Glidden made a beautiful ascension in the balloon Huston yesterday afternoon about 3.15, accompanied by his brother, Merton N. Glidden of Lowell. The balloon rose slowly, sailing a bit toward the east. The crowd was not so large as at the ascensions in the days before Springfield became so important a ballooning center, but the 500 or so who did see the balloon go up were favored with a pretty ascension as any that has been held here. The balloon sailed slowly up to a height of 2000 feet and by that time had gently floated due west a short distance, although the big bag was visible over the western section of the city for a considerable time. Eight bags of sand were taken up, a good supply, that would have made a longer flight possible with a favorable breeze. Merton N. Glidden had never before made an actual start, although he had before assisted at ascensions and was very familiar with the methods of starting. After going a short distance east, the balloon turned north, and finally passed over Holyoke and then went toward Ludlow, in which town it finally landed, after being in the air three hours. The two balloons were brought back to Springfield in the automobile of H. G. Chapin and E. Dudley Chapin. The ascension yesterday was especially noticeable for the increasing number of motorists who followed the big bag, and several cars were "in the death" among them being the cars of Messrs. Chapin, Dr. E. C. Collins and Judge Charles J. Long of this city and that of J. K. Judd of Holyoke. If the gradual increase in the number of pursuing cars continues, the ascensions will soon take the form of a race and bound chases. Yesterday's trip was not exciting, however, nor was it hard for the motorists to follow. Ludlow is not far away, but it was a beautiful day, so that the view was wonderful. Merton Glidden called the trip a "real lesson in geography," and he expressed great pleasure at his experience.

The ascension yesterday will be remembered by one Holyoke girl for many years to come, for she was given the chance to see what it is like to leave the ground in a balloon, and while her trip was short, it was thoroughly enjoyed. When the balloon ascended yesterday its course was followed by J. K. Judd of Holyoke with a party in his automobile, and when it came down between South Hadley and Holyoke the automobile party were near the spot. In the automobile was Miss Dorothy Munson, the 16-year-old niece of Mrs. Judd, a Junior in the Holyoke high school. After the balloon descended the aeronauts invited members of the party to try a short ascension, but they declined, with the exception of Miss Munson, who was not afraid to make the trial, and so got into the basket. The balloon was let go, and rose to an elevation of about 500 feet and remained in the air about 10 minutes before it was brought to the earth. She enjoyed the ride and was not frightened in the least, and will be perfectly well.

LIVES IN DANGER

Fourteen Persons Had Narrow Escapes

LYNN, Oct. 8.—Fourteen persons had a fortunate escape from suffocation during the progress of a fire which broke out in the three-story wooden block at 189 Chestnut street shortly after 11 o'clock last night.

Many of them had to go out into the chill night air clad in their sleeping apparel. The fire started in the plumbing store of George M. Stoddard on the first floor, and great clouds of smoke poured through all the rooms and made escape dangerous.

On the second floor were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pannor and their son Alphonse. They were led down stairs to safety by the firemen.

On the third floor were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Trudell and their daughter Mary; Mr. and Mrs. Mosonson, Mrs. Ida Taylor, Andrew and George Taylor and Hazel and Maud Hadley. None of the occupants had time to dress.

THE BARTENDERS
ANOTHER ATTEMPT MADE TO ORGANIZE THEM

Another attempt is being made to organize the bartenders, or wine clerks, of this city. J. E. Laycock, international organizer, is in this city conferring with different bartenders for the purpose of gaining from them an expression as to the outlook.

A number of years ago, the Lowell union fell behind in its dues to the National organization, and the charter was suspended. It happened that a no-license year went into effect not long afterward, and the Lowell bartenders were greatly handicapped in their quest for employment in other cities because of their inability to show union cards.

Mr. Laycock is also the organizer for the culinary workers, and a meeting of this craft has been called for Friday night of this week in Weaver's hall. The culinary workers include cooks, waitresses and all employees of restaurants. These employees have never been organized in Lowell.

WM. J. CARROLL
SAYS DEBS RECEIVES NO ASSISTANCE FROM REPUBLICANS.

William J. Carroll, a law student who is also a socialist, called at the Sun office this morning to say that he does not believe there is any foundation for the statement that Mr. Debs is receiving financial aid from the republicans. He had with him a copy of the official Bulletin of the socialist party in which it is shown that up to date the cash contributions to the campaign amount to $11,354.65. In addition, he says, collections are taken up at all the socialist meetings so that there should be enough funds to keep Debs in motion in his red special until the campaign is over.

SERVIA'S PROTEST

Against Annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina

BELGRADE, Serbia, Oct. 8.—The Serbian government in its proclamation protesting against the annexation by Austria-Hungary of Bosnia and Herzegovina expresses the hope that the powers will respond to the appeal addressed to them for protection and justice. "This new and flagrant violation of the Berlin treaty," the proclamation declares, "has been effected unitedly by force mainly to satisfy selfish interests and without regard to the feelings, interests and rights of the Serbian people."

"Serbia cannot in this present case obtain full satisfaction other than by the complete restoration of the situation with regard to Bosnia and Herzegovina as established by the treaty of Berlin. If this solution is regarded as absolutely impossible the Serbian government appealing to the sense of equity of the powers, demands corresponding compensation for Serbia. The guarantee is indispensable to her existence as an independent state must be maintained and the general condition of existence assured Serbia by the treaty of Berlin must, at least in a measure, be restored."

The proclamation declares that the rights accorded Serbia under this treaty are incomparably inferior to the sacrifices imposed upon her. Serbia has scrupulously observed the terms of the treaty. No modifications to the advantage of Serbia have been made, whereas there have been a number of modifications to the advantage of other powers.

remove the difficulties from which the European situation is not yet free. Thanks to our allegiance with Germany and Italy and our friendly relations with the other powers Austria-Hungary is in a position to co-operate

RECEIVED BY EMPEROR
BUDAPEST, Oct. 8.—Emperor Francis Joseph today welcomed in this city the Austrian and Hungarian delegations. Replying to recent events and his intention to create constitutional institutions in Bosnia and Herzegovina. He then said:

"The powers animated entirely by peaceful intentions are endeavoring in mutual understanding to mitigate and prominently the maintenance of peace. The monarchy can only perform this task efficiently if it is powerful and armed: it is a task commensurate with its traditions, and its position in Europe. I am confident that you will examine the demands of my government, especially those in relation to the development of our forces by land and sea, in this spirit and that you will be guided by patriotic insight and self-denial. I bid you a hearty welcome."

$5000 VERDICT
FOR BOY WHO WAS INJURED BY DEFECTIVE MACHINERY

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—A verdict for $5000 was awarded James L. Donovan, a boy, against the Chase, Shawmut company for injuries before Judge Sanfield in the fifth session of the superior court yesterday. It was all the boy sued for, and his father, Michael Donovan, was awarded $570 for the loss of the son's service. Young Donovan, shortly after leaving school, went to work in the company's shop, and on May 19, 1903, while operating a defective machine, his right hand was caught in the knife of it and badly lacerated.

ANNUAL REUNION

Of the Sacred Heart Parish a Great Success

Associate hall last night was the scene of the annual reunion of the Sacred Heart parish and the capacity of the place was amply tested by the large assemblage, which embraced representatives from all of the Catholic parishes of Lowell, North Billerica, North Chelmsford, Grantville and Collinsville.

Among the clergymen who graced the occasion with their presence were three of the Oblate Fathers of the Immaculate Conception church, who were formerly identified with the Sacred Heart church either as pastor or assistant pastor, namely: Rev. John M. McRory, O. M. I., Rev. John P. Reynolds, O. M. I., Rev. John Flynn, O. M. I. The Sacred Heart parish priests were all present consisting of the pastor, Rev. W. Wade Smith, O. M. I., Rev. Robert Barrett, O. M. I., Rev. Bernard Fletcher, O. M. I., and Rev. John O'Brien, O. M. I.

The reunion began in the afternoon when the children of the Sacred Heart school were very much in evidence in singing and furnishing joyous entertainment. In the afternoon as well as in the evening everything showed plainly the result of the faithful work of the competent committee in charge, whose labors were amply rewarded with signal success in having the reunion of 1908 go into history as the largest assemblage which ever gathered socially under the auspices of the Sacred Heart parish. During the evening an exceptionally fine program for the entertainment of those assembled was cleverly arranged and ably presented under the direction of Miss Elizabeth L. Miskella. It was entitled "Using the Weed," a lively musical comedy in one act and was produced by an excellently trained chorus and cast of principals, of the Children of Mary of that parish. Special mention should be made of the singing of the older Irish songs, "Kathleen Mavourneen" and "Believe Me," by Mrs. Muldoon. Misses Margaret McQuillan and Margaret Shanley impersonated the aunts to perfection, and Miss Alice Bagley with the Irish colleens furnished one of the delightful little bits of the evening. The particular little bit

DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE

CALL FOR CONVENTION TO NOMINATE A DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS IN THE FIFTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Lawrence, Oct. 6, 1908. The democratic congressional committee of the Fifth congressional district having failed, within the time prescribed by vote of the state committee to meet and issue a call for the democratic convention to nominate a candidate for congress in the Fifth district, pursuant to vote of the democratic state committee, the representatives upon the state committee from the Fifth district, duly organized, hereby call the delegates elected in the state primaries to the congressional convention, to meet in convention at Associate hall in Lowell, Mass., at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Friday, October 9, 1908. The business of the convention will be as follows:

To nominate a democratic candidate for congress in the Fifth district. To elect a congressional committee whose term of office shall expire on the first Monday of January, 1911. To transact any further business that may come before the convention. The convention will be called to order by the chairman of the Fifth district congressional committee of the Democratic State committee.

Issued at Lawrence, Mass., Oct. 6, 1908, for the Democratic State committee by the congressional committee of the state committee for the Fifth congressional district. Cornelius F. Cronin, chairman. James E. Donoghue, secretary.

DONOVAN, WHOSE PITCHING IN FINAL GAME WON THE PENNANT

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 8.—"Wild Bill" Donovan of the Detroit Tigers is the hero of the American league, for his shut-out of the Chicago Cubs in the final game of the season won the pennant for his team. He had his opponent under control from the opening of the game, allowing only two hits, and the White Sox got only three men on bases. Donovan is one of the pitching marvels of the decade. In a recent game with Washington he pitched only ten balls in one inning, yet struck out three batters. More remarkable still, only one of the ten balls was struck at.

EDWIN MULREADY

Made Deputy Probation Commissioner

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—The announcement made by the commission on probation that Edwin Mulready had been named for the position of deputy commissioner of probation is universally commended, according to opinions heard yesterday about the court house and down town among the lawyers. The selection made by the commission is said to be an ideal one in every way.

Mr. Mulready has been a member of the board of selectmen of Rockland for about 15 years, and during 10 of these he was its chairman.

For ten or more years he has been probation officer of Norfolk and Plymouth counties, and the way he has discharged his duties in that office has on more than one occasion elicited the commendation of both bench and bar.

He has always been a total abstemious, and has spent many years of his life in an endeavor to spread the cause of temperance.

For more than 15 years he was secretary of the Archdiocese Total Abstinence union, was three years its president, and at the present time is serving his second term as national secretary of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of America.

He is a member of the board of trustees of the State hospital at Foxboro, having been named by Governor Guild some months ago.

Mr. Mulready will probably start at once on his new duties, and his headquarters will be in the court house in Pemberton square.

BASEBALL CRAZY

Wild Excitement in New York Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The sporting world, augmented by thousands usually lukewarm or indifferent towards baseball, holds its breath today while New York and Chicago contend under extraordinary if not unique conditions in the last round of the struggle for the national league championship. For weeks owing to the closeness of the struggle interest has been maintained at fever pitch. Not only the "fans" but staid business and professional men laid aside all their engagements for the day and devoted their attention exclusively to the discussion of "prospects" and to an attempt to obtain for themselves advantageous places in the grand stands and bleachers at the polo grounds. Aside from the weather which could not have been more favorable chief interest, of course centered in the two teams which were to engage in the battle royal.

The Cubs reached the Grand Central station five minutes ahead of time this morning on the Twentieth Century limited express over the New York Central. The players were in fine fettle and in cheerful spirits, looking forward eagerly to the supreme battle of this afternoon. They went at once to the Hotel Somerset where they will make headquarters during their stay in this city. They were welcomed at the station by a large crowd of baseball enthusiasts, newspapermen, photographers and waiting passengers and received a cordial cheer.

It was announced that the line-up of the Chicago team this afternoon would probably be identical with that on the day when the disputed game was played, as follows:

Hayden, rf; Evers, 2b; Schulte, lf; Chance, 1b; Steinfeldt, 3b; Hoffman, cf; Tucker, ss; Kling, c; Preister, p.

CITY IS CRAZY

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—New York is baseball crazy today. Elections, war rumors in the Balkans and everything has been forgotten. No one talks of anything but baseball and the probable outcome of this afternoon's game between the New Yorks and the Chicago. With the Chicago team speeding across the country as fast as steam could bring them, New Yorkers talked themselves hoarse last night and only stopped that they might rest their voices for the demands that will be made upon them at the Polo grounds this afternoon.

The situation is unique in baseball history. Both the Cubs and Giants have finished the season with a percentage of .611, tied for the precious bit of hunting that means so much to the winner in the National league. On the result of today's game hangs the success or failure of a season's hard work.

Never before have two teams been tied for the championship at the end of the race. Never before has the race been so close. Never has it been necessary to play off the tie of six months baseball in a single gigantic battle.

"That the game will be a struggle to death is certain for the town is in the grip of the greatest excitement, fraught with nervous prostration."

On past performances the pitchers look like "Christy" Mathewson and Browne, he of the three fingers. Matty has not pitched since he twirled against Philadelphia on Saturday. However, he looks drawn and tired and it is still doubtful whether he will be in the box. Mathewson has not beaten Browne in two years, having pitched in several close games, where his luck broke bad. This superstitious influence may have its effect on the selection of the twirlers. No class on earth are greater patrons of the god of luck than ball players. Then Chicago may use Reubach who has not had a run scored against him in the last nine games that he has pitched.

Many nightworkers early this morning went directly from their places of employment to the grounds. It is freely predicted on all sides that thousands will be turned away and that all records for attendance will be shattered. Many persons went to the grounds at 5 and 6 o'clock this morning and thus obtained a good position on the line. The gates will open at noon and undoubtedly be closed long before the game starts at three o'clock.

The batting order of the New York team was announced as follows: Tenney, 1b; Herzog, 2b; Bresnahan, c; Donlin, rf; Seymour, cf; Devlin, 3b; McCormick, lf; Bridwell, ss; Mathewson, p.

Manager McGraw said today that he had no thought of any outcome of the game but the victory for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Fay, of Blossom street, are rejecting over the arrival of a ten-pound daughter, and are receiving congratulations from their many friends.

NEW YORK NATIONAL LEAGUE TEAM

The New York players in this group are as follows: 1, Taylor; 2, Tenney; 3, McCormick; 4, Herzog; 5, Donlin; 6, Bridwell; 7, Needham; 8, Seymour; 9, Doyle; 10, Barry; 11, Wilson; 12, Witte; 13, Devlin; 14, Mathewson; 15, McGinnity; 16, Ames; 17, Bresnahan; 18, McGraw; 19, Marquard.

WILDER AND COE

Are Tied for the Golf Medal

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—H. H. Wilder and J. W. Coe, both Harvard golfers, tied at Brae-Burn yesterday for the gold medal offered by the Intercollegiate Golf association for the lowest score made in the qualifying round at 34 holes for the individual championship of the organization.

Their score was 130 and both were 51 in the morning and 78 in the afternoon. They will play off later in the week for the medal. Another score under 90 was made by Templeton Briggs of Harvard, who was 78 in the morning and led the field for the first 13 holes. The qualifying scores ran from 130 to 174, and at the latter figures three players were tied for two places and had to play off hole by hole until one of them was dropped.

R. Y. Hayne of Yale made a 78 in the afternoon and C. L. Lennigan of Harvard scored 81 each round. C. E. Van Vleet, Jr., of Yale was 90 in the second round. The totals showed creditable play, though the condition were right for low scoring, no wind and the greens very true.

H. H. Wilder and J. W. Coe had very even rounds, made by steady play with no luck in getting down long putts to speak of. The draw of the first 16 for match play brought together two Harvard men at the top of the drawing, Coe vs. Morgan, and two Harvard men at the bottom of the draw, Wilder vs. Sweeney; Hayne and McGraw, both of Yale, also were drawn together.

Six Harvard men qualified, five Yale.

three Princeton and two Williams players. The matches today will be at 18 holes, while on Friday the semi-final will be played at 36 holes and the final on Saturday, also at 36 holes.

The best ball of the 24 players was as follows:

Out 1st 2nd 3rd 4th 5th 6th 7th 8th 9th 10th 11th 12th 13th 14th 15th 16th 17th 18th 19th 20th 21st 22nd 23rd 24th

In 1st 2nd 3rd 4th 5th 6th 7th 8th 9th 10th 11th 12th 13th 14th 15th 16th 17th 18th 19th 20th 21st 22nd 23rd 24th

Several players did the first and second holes in 1st; also the third in 3 and the fourth in 4; Sweeney and Lennigan of Harvard and Roberts of Princeton did the fifth in 2; Merriam of Yale and Lanigan did the sixth in 3; McAdoo of Princeton did the seventh in 2; several did the eighth in 4, and Merriam and Atkinson the long ninth hole in 4.

Jackson and Sweeney were 1 at the 10th; Woodin and Hunt 4 at the 11th; several were 4 at the 12th; Merriam and Morgan were 3 at the 13th; McAdoo alone did the 14th in 3; several were 4 at the 15th; Hayne, Wilder, Coe and Lanigan were 2 at the 16th; Hayne did the 17th in 2 both times, and Woodin and Roberts also were 2 at this hole in one of their rounds; Briggs and Roberts held the home hole in 3.

J. H. GUILLET

Chosen as Treasurer of the French-American Historical Society

There was a number of local French-American citizens present at the tenth annual meeting of the Societe Historique Franco-Americaine held at the Boston City club in Boston Tuesday night. J. H. Guillet of this city was elected treasurer to succeed L. P. Turcotte of this city, who resigned the office.

BOSTON RED SOX

To Be Managed by Fred Lake

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—The baseball season closed in Boston yesterday. Pres. John F. Taylor saw the double-header at the Huntington avenue grounds and after the game said:

"Our club was patronized in splendid shape on the home grounds, while on the road the team was a general favorite."

"I appreciate the support of the Boston lovers of the game."

"I think I have good reason to hope that the Red Sox will cut an important figure in the race next season, as our boys are young and are bound to improve. In any event I will do my level best to bring about such a result."

When asked if Fred Lake would be retained as manager of the club of next season, Pres. Taylor smiled and said: "Mr. Lake has given entire satisfaction. Since he took the team it has won 23 games and lost 13, which certainly is a fine showing. With a good start I feel confident that Mr. Lake will make one of the most successful managers in the business."

It can be put down as a fact that the native son manager will be given an opportunity to train and pick out his men for the hard work next season. Lake knows baseball, is a tireless worker, and is absolutely loyal to any cause that he follows.

Starbird orchestra will play at the social and dance at Hibernian hall, Friday night.

TEXTILE ELEVEN

No Match for St. Mark's School

SOUTHBROR, Oct. 8.—St. Mark's overwhelmingly defeated Lowell Textile school yesterday afternoon, 30 to 0. The visitors were very weak in tackling and could not gain against the St. Mark's defense. In the first half St. Mark's received the kickoff and scored in three minutes on a 40-yard run by Erving and line plunges by Rushmore and Woodhead. A little later Dewey recovered an onside kick and ran 50 yards for a touchdown.

In the second half the home team put in many substitutes, but made two touchdowns, nevertheless. Lowell got the ball on the two-yard line on a fumble, but could not score. Ervin, Armour, Rushmore, Hardy and Mudge played well. The summary:

DIAMOND NOTES

The story comes from Haverhill that Frank Connaughton of Lawrence, may manage the down-river club next season. The local fans would regret to see this player away from Lawrence next year, but as he has a non-reserve contract he has the power to go wherever he wants. Connaughton is popular in Haverhill, just as he is in every city in this league. He played great ball for the Lawrence team and to him is due much of the credit for the success of the team. Another story is that Old Man McParlin may manage the club.

Many Wilson has asked the Lawrence baseball management for his release. The Haverhill club means that he will probably play that big next season. Wilson realizes that there will be no chance for him. The Lawrence management will not give him his release as yet, anyway, as it would be unwise to do so. Wilson may be played in the right garden. Wilson has some good offers to play in another league and he wants to accept them.

Manager Hugh Duffy, formerly of Lowell, has resigned the following players for his 1909 Providence Grays: Jack Cronin, Phil Poland, Roy Root, Jack Phelan, Bob Peterson, George Eaton, Bill Silke, Harry Arndt, Harry Hoffman, Blackburn, Owen and "Chappie" Ward.

It has been announced in Chicago that it is the "Three I" league that seeks to induce old Cap Anson to return to baseball by offering to him the presidency of the league in place of Tom Loftus, who was president during the year just closed. When Loftus was elected he went in against his will, only desiring to bring about peace between warring factions. This he has apparently done.

After having regained his health to such an extent that he is again able to carry the burden of business cares, Frank G. Seale, the veteran baseball manager, who has been in Colorado for several years, yesterday purchased part interest in the St. James hotel, in Denver, and hereafter will be connected with the well known Curtis street hotel.

Mr. Seale is fascinating with the hotel business, and as assistant manager of the St. James, will have an opportunity to satisfy a desire he has cherished ever since his health broke down and he was rendered unfit physically to follow a ball team around the circuit. The St. James is well known throughout the country, especially to the sporting fraternity.

HELPFUL WORDS

From a Lowell Citizen

Is your back lame and painful?

Does it ache especially after exertion?

Is there a soreness in the kidney region?

These symptoms indicate weak kidneys.

There is danger in delay.

Weak kidneys fast get weaker.

Give your trouble prompt attention.

Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly.

They strengthen weak kidneys.

Read this Lowell testimony.

Mrs. James Johnston, living at 29 Bow-ers street, Lowell, Mass., says:

"About a year ago I had an attack of La Grippe which left my kidneys in a weakened condition. I suffered from pains across the small of my back and limbs, and noticed that the kidney secretions were unnatural in appearance."

Doan's Kidney Pills, which I obtained from Ellingwood & Co's drug store, helped me wonderfully and soon banished the backache. Other members of my family have used them and in each case the results have been of the best. I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers of kidney complaint."

13 PERSONS DEAD

A Big Explosion Occurred at Richford, Vt.

Many Persons Are Reported Injured — Grain Elevator Was Entirely Burned — Property Damage Estimated at $400,000

RICHFORD, Vt., Oct. 8.—An explosion of dust and gases in a large grain elevator, owned jointly by the Canadian Pacific and Boston & Maine railroads in this village, caused the death of at least 13 persons late yesterday afternoon, while it is possible that the death toll may be still further increased when the full extent of the disaster is known.

Of the victims 11 were men employed in the elevator; the other two were women who were walking on the railroad track nearby.

The fire destroyed not only the elevator building but a four shed and 75 freight cars which could not be removed from the danger zone. The property loss is estimated roughly at $400,000.

The explosion occurred at 4.35, while work was going on within the elevator. It is supposed that it was due to spontaneous combustion of the dry grain dust, ignited possibly by the sun's rays through a window.

With a concussion which could be heard for miles and which shook every building in the town, the roof of the great elevator was blown skyward, while flames burst from every window and door of the structure. The roof, or the greater part of it, was carried a long distance and fell in a field. Several freight cars which were standing on the tracks beside the building were thrown over and broken into a mass of wreckage and every person within a radius of a quarter of a mile of the structure was knocked off his feet and stunned.

Twenty-one men, all employees of the elevator, are known to have been in the building at the time. Of these all but 11 had been located as living late last night. Of the others, one body only was found. It was carried by the explosion 500 yards and was found in a field near the roof. The bodies of this man's companions are supposed to have been incinerated in the tremendous heat of the burning grain. The list of dead is as follows:

HEMAN LAHUE, 46 years old, married, leaves a family.

LUCIUS WRIGHT, 25 years old, married.

ROBERT MANDIGO, 22, married. W. C. BARNEY, 50, married and has several children.

RALPH HAIRE, 20, single. HERMAN NILES, 25, married. CHARLES HARROWS, 23, single. LOUIS PAPINEAU, 40, married. DOMA LAPORTE, 21, single.

TUTTLE. A workman, name unknown, who is known to have been in the building, and who is reported missing.

MRS. JELFORD. MRS. GUARD, aged 40.

These two women were walking on the track nearby and were probably stunned by the explosion. Both were living, though badly burned, when they were picked up by rescuers and taken to a neighboring house, but they died within a few hours.

Aside from these the only body thus far recovered is that of Robert Mandigo. He was at work near the top of the elevator. A short time before the explosion he was seen looking from a window near the roof. He was carried aloft when the explosion occurred and his body, lifeless and terribly mangled, was found late last night near the wreckage of the roof, far from the site of the building.

There is but one piece of fire apparatus, a hand engine, in this village, and this was entirely inadequate to cope with the blaze. Every part of the elevator was quickly enveloped in flames and in a very short time one of the two four sheds nearby was blazing. The firemen directed all their efforts to saving the second floor shed and it seemed probable at a late hour that they would succeed in stopping the fire there.

Freight cars on the tracks of the Canadian Pacific railroad also caught fire, and seventy-five of them were burned. There were no locomotives in the yard at the time, so that with the exception of a few cars which railroad men and citizens managed to push down the tracks beyond the reach of the flames, practically every piece of rolling stock in the yard was consumed.

The wreckage blocked the railroad tracks completely and it was necessary to send all trains over the Canadian Pacific by the way of Sherbrook, P. Q., although wrecking crews were early on the scene ready to begin work as soon as the metal work of the blazing cars cooled sufficiently.

The ten men who are known to have escaped from the elevator were all more or less burned, though none was believed to be in a serious condition. All had narrow escapes and were obliged to fight their way through the grain dust, flames and smoke to the doorway. The men who got out were all in the lower part of the structure. Every man who was working above the first floor is believed to have perished.

The elevator had a capacity of 500,000 bushels and is believed to have been nearly filled with oats, corn and wheat. Much of the oats was consigned to the Quaker Oats company at Chicago. The loss on the grain alone is estimated at $150,000 and the building cost $100,000 when built. It was 150 feet long and 5 feet wide and had a tower 15 feet high. It was the distributing depot for the Canadian Pacific and Boston & Maine railroads at the Canadian border.

The village of Richford, which has a population of only 1500, is hard hit by the fire and the scene around the burning elevator was one of desolation and woe last night. Mothers, wives and children of the men who were victims of the flames were gathered about, sobbing and wringing their hands in grief, while still hoping against hope that their missing loved ones would yet return.

Mrs. Guard and Mrs. Jelford, the two women who were burned, were new-comers to the village. They were wives of laborers but the exact names of their husbands could not be learned last night.

KING BOY HELD Is Charged With Pushing Lad Overboard

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 8.—Nelson King, Jr., aged 8, is under arrest, ostensibly accused of horse thieving, but actually charged with the death of a playmate, Ernest Souza, aged 7, whose body was found yesterday morning floating in the river near the foot of Masfield street.

King confesses he pushed the Souza boy overboard.

"He said he could swim," he said, "and I pushed him overboard to see if he could. I saw him come up once, and he put his hand out of the water, I didn't see him again. I looked around for him, and he was gone. So I went home."

The incident occurred Tuesday afternoon. When the Souza boy did not return, his father, John M. Souza, instituted a search. The little fellow's shoes were found yesterday morning, and later the body came to the surface of the water. There was no suspicion of foul play, but the King boy told Dr. Graves, a medical inspector in the schools, yesterday, and Dr. Graves notified the police. The boy retold the story yesterday.

The police have had trouble with the King boy for a year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson King of 141 Grinnell street. His mother has been employed in a laundry for several years and his father has been away much of the time. Last July he was accused of stealing a horse from James F. Hoye. This was the fifth offense of the kind charged to him, but he was regarded as too young to be put before the court.

The boy is now held on the old charge and the police are embarrassed at the situation. They do not know of an institution just calculated to receive him.

ARMED GUARDS Caught Prisoners Who Escaped From Fort

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 8.—A general alarm was sounded at Fort Adams late yesterday, following the escape of three military convicts who were at liberty for less than an hour. The prisoners are Privates Stone, Lator and Senay of the coast artillery. While at work in the cemetery, accompanied by an armed sentry, the men attacked the guardsman, Private Adela of the 9th coast artillery company, and after disarming him struck him over the head twice, rendering him unconscious. Adela picked up the alarm. All the officers and men attached to the station were dispatched to various points.

Lieut. Frank H. Phipps, who left the fort in an automobile, with three armed privates, overtook the fugitives on the fort road about a quarter of a mile from the station. The party in the automobile held up the fugitives at the points of rifles and revolvers and the three surrendered before a shot was fired.

The prisoners had been convicted by court martial on charges of desertion.

DAN'L CLOHECEY NO LONGER PRESIDENT OF THE HAVERHILL TEAM

HAVERHILL, Oct. 8.—Dan'l F. Clohecey, who has been president of the Haverhill baseball team of the England league, failed of reelection at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the association last night. W. R. Rich was elected president; Frank Amazeen, treasurer, and Albert M. Childs, secretary.

According to statements made at the meeting Courtney the rightfielder and Temple, first baseman, and outfielder, are about the only players left of the Haverhill team of the past season. Some of the others have been disposed of by Mr. Clohecey to different clubs and some are not held by a reserve clause in their contracts, and have signed elsewhere next year. Pitcher O'Brien, shortstop, and outfielder have been transferred to Lynn in exchange for Pitcher Verkes, and two other players from that city; the pony battery, Perkins and Fullerton, have been sold to Providence, and Bourdman, the third baseman, and Pitcher Girard, have been transferred to Lawrence. Billy Hamilton, who was not held by a reserve clause, has gone to Lynn.

HATHAWAY'S THEATRE

"In Dreamland," a dramatic fantasy by Emmett Devoy, holds a lot of novelty in store for Hathaway audiences this week. Mr. Devoy plays the leading male role, that of "Dab Hammond," a believer in the occult and a neglectful husband. But things rise and fall in time and when Devoy dreams that his wife is unfaithful to him, he decides to change his course in life. That's the skeleton frame-work of the play, but there are a hundred and one clever little surprises connected with the piece.

Charles F. Senon, a human snail, can no more help being funny than a bird can help flying. He plays on a hat tree, a one-stringed melle and a double flute, and extracts real music from them, too. His Scotch impersonation at the close is very funny. Other acts on this excellent bill are: Harlan Knight in "The Chalk Line"; Mueller and Mueller, the boys who sing the Dartmouth and other songs; Carey and Wagner, singers and dancers; Potter and Harris, gymnasts; and Alibi Gilbert, singing comedienne. The Hathaway has good pictures.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening, with an "In Dreamland" matinee, Saturday.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"The Lion and the Mouse," probably the most talked of play in America today, will be presented here again in this city tonight and under the direction of Henry B. Harris. Everyone who is interested and keenly alive to the influence wrought upon American politics by the moneyed interests, trusts and kings of finance, will appreciate Mr. Xlen's great drama. Briefly outlined, it relates the story of Shirley Rossmore, daughter of Judge Rossmore, a judge of excellent standing, who, through the rendering of decisions in opposition to the interests of a despot in the financial world, John Burket Ryder, known as "Ready Money" Ryder, is impeached by the latter and financially ruined. Ryder's son, Jefferson Ryder, and love with Judge Rossmore's daughter, Shirley, who has been in Europe. Upon her return, she finds her father ruined in reputation, broken in health and financially embarrassed as a result of this ruling. One barometer of the proof of Rossmore's innocence. That man is Ryder. Through his love for Miss Rossmore, Ryder's son, Jefferson Ryder, will prove morally. Discovering this, Ryder orders the girl from his house, in which she has become an inmate as the writer of his biography and under an assumed name, "The Lion and the Mouse," a striking and dramatic play, and although the love interest, seemingly subservient in the struggle, becomes the vital factor in a situation unconventional in its presentation and finely dramatic in its plot. The play is a masterpiece of the American drama which has scored the triumph of "The Lion and the Mouse" is no class of theatre goers who will not be interested in its theme or could fail to appreciate the wonderful lesson it teaches.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

"Dance in Arizona," which is being presented by the Deshon-Pitts Stock company at the Academy of Music this week, is full of thrilling scenes and incidents, but perhaps the most interesting of all is that in which the Indian camp is pictured in the shadow of the Rockies.

It is like a picture from one of Fenimore Cooper's works. In the foreground are the tents, the tanned skin walls glowing in the light of the camp fires. Beyond, like great giants with snowy locks, bend over the scene the Rockies in all the magnificence of their granite walls. Suddenly the scene springs to life. Two white prisoners are brought in and the Indians prepare for their sacrifice. The prisoners are tied to stakes and the funeral fires lighted. Then comes the most famous dance of the Indians, the ghost dance. And at the psychological moment a troop of galloping cowboys arrives and saves the victims from the fiendish fate awaiting them.

Miss Della Deshon is appearing in the title role of "Dance in Arizona," the little western girl who turns out to be a great English heiress, and is very pleasing. She cares for the difficulties of her part to the entire satisfaction of the audiences. Victor Horne makes a manly hero. Harry Brown plays Jim in an excellent manner. The production is handsomely staged by Charles D. Pitt.

THE LIFE OF AN ACTRESS

The success achieved by the new play, "The Life of an Actress," proves that there is just as good material at hand in our own country for the dramatist, as there is abroad, and it also proves that American play-goers will support liberally any domestic play that possesses originality enough to merit their attention. The play which aims to portray the odd characters, customs and incidents peculiar to different parts of the country, is worthy of consideration and support, and it is gratifying to find that "The Life of an Actress" has met with such successful success. This attraction will be seen at the Opera House, October 8th and 9th, with a matinee Saturday.

FRANK LALOR

Unusual interest has already manifested itself in the forthcoming appearance of Frank Lalor in his new musical comedy, "Prince Humbug," which will occur at the Opera House next Wednesday afternoon and evening. Mr. Lalor is exceedingly popular with theatre-goers of Lowell, and due to his very successful performance of "Nitt, the Tailor," in "Comet Taro" the Rye, which he has presented so frequently in this city during the past few seasons. He comes at this time in a new musical comedy which is said to be better in every particular than his previous vehicle, in which he is given opportunities to indulge his fun-making propensities to the fullest extent. Mr. Lalor is surrounded by a very large company, said to number eighty people among whom are comedians and vocalists of recognized excellence. There is a large chorus and ballet which the Boston Globe says is about the best and best looking aggregation of girls that has appeared in that city in a very long time. The scenery, costumes, electrical and mechanical effects are all said to be exceedingly beautiful, with many surprising novelties, and the entire production is generally regarded as one of the very best that has been brought forward in this country. The musical score of "Prince Humbug" is given rise to more than ordinary favorable comment by Boston critics. In view of all that is known of Mr. Lalor's new piece, there can be no doubt whatever that all who attend the performances at the Opera House next Wednesday afternoon and night, will be amply compensated. The sale of the seats opens Saturday morning.

MARIE DORO

Miss Marie Doro, now in her second season, as a star under the direction of Charles Frohman, will appear at the Opera House next Tuesday evening, Oct. 7th. In a new comedy by Gavanth and Morton, authors of "My Wife," the new play, "The Rich Girl," which is adapted admirably to her winsome and appealing personality as well as to her histrionic traits which have served to advance her steadily in a critical eye of the theatre-going public. As "Bodilene Monnier," only daughter of "Minnie, the chocolate king," Miss Doro has a role which is so odd and warren-

JIM PROKOS

FINISHED JACK CROSBY IN PRETTY QUICK TIME

In one of the roughest wrestling matches ever witnessed at the Columbia theatre, Boston, last night, Jim Prokos, the Greek grappler, defeated Jack Crosby of Lynn. The first fall was won by Prokos in 19 minutes. Crosby was awarded the second fall on a foul. Prokos had been warned three times to desist in his unfair methods, and when the referee was committed to his corner and decided the fall in Crosby's favor, Prokos rushed at the Lynn man in the final fall, and picking him up bodily, threw him to the floor, gaining a fall in less than half a minute. Crosby was helpless for some time after the match.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

At a meeting of the Association of Athletes held Tuesday night it was voted to donate $25 to the French American orphanage and also considering the disposition of business it was decided to run the usual festival given every fall.

Lady Franklin, council, 17, president of the Liberty, met in regular session with a good attendance last night. The meeting was opened by the committee, then by Grace Hurd. The meeting closed in song. There was a large attendance of the ladies and staff.

Local 322 of the steam engineers held its first meeting of the fall last night. Two applications were received and one candidate was initiated. The organization voted to march in the labor parade of Wednesday night and also the committee on the ball reported progress. The educational meetings, which have been so helpful and instructive, will begin again on the second Wednesday in November.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

"Dance in Arizona," which is being presented by the Deshon-Pitts Stock company at the Academy of Music this week, is full of thrilling scenes and incidents, but perhaps the most interesting of all is that in which the Indian camp is pictured in the shadow of the Rockies.

It is like a picture from one of Fenimore Cooper's works. In the foreground are the tents, the tanned skin walls glowing in the light of the camp fires. Beyond, like great giants with snowy locks, bend over the scene the Rockies in all the magnificence of their granite walls. Suddenly the scene springs to life. Two white prisoners are brought in and the Indians prepare for their sacrifice. The prisoners are tied to stakes and the funeral fires lighted. Then comes the most famous dance of the Indians, the ghost dance. And at the psychological moment a troop of galloping cowboys arrives and saves the victims from the fiendish fate awaiting them.

Miss Della Deshon is appearing in the title role of "Dance in Arizona," the little western girl who turns out to be a great English heiress, and is very pleasing. She cares for the difficulties of her part to the entire satisfaction of the audiences. Victor Horne makes a manly hero. Harry Brown plays Jim in an excellent manner. The production is handsomely staged by Charles D. Pitt.

THE LIFE OF AN ACTRESS

The success achieved by the new play, "The Life of an Actress," proves that there is just as good material at hand in our own country for the dramatist, as there is abroad, and it also proves that American play-goers will support liberally any domestic play that possesses originality enough to merit their attention. The play which aims to portray the odd characters, customs and incidents peculiar to different parts of the country, is worthy of consideration and support, and it is gratifying to find that "The Life of an Actress" has met with such successful success. This attraction will be seen at the Opera House, October 8th and 9th, with a matinee Saturday.

FRANK LALOR

Unusual interest has already manifested itself in the forthcoming appearance of Frank Lalor in his new musical comedy, "Prince Humbug," which will occur at the Opera House next Wednesday afternoon and evening. Mr. Lalor is exceedingly popular with theatre-goers of Lowell, and due to his very successful performance of "Nitt, the Tailor," in "Comet Taro" the Rye, which he has presented so frequently in this city during the past few seasons. He comes at this time in a new musical comedy which is said to be better in every particular than his previous vehicle, in which he is given opportunities to indulge his fun-making propensities to the fullest extent. ENGLISH EDITOR Comes to Study American Journalism

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Lord Northcliffe, better known as Alfred Harmsworth, proprietor of the London Times and some fifty-five other publications, has sailed for America for a vacation and to study American Journalism at close range. He has just completed an arduous season's work, chief of which was the reorganization of the Times, which he hopes to turn into a modern newspaper. He has done more toward modernizing the English press than any other man.

REPUBLICANS Have Decided to Tax Federal Employees

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Encouraged by J. P. Morgan's recent donation of $20,000 to the campaign fund, the republican managers have hit upon a new scheme to increase the fund. Each one of the 500 customs inspectors at this port is asked to contribute $2.

It is said the campaign fund is the smallest in years and the managers are becoming nervous, and according to reports Roosevelt sees no harm in the scheme to tax federal employees.

JOHN W. HEALEY

CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF MUSKETQUAD CANOE CLUB

The quarterly meeting of the Musketquad Canoe club was held Monday. The principal business of the meeting was the election of officers for the ensuing term which resulted in John W. Healey being unanimously elected president. Joseph J. Collins was chosen vice president and James B. Broderick, secretary and treasurer.

It was decided to put a football team in the field this fall and also a basketball team, and to further that end Timothy Lynch, a well known student of the Textile school, was appointed chairman of the athletic committee, with John J. Shanley, George F. Cullen and George W. Burrows as his assistants on the committee. Mr. Lynch will leave nothing undone to put one of the fastest football and basketball teams in the city on the field this season.

After the meeting a program was enjoyed by the members. There were selections by John J. Shanley, George W. Burrows, Walter Brown and remarks by Harry Heaton and Fred Maguire.

SUPT. CHAS. MORSE ORDERED BY TURKEY TO GREEK

Of Street Dept. to Push Mer- rimack Street Sewer Job

Unless the unforeseen happens, Charles F. Morse, superintendent of streets, will get to work on the sewer in Merrimack square within the next two weeks and he will push the job with all his might.

It has been said that the chipmunk is the only thing in the world that can dig a hole in the ground without making any dirt, and Mr. Morse will attempt to imitate the little chipmunk.

In the first place the proposition is to lower the sewer from John to Bridge streets in Merrimack street. The sewer is now 12 feet deep and it will be lowered five feet, making it 17 feet in all.

Mr. Morse proposes to work three eight-hour shifts each day, so that gangs will be working day and night, and if necessary he will put on extra help.

He will have an arrangement to carry the dirt overhead so that when it is removed from one place it will be emptied as filling in another place.

He will start by digging up probably 50 feet at a stretch and then he will start back-filling. The dirt from the first excavation will be used on the back fill so that at no time will there be piles of dirt in the square, such piles as are common in sewer work.

Mr. Morse is anxious to lower the sewer this fall because Merrimack street is to be paved next spring or summer and it is necessary that the sewer should be laid now in order to give it time to settle before paving operations are begun.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 8.—The proclamation of the union of the island of Crete with Greece was not accepted by Turkey without retaliation. It is reported here today that the Turkish government has ordered four of its warships which are at Smyrna to proceed to Samos. Samos is a Greek island and pays an annual tribute to Turkey.

The Greek minister to Turkey today presented to the port authorities a communication from his government announcing that Crete had spontaneously proclaimed the union of that island with Greece.

He said that Greece was not responsible for the proceedings of the Creteans and he expressed the hope that this action would not disturb the present friendly relations between the two powers. It is feared here that this hope can hardly be realized.

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—The German foreign office, taking cognizance of the efforts of London and Paris to make it appear that the German government was in some way responsible for the Bulgarian declaration of independence and the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria-Hungary, today repudiated these suggestions. The Associated Press was informed in a note that the German government was completely surprised as anybody at recent developments and that the resulting situation is highly unsatisfactory to Germany.

FOUR LIVES LOST

Young Men Were Asphyxiated by Illuminating Gas

WATERBURY, Conn., Oct. 8.—Illuminating gas, leaking into and permeating sleeping rooms in an Italian boarding-house on Bank street here, killed four young Italian men for the first time today and but for the opportune passing by the house of Antonio Demarco on his way home the dead might have been more than twice that number.

Besides the dead, eight men and two women were found either unconscious, or partly so from the gas fumes which they had breathed in when the police whom Demarco had called entered the house. One of the women is the wife of the proprietor. All of those still living were taken outside by the police and medical aid was summoned. Fear of the affected persons quickly recovered sufficiently to go to the homes of friends but six others only slowly responded to the doctor's efforts.

Mrs. Santoro was sent to a hospital. Demarco told the police that his attention was first attracted to the house by moans and groaning which he heard issuing from it. Thinking that something was wrong he summoned two policemen and with them went to the place, which is a three-story affair. As the men approached the house the odor of gas became increasingly strong and when they attempted to go inside they found it impossible to do so until they had allowed the doors to stand wide open for a while. On entering they found in a room on the first floor two men in a bed, dead, a third dead man in another bed and a fourth on the floor, his position indicating apparently that he had tried to reach a window.

The medical examiner and the deputy coroner were notified and at once began an investigation.

NEW GOVERNOR

Took Oath Of Office at Montpelier, Vt. Today

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 8.—The members of the senate and house of representatives of the Vermont general assembly met jointly in the hall of the latter body for the ceremony of taking the oath of office by Governor-elect George H. Prouty and his assumption of the reins of government from the outgoing governor, Fletcher Proctor.

The accounting of Gov. Proctor over the affairs of the state came at the close of the forenoon sessions of the two legislative bodies. His retiring message summed up the work of the several state departments and noted the present financial condition of the state. Recommendations for improvement along various lines were made, suggestions were offered for the conservation of the state's natural resources, particularly the timber lands and agricultural and educational questions were treated at some length.

Gov. Prouty's declaration of fealty to the state's interests was part of the afternoon's program.

FUNERALS

MAXWELL—Largely attended by relatives and friends, including business and social acquaintances of many years standing, the funeral of the late Postmaster Charles S. Maxwell took place yesterday afternoon from his home in Elm street, North Billerica. The cortege proceeded to the Baptist church of that village, where services of an impressive nature were held. Rev. Chester H. Howe officiating. Within the church was a large gathering, and musical selections were rendered by a quartet composed of Miss Florence R. Ruth, Mrs. Herbert B. Ellis, James Ritchie and Herbert B. Ellis. Miss Ella M. Reilly presided at the organ. At the conclusion of the service a touching eulogy on the life of deceased was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Howe. The lid of the casket containing the remains was raised at the church, many taking advantage of the opportunity of viewing the remains for the last time.

TO TEST LAW

PREVENTING CORPORATIONS GIVING CAMPAIGN FUNDS

HONOLULU, Oct. 8.—The constitutionality of the enactment prohibiting corporations from contributing to campaign funds is being attacked in a case now before United States district Judge Dole. The ground taken in the objection is that the act affects the free press of the country and that the corporation is a creature of the state and that the resulting situation is highly unsatisfactory to Germany.

Y. M. C. A. STAR COURSE

The Whitney Brothers male quartet with Edwin M. Whitney as reader, will give the first concert in the course, arranged by the Young Men's Christian association, and held at the First Congregational church this, Thursday evening. They are sure to please. It is rare to find in one family four gifted brothers; rare also to find four brothers with voices so attuned that they can assume the several parts in a quartet, and still retain to find such close sympathy and team work which enables them to give a program of such beauty and harmony. One of the brothers is an accompanist of distinction; another is one of the best readers on the platform. The Whitney quartet is a unique, artistic and complete. The plans for the concert is furnished by Grunewald. The entertainment begins at eight o'clock.

MATRIMONIAL

A very pretty wedding took place yesterday morning at the rectory of the Immaculate Conception church, the contracting parties being Mr. Michael H. O'Keefe, the popular financial secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Miss Mary K. McLaughlin. A nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. J. P. Reynolds, O. M. I., who solemnized the marriage. The bride, daintily gowned in white dotted silk was attended by Miss Susie L. O'Keefe, who wore white silk tulle. While Mr. William J. McLaughlin acted as best man. After the service, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother. The young couple left on an extended trip to New York, Philadelphia and Washington, and on their return will be at home to their friends after Nov. 15th.

CHAS. SEAWARD

DIED AT HIS HOME IN MALDEN

Charles W. Seaward, known all over the country in newspaper circles by reason of his connection with Mergenthauser linotype machines, died at his home in Malden, Tuesday night.

He was but 49 years of age, and was born in Clinton, spent part of his youth in Kittery, Me., and later lived in Cleveland and New York, being the traveling agent of the linotype machine company. Besides his wife and two children, the youngest being born but a week ago, he leaves his mother, who resided with him.

He was a member of the Old Fellows, Knights of Pythias and Masons and of Boston Typographical Union No. 13.

Mr. Seaward set up the new linotype machine recently installed in The Lowell Sun office.

BRYAN AND TAFT OUT FOR SENATOR

Met at Same Banquet Table in Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—William H. Taft and William J. Bryan, rival candidates for the presidency of the United States, met last night at the fourth annual banquet of the Chicago association of Commerce.

Mr. Bryan, having been in Chicago all day, was the first to arrive at the banquet hall in the Auditorium hotel. Mr. Taft, having delivered a speech at the opening of the deep waterways convention in the forenoon, went to Galesburg, Ill., to deliver another address during the afternoon, and returned to Chicago last night after the banquet was well under way.

Intense interest in the meeting had been manifested since it first became known that the two candidates were to meet in public, and every seat in three banquet halls, thrown together for the occasion, was occupied when the first course was served, save only a conspicuous chair reserved for Mr. Taft.

An ear-splitting shout gave warning of the arrival of Mr. Taft. Mr. Bryan in common with every one else, rose and looked toward the entrance. A huge, frame, moving like a ship, announced a swarm of tags, came slowly up the narrow aisle between two tables. These at a distance occasionally caught a glimpse of a smiling face, acknowledging greetings. Mr. Bryan turned his head slowly as his political rival drew near, smiling slightly.

Bryan's Hand Awaited Taft's. The dramatic moment, which had been anticipated with such deep interest, was soon over. Mr. Bryan's hand awaited that of Mr. Taft. A simple, unobtrusive, a word or so which none could overhear because of the tumult, and the republican leader passed on to a chair at the right of President Hall of the association.

The cheering subsided for a minute or so after that at the speaker's table had taken their seats. At the first moment the noise subsided, Mr. Bryan, leaning to the left, and smiling broadly, asked Mr. Taft if he had had a good day.

This display of friendliness on the part of the two candidates started the crowd to repeated cheering, and words were useless in the din. Mr. Taft smiled his throat for answer. Then Taft laughed and the applause increased.

"What is the matter with Bill?"

cried some one in stentorian tones.

"He's all right."

"Who's all right?"

"Bill's all right."

It took music by the orchestra and a song by the guests to restore a semblance of quiet. When talking in ordinary tones became possible the two candidates entered into an animated conversation, in which President Hall joined. The speeches of both Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan were non-partisan. This was in consonance with the wishes of the association, which is non-partisan.

Toastmaster Lauds Bryan

When the last course of the dinner had been served, both of the distinguished guests were kept busy signing menu cards. Meanwhile the banquet hall remained in good natured disorder. Through it all the two candidates labored with smiling fortitude, signing their names. The tumult which began with the entrance of Mr. Taft lasted for 45 minutes.

Besides Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan, the speakers of the evening were A. C. Bartlett and David P. Morgan. Mr. Bartlett was the first speaker and Mr. Morgan was sandwiched between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Taft. In introducing Mr. Bryan, President Hall of the Chamber of Commerce said:

"As I look on my distinguished associates I am forced to resort to the familiar pronunciation of the word 'lover.' How happy could I be with either. How happy could I be with either. How happy could I be with either. The evolution of politics has brought to a commanding place in the eyes of Nebraska. His life has been an honorable progress from the day he received his degree from his alma mater to the hour of his choice as standard-bearer of one of the great national parties by leaders of enthusiastic countrymen. With the principles of an American, he has sought and held leadership in a career of courage, fidelity and kindness. Millions accept his captaining, the energy of his service, the purity of his patriotism. Gentlemen, Mr. Bryan."

Praises Taft's Life Work

The introduction of Mr. Taft follows: "In the fortunes of war, we are called upon to assume to lead them to the lofty eminence of American civilization. For the accomplishment of this purpose the president sent to the Bill a typical citizen and eminent counselor and a man with courage of his convictions. He accomplished the high purpose of his mission, winning both the confidence of his constituents and the love and gratitude of the people. He is a success and a hero. I am proud of his every effort in an active life as citizen, jurist, politician and cabinet officer. Through all his career and in our insular possessions, he has stood for the integrity of his government and the majesty of right. Gentlemen, Mr. Taft."

BERNIE WEFERS

FORMER LOWELL BOY IS COACHING COLUMBIA

"Bernie" Wefers, formerly of Lowell, who at one time resided in Central near Cady street has begun his duties as trainer of the Columbia cross-country and track and field men.

More than 80 men came out in response to the first call for candidates, and if the quality comes up to the quantity, Wefers thinks that he will put a good team on the field next spring and have a fair representation in the cross-country runs next month. The track men who reported, were mostly freshmen and sophomores, and they are training for the interclass meet.

George V. Bonhag, with L. C. Hall,

The names on his papers include republican candidates for office, democratic councilmen and democratic precinct officers, gentlemen of leisure and saloon keepers.

The gentlemen of the board of registrars of voters were busily engaged in forgoing out the names, submitted by Mr. Carroll, when The Sun reporter dropped in on them this forenoon.

They allowed that Mr. Carroll had presented the greatest variety that ever found a resting place in that office and it was suggested that Carroll be called the "Heineke candidate" because of the many varieties.

Mr. Carroll is fairly well known as a stump, street corner, common, city park, grass plot or soap box speaker and he is conceded to be one of the most earnest socialists in this section of the country.

With all due respect to the memory of the late "Tommy" Burns, whose stentorian tones, magnified by megaphone medium, filled the streets of Lowell, in days gone by, with a melodious offering of "peace, peace and after life," Tommy was never in it for a minute with "Bill" Carroll who promises to preach from the house tops through a megaphone.

They do say that Carroll has been urged into the contest by Mr. Hibbard's republican friends in order to take some votes from Rep. O'Donnell, the democratic candidate, but we surmise that Mr. O'Donnell's record will win for him not only the full democratic vote but enough republicans to elect him in spite of the combined opposition of Joe Hibbard and Socialist Carroll.

W. C. T. U.

Mrs. E. Florence Soile, who is stopping on School street during the W. C. T. U. state convention, was taken suddenly ill yesterday and is confined to her room. She resides in Dorchester. She is the assistant treasurer and office secretary of the W. C. T. U. She overworked herself yesterday and also is a victim of a severe cold. She has already made many friends in Lowell by her courteous and obliging ways and is considered one of the most earnest and willing workers in attendance at the convention now being held in Lowell.

The annual report of the state-treasurer, Mrs. Isabel A. Morse, which was scheduled on the program to be read at Tuesday afternoon's session, was by vote omitted until today and was read at Tuesday afternoon's session.

Yesterday in the dining-room of the First Baptist church there was a meeting of the superintendents and those who are to participate in the "Y" and "L. T. L." demonstrations of this evening. Mrs. Emily Sullivan of the Lowell Y. W. C. A., who is a member of the local committee, has agreed to furnish the necessary chairs for tonight's demonstrations. There are 30 superintendents and 40 departments in the state engaged in children's work, which is classified as preventive, educational, legal, organization and social.

CLAMOR FOR WAR

Scenes of Wild Enthusiasm Witnessed in Belgrade

BELGRADE, Oct. 8.—The clamor for war with Austria-Hungary because of the occupation of Bosnia and Herzegovina is growing hot and scenes of wild enthusiasm are being witnessed on the streets of Belgrade. This morning a mob of demonstrators forced its way to the precincts of the palace and demanded to see King Peter. Troops and gendarmes finally had to be called out. They surrounded the palace and had to charge several times before the war fevered patriots would disperse.

The patriots are very much dissatisfied with the tone of the protest of Serbia against the occupation of Bosnia and Herzegovina. They declare it does not represent the feeling of the nation which would rather go to war than acquiesce in this act of Austria-Hungary.

There is a steady flow of telegrams from the interior assuring the government of support in the shape of money, men and arms in the event of hostilities.

DECLARED A DIVIDEND

PARSONS KAS, Oct. 8.—The board of directors of Missouri, Kansas and Texas R. R. today declared the regular semi-annual dividend of two per cent on the preferred stock.

An attachment in the sum of $5000 was filed against Emma Desmarais at the court house in Gorham street, yesterday. The plaintiff is Marie Tasse Marineau and the action is one of tort. The case will be heard in the superior court at Cambridge in December.

The writ was filed by Sheriff Charles A. Bouchet and J. H. Gaultier as attorney for the plaintiff.

It is understood that the attachment is based on the case heard in police court this morning.

CRIES OF MURDER ARMORY GOSSIP

Company C Held Meeting Last Night

There was a largely attended meeting and drill of Company C last night at the business meeting, arrangements were perfected for the holding of the annual drill party at the armory on Wednesday night next. The band of the 10th regiment will furnish music for the dancing.

Co. G will hold its meeting and drill tonight, and Co. K tomorrow night.

Co. M of this city will participate in the Ninth regimental shoot at the state rifle range in Wakefield tomorrow. If McNulty's command is successful in bringing back first prize it will be a great card for the Lowell militia, as Co. K won first prize in Co. C second prize in the recent regimental shoot of the Sixth regiment.

Armory Carr is frequently the recipient of phone calls asking what the different local companies hold drill at the Westford street armory. For the benefit of those interested it might here be stated that Co. M holds drills weekly on Tuesday nights; Co. C on Wednesday nights; Co. G on Thursday nights and Co. K on Friday nights.

The militia boys at the armory are beginning to talk up indoor athletic sports and already basketball practice is being indulged in. The alleys are not in good shape for the holding of a military bowling tournament and need repairing. Better still, new and up-to-date alleys should be installed in place of the old ones which have almost outworn their usefulness to the military knights of the wooden spheroid and pins.

The outdoor shooting season came to an end on Saturday last at the Dracut range as far as the Lowell boys at the armory are concerned.

FOUR DROWNED

Launch Picked Up by a Pilot Boat

LEWES, Del., Oct. 8.—The steam pilot boat Philadelphia picked up yesterday afternoon outside the Delaware breakwater a launch named Flicker with two men clinging to the bottom of the upturned craft. It is reported that four men were drowned. The pilot boat returned to sea and the report cannot be confirmed until it returns. A thick fog prevails.

COLLIER AJAX REPAIRED

MELBOURNE, Oct. 8.—The United States collier Ajax which is accompanying the battleship fleet around the world, has been repaired and sailed for Manila today.

CONCORD MAN

COMES TO LOWELL TO ACCEPT A POSITION

F. A. Wilson, who for the last two years has been associated with the Concord branch of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. as chief operator, has left Concord, called higher, and hereafter will travel for the company as office inspector, having headquarters in Lowell.

Mr. Wilson's successor in the Concord office is Miss Frances Johnson, a very competent Concord woman, who has been with the company locally for a number of years. Through all its changes and vicissitudes, Miss Johnson has been the one permanent fixture. She was there when there were but two employees of the company, and now she is head operator when the working force has been increased to thirty.

On last Saturday morning, when Mr. Wilson repaired to his room to pack his effects before leaving, he found a beautiful large alligator traveling case, complete in every way, the kind gift of those with whom he had labored during his sojourn in Concord—Concord, N. H. Patriot.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. William H. Giblin, the well known and popular clerk at the post office was united in marriage yesterday afternoon to Miss Mary G. Gill. A prominent young lady of St. Patrick's parish. The ceremony was performed at 4:30 o'clock at the parochial residence of St. Patrick's church by Rev. John J. McHugh.

Mr. Michael F. Giblin, a brother of the groom, acted as best man and Miss Caroline McGarvey was bridesmaid.

Immediately after the marriage ceremony the happy couple repaired to Walker street, where a reception was held. A repast was served and an excellent musical and literary program was carried out during the evening. The Colonial orchestra was in attendance and pleasing music was discoursed.

Mr. and Mrs. Giblin left on the 9:30 train midst a shower of confetti and rice while a large placard bearing the inscription "Just Married" occupied a very prominent position on the rear of the hack and it was later removed and placed in front of the newly married couple while they were waiting for the train.

FUNERALS

LYONS.—The funeral of William J. Lyons took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of his parents, No. 8 North Franklin street. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery. Chas. H. Molloy & Sons in charge.

LALLY.—The funeral of Elizabeth Lally took place yesterday afternoon from the home of the parents of the deceased, 54 Chambers street. The interment was in St. Peter's cemetery, under the direction of Undertaker John A. Finnegan.

FUNERAL NOTICES

GAGAN.—The funeral of Mrs. A. Gagan will take place Saturday morning from the funeral chapel of J. P. O'Donnell & Sons, at 520 Mass. St. at 9 o'clock. J. P. O'Donnell & Sons, undertakers.

WAGNER.—Died in Dracut, Oct. 7. Mrs. Margaret Wagner, 65 years old. Burial will be held at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. L. Sunderland, 174 Lakeview avenue on Saturday morning at 10 a.m. Burial in Connecticut. Friends invited. J. B. Currier Co. in charge.

MRS. E. FLORENCE SOULE

Assistant treasurer and office secretary of W. C. T. U. and one of the busiest women in the convention. She was taken ill as a result of overwork after the opening of the convention and got a great welcome when she reappeared among the delegates today.

THE B. & M. ROAD

Defendant in Suit in Superior Court

A case that had its beginning in the police court is having another chapter added in the superior civil court, in Gorham street. It's a case of alleged false arrest. The plaintiff is William Cassidy and the Boston & Maine railroad is the defendant. Cassidy, some time ago, was arrested by Officer Pelletier of the Boston & Maine for the alleged larceny of coal and now Mr. Cassidy is seeking to recover for false arrest.

John T. Mathewson is counsel for the plaintiff and Fred N. Wier for the defendant. The case was on at the time of the noon adjournment.

AT ST. PETER'S

HOLY NAME TO MEET THIS EVENING

The regular weekly meeting of St. Peter's Holy Name society is scheduled for tonight in the Fair hall when the plans for the centennial parade will be pushed forward. Pres. Coyne, Rev. Fr. Burns, the spiritual director, and the other officers are most enthusiastic over the prospects for a big turnout and hence a big attendance is anticipated.

A PROTEST

LOWELL PEOPLE CALLED ON PRES. TUTTLE

Persons who have occasion to use the trains over the Boston & Maine railroad between here and Boston are much perturbed because of the changes in the time table, changes that greatly inconvenience Lowell people. On a train going to Boston a few mornings ago a Lowell man took a poll of the sentiment relative to the change of time and the sentiment was so strong against the change that when the train arrived in Boston, 40 men marched in a body to President Tuttle's office and protested against the poor service. Mr. Tuttle listened to what the 40 perturbed ones had to say and he explained to them that the road was obliged to make certain changes in order to reduce expenses; a reduction, he said, that was absolutely necessary.

He promised, however, that he would look into the matter and do better by Lowell if it is possible so to do.

THE DEMOCRATS

SHOULD SEE THAT THEIR NAMES ARE ON VOTING LIST

The democratic city committee calls the attention of democrats desirous of voting for their candidates at the approaching election that unless they register they cannot vote, and it behooves them not to slight registration. The democrats should take this matter up at once and if their names are not on the list they should go to city hall and make themselves eligible to vote on election day.

HON. J. B. CASEY

Formally Enters the Mayoralty Contest

Hon. James B. Casey this afternoon formally entered the mayoralty contest by filing his nomination in the democratic caucus to be held in November. He stated that he would make no concession and defend his position as mayor against all opposition and false charges. In his campaign for the nomination he says neither men nor things will be immune from attack.

SECRETARY WILSON DEAD

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Secretary Wilson of the New York chamber of commerce died today, aged 51 years.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The Polo grounds where today's contest takes place were a center of growing interest as the morning advanced. Groups of enthusiasts were there before daylight, some coming from their night work to gain points of vantage. By 1 o'clock several hundred people were at the gate and the crowd was steadily augmented. Patrols of guards had been thrown around the enclosure to keep back the swarm of urchins seeking a hiding place beneath the benches. Police extras began to arrive early, a special force of five hundred men having been assigned for duty inside and outside the grounds. A goodly share of the extras were held in reserve for possible emergencies, for with such a crowd and such intensity of feeling the officials were prepared for lively and perhaps disorderly scenes.

"I fear we may see some 'rough-house' here today," said one of the officials. The record crowd at the Polo grounds is a shade above thirty thousand. But this is expected to be far exceeded today.

The weather outlook gave promise of almost ideal conditions. Early in the day a thick mist hung over the city, but this rapidly dissolved before the morning sun which by ten o'clock shone brightly from a clear sky. Occasional fogbanks rolled up in the south but not a storm cloud was in sight to threaten the approaching game.

The intensity of interest was not confined to baseball circles but was general throughout the city. Hotels, clubs, the stock exchange, Wall street and all public places being centers of anxious and excited comment. A number of clubs and many private citizens have arranged private telegraph connections from the Polo grounds to secure early information of the result.

The baseball diamond where the eventful game of the day takes place went through a process of early morning grooming to make it perfectly fit. Huge canvas sheets had been stretched through the night to guard against moisture. The vast amphitheatre of the Polo grounds was also undergoing hurried enlargement in all directions. A new grandstand was to be utilized for the first time and four thousand extra chairs were being hastily installed.

President Murphy of the Cubs said there was no question in his mind as to the outcome this afternoon. He already had predicted that Chicago would win by a score of 3 to 2, he said, and he was standing by that prediction. "The boys were never in such a condition of fitness as they are today," said he.

"While I have no bitter feelings against McGraw or President Brush I am strong in my assertion that if the game had to be played off it should have been settled by a series of three games. This custom obtaining in all departments of sport and in a precarious contest like baseball it is unfair for a team to be obliged to rush out of the west and play one deciding game. I believe as do all the Chicago followers that the tie should have been awarded to us by a board of directors on the merits of the case."

Whatever the merits of the directors' decision which compelled the playing off today the alleged tie game of September 23 even the most bitter enthusiast must concede that the decree has given opportunity for seeing such a marvelous throng and scene as rare sport as would not otherwise have been possible. The circumstances which have led up to today's contest are unique and this final game between Chicago and New York is sure to stand spectacularly and otherwise as one of the greatest in baseball history. Whoever wins it is that to have been affectionately known to followers as a "Giant" or a "Cub" in 1905 will be sufficient glory. But the temper of the players today, judging from what was heard at the quarters before the squads came on the field was not for "gallery playing" but for team work. Both teams are fit—though New York, which has had no let-up, lacks the advantage Chicago must have gained from several days of rest.

The gates were opened unusually early today that so far as possible the inevitable congestion in the last half hour in the time set for calling play might be relieved. Lines began to form shortly after daybreak and when the gates swung at 11 o'clock there was a large crowd. From the on-increasing hundreds, men, women and boys fairly hurled themselves inside the enclosure and then at top notch speed sprinted to the bleachers and unreserved sections.

Many Scrimmages

Scrimmages over positions were frequent. Special police provisions had been made but there were times when they were powerless to stop the almost senseless crowd. The entrance, however, was possible. The crowd, however, came to have human nature. In the grandstand were numerous notable cosmopolitan groups of "fans," many of whom had travelled hundreds of miles for the event. Vast as was the crowd at the Polo grounds hundreds of its counterparts in miniature throughout the country are watching bulletin boards in Chicago, where by almost instantaneous "flashes" over the wire play by play is produced on a screen in the little village where the teaming people are gathered, as in the old-fashioned village where the teaming people are gathered, as in the old-fashioned village where the teaming people are gathered.

opened and thousands rushed madly for vantage places. Practice was interrupted by the throng which persisted in crowding around the home plate and in front of the benches. Already the police within the enclosure had their hands full.

There is a general demand for closing of the gates to the field as the crowd around the diamond will shut off the view from the lower rows of seats. Outside grounds pandemonium reigns. Thousands are clamoring for admittance, which is denied them.

Chicago is warming up.

Whole regiments around the diamond are spreading newspapers on the grounds and sitting down. Gates to the diamond have been closed. The Polo grounds are practically sealed against further entrance. The police are clearing with some difficulty part of the diamond in front of the grandstands, using clubs in some instances. Manager Chance, crossed the field to join his team, and was greeted with jeers and hisses from the bleachers.

At one o'clock Doyle, who has been laid up for some time, ran out on the diamond and was cheered. The home team is now warming up. The conditions are perfect—bright sunshine. The crowd is studying the practice work of the New York squad.

McGraw and Mathewson

Mugsey McGraw stroled from the clubhouse across the field to the benches and was greeted with tremendous applause.

Mathewson arrived on the field at 1:50. He was not at first noticed by the crowds, but when he was there was the wildest enthusiasm.

Chicago went out on field at 2:20 for preliminary practice. There was some hooting from the stands but the demonstration was not of a hostile character and the visiting players did not seem to mind it.

As the time for the beginning of the game approached, from the press box the sky-line everywhere is human heads. They are located at grandstand, roofs, fences, "L" structure, electric light poles, and in the further distance on smokestacks, chimneys, advertising signs, and copings of apartment houses.

On the viaduct, speedway and cliffs back of the grandstand is practically a solid mass of people. The partially completed addition to the grandstand converted from a section of the bleachers to the north is in use, seating 2500. A four car "L" train, which stood on a siding by the grounds, affording a fine view of the whole amphitheatre and which was suddenly moved out by the railroad company, and all were carried rapidly out of sight, bound down town. The practice of the visitors was interrupted by the ringing of the bell and although they were supposed to have 15 minutes for this work Pitcher McGinnity of the local team went to the plate and started to bat a ball which was pitched by Over-

Manager Chance asked McGinnity to desist but the New York player replied by shoving his elbow into Chance's chest. The police then intervened and avoided any trouble from the players who rushed up and surrounded the men at the plate. After a couple of minutes argument the visiting players moved away to their own benches and the New York team took places on the diamond and began warming up.

The crowd is ready for anything evidently. It is apparently in an inflammable condition.

Chance to McGraw

In a few minutes McGraw's men relinquished the diamond and the visitors resumed practice. As Manager Chance was going to first base he shouted over to where McGraw was sitting on the bench:

"That was a small piece of business."

Ground Rules

The game was called at 2:50. Ground rules were agreed upon. A hit into the outfield was good for two bases and one base was allowed for an overthrow.

The umpires were Johnstone and Klem.

The New York lineup: Tenney, 1b; Herzog, 2b; Brennan, c; Donlin, 3b; Seymour, cf; Devlin, 4b; McCormick, lf; Bridwell, ss; Mathewson, p.

THE GAME.

First Inning

For Chicago: Sheekard struck out. Schulte fanned and the crowd cheered wildly for Mathewson, who was in superb condition.

Evers was out on a fast stop and throw, Herzog to Tenney. No runs. For New York: Tenney took his base, being hit by the first ball Pfeister pitched.

Herzog got a base on balls.

Herzog was caught off first by Chance on Kline's throw. Brennan struck out and Donlin doubled to right scoring Tenney. Chance claimed the ball was foul but Umpire Johnstone differed.

Seymour walked. Chance took Pfeister out of the box and substituted Brown.

Second Inning

Chicago: Chance struck out right but was caught napping off first. Mathewson in Tenney. Brennan struck out and Donlin doubled to right scoring Tenney. Chance claimed the ball was foul but Umpire Johnstone differed.

Seymour walked. Chance took Pfeister out of the box and substituted Brown.

One run, New York fanned.

Third Inning

Chicago: Chance struck out right but was caught napping off first. Mathewson in Tenney. Brennan struck out and Donlin doubled to right scoring Tenney. Chance claimed the ball was foul but Umpire Johnstone differed.

Seymour walked. Chance took Pfeister out of the box and substituted Brown.

One run, New York fanned.

The Gates Opened

At 1:15 the gates to the field were gaped.

6 O'CLOCK HAD TWO WIVES

Faithless Husband Deserted His Family in Canada

And Married a Lowell Girl—The First Wife Comes Here and Confronts Him With His Guilt —Man Arrested for Larceny of Metal Castings From Machine Shop

Camille Marineau and Emma Desmarais were arrested in police court this morning on complaints charging them with larceny and lascivious cohabitation. Both entered pleas of not guilty, but probable cause was found and they were held for the grand jury, the man being held under $300 bonds while the woman's bonds were placed at $200.

Inspector Charles Laflamme and Lieut. Freeman arrested the couple last night, the man being taken from Friend Bros. bakery while the woman was taken from her home in Gage street.

The warrant for the arrest was sworn out by a woman who gave her name as Marie Marineau and who claims to be the wife of the man in the case.

Mrs. Marie Marineau was the first witness called and she testified in part as follows: "I have known Mr. Marineau for 31 years and was married to him June 9, 1883, at Ottawa, where he lived in Ottawa for about 17 years and then went to Montreal where we stayed for about 15 or 16 years. He left me and came to this city. I wrote him three letters after he came to Lowell and in the last letter I asked him for money, but he answered and stated that he was sick and had no money. I learned that he was living with another woman and came to this city last Sunday to learn if such was the case."

Inspector Charles Laflamme, one of the arresting officers, testified that he went to Friend Brothers' bakery and placed Marineau under arrest. Marineau stated that he was not married. He said he had been living with Miss Desmarais for the past three or four years. The woman, when arrested, said her name was Marineau and that she got married in Nashua about four years ago. She also showed a marriage certificate. Inspector Laflamme said that the woman said that she had heard that Marineau was married, but afterwards learned that he was not married. She visited a priest in Lowell who refused to marry her so she went to Nashua and got married. Alexander Duchesne of 414 Moody street testified that Marineau said that he was married to Miss Desmarais.

Lieut. Freeman corroborated the testimony offered by Inspector Laflamme.

Miss Emma Desmarais, one of the defendants and the first witness for the defense and her testimony was in part as follows: "I have lived in Lowell for 32 or 33 years and for the past 27 years have resided at 55 Gage street. I have known Mr. Marineau for nearly six years, having met him at the home of a friend in this city. I had known him about a year and three months before I married him. We got married by Rev. Isaac Leclaire, at Nashua. I heard that Mr. Marineau was married, but the person who so in-

OFFICERS ELECTED

At Today's Session of the W. C. T. U. Convention

The forenoon session of today opened at 9 o'clock with a convention, prayer meeting led by Mrs. E. L. Hecum which was of one half hour's duration. The convention was called to order by the state president, Mrs. Katherine Lent Stevenson. Mrs. Lydia H. Olmstead after leading a song service was followed in prayer by Mrs. Myra L. Higgins. Mrs. Helen G. Rice read the minutes of yesterday's meetings and business was then transacted.

The quiz department was next in order when Mrs. Emma J. Howland spoke on anti-narcotics and she was followed by Mrs. Theresa L. Kildner on "medal contest work." Mrs. Harlette D. Walker spoke on "Evangelistic Work." Mrs. Harriet T. Todd, on "Woman and Reformation," and Mrs. Annie E. Damon on "School Savings Banks." After recommendations of the executive committee came the election of officers. The following were re-elected: President, Mrs. Katherine Lent Stevenson; Secretary, Mrs. Janet Hill Knox; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Helen G. Rice; Roxbury, assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Mary J. Cheney, Dorchester.

Mrs. Elizabeth P. Gordon was elected acting vice president at large.

Balls were taken for the office of treasurer, a position now held by Mrs. Isabelle A. Morse of Roxbury. It was decided by vote to place the balls in a place of safe keeping until the afternoon session when the result of the same would be declared. It was voted to send telegrams to the husband of Mrs. Stevenson and the sister of the newly elected vice president, and the world's secretary, Mrs. Anna A. Gordon acquainting them with their election to their respective offices.

The "Evangelistic Hour" was led by Mrs. H. D. Walker, followed by Bible reading by Mrs. Elizabeth S. Tovey. After non-liturgical prayers, announcements read and adjournment made for dinner. Prior to the adjournment Mrs. Canada of North Adams very effectively and feelingly rendered the selection "Faith in God."

Mrs. E. Florence Soule, of Dorchester, who was taken suddenly ill yesterday, was in attendance at today's convention.

Dr. Louise C. Purinton of Dorchester made a few brief remarks felicitating the W. C. T. U. on its good work and its continued growth. Mrs. L. W. Morse of Roxbury read her report on "Social Meetings and Red Letter Days."

Dr. Knox spoke briefly, stating that temperance was bred in him, he having been a worker in the cause for fifty years, having taken the temperance pledge at his mother's knee when a boy.

In an ante-room in the First Baptist church at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon there was a meeting of the superintendents of departments in

The Little Master of Chicago Regarded as a Divinity—Spent 40 Years in Caves—Controls the Banks of England

The sensation yesterday afternoon in the Mrs. Shaw, Mazdaznan case, was contained in greater part, in the testimony of Miss Hilda Lee Drew. It was evidence that came after Dr. Benner, the local alienist had said that a woman might have done all the things that Mrs. Shaw has done and have said all the things accredited her and yet be of competent mind.

It was putting it mildly indeed to say that the testimony of Dr. Francis H. Drew caused a genuine sensation in the courtroom. It was evidence that is rarely, if ever heard in the courts of the commonwealth and she was testifying under oath to what the respondent, Mrs. Shaw, had said to her.

It was Dr. Drew's daughter who gave the sensational testimony in the afternoon and the following is in part, what she testified to:

She said that she had known Mrs. Shaw, the respondent, for a great many years. Mrs. Shaw said she was his neighbor and so far as Mrs. Shaw's conduct was concerned she did not have anything to say that was derogatory to Mrs. Shaw.

Miss Drew said that Mrs. Shaw told her, among other things, that Dr. H. H. Shaw, "the little master," was a divinity personified. "She told me," said the witness, "that he came from the Orient where temples were filled with wise men. That he was master of seven languages and versed in all the modern things that the world had to offer."

"She told me," said witness, "that Dr. H. H. Shaw left the Orient with barrels of money; that he suffered a shipwreck and lost it, but that the Mazdaznans controlled more than two-thirds the money of the entire world."

"She told me that Dr. H. H. Shaw was all powerful and that the Mazdaznans controlled the banks of England. He said that King Edward was subservient to his will and that he had picked lovers for the late Queen Victoria."

The little master had gone to school with Christ and he is the modern Christ.

What Medium Said

Miss Drew told of a reading that Mrs. Shaw had had relative to her husband, preparation for the demonstrations of the "L. T. L." and "Y. T. L." branches of the W. C. T. U.

At the opening of the afternoon session the result of the balloting for treasurer was made known with the declaration that the present incumbent, Mrs. Isabelle A. Morse of Roxbury, had been re-elected.

THIS AFTERNOON'S SESSION

This afternoon's session was opened at 2 o'clock by the state president, followed by singing and also prayer by Mrs. Alice M. Dow. After the transaction of business the "department quiz" was continued and was participated in as follows:

"Health and Heredity," Dr. Louise C. Purinton; "Scientific Temperance Instruction," Mrs. R. F. B. Rounds; "Temperance Literature," Mrs. Janet Hill Knox; "Sunday School Work," Mrs. F. E. Britten; "V. T. U. Institutes," Dr. A. N. Abbott; "The Press," Miss Anna M. Bradbury; "Union Signal" and "Our Message," Mrs. Mary E. Cheney.

The remainder of the program as carried out follows: Medical Temperance; Work Among Foreigners; Miss J. Ardelle Mann, solo; Mr. Warren T. Reid; Collection; Consideration of Proposed Amendments to the Constitution; Report of Committee on Resolutions; Mrs. H. E. Sawyer, chairman; Dropped Stitches; Questions; Reading of Minutes; Recommendations of executive committee; Unfinished business; Adjournment for supper.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM

This evening on the program appears as the leader—"A happy evening with the world's Woman's Christian Temperance Union." The session will open with devotional exercises by Rev. Geo. V. Kemmott, pastor of the First Baptist church of Lowell. This will be followed by a demonstration by the "L. T. L." and "Y. T. L." branches and also demonstrations of departments. The three days' convention will be brought to a termination by the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, D.D., pastor of the First Baptist church of Lowell.

LAST NIGHT'S SESSION

Last night's session of the state convention of the W. C. T. U. at the First Baptist church was largely attended and proved the most successful since the opening Tuesday afternoon. The session opened with an organ voluntary followed by the rendition of a hymn and devotional services by Rev. N. W. Matthews, pastor of the First Primitive Methodist church of Lowell. There was a solo by Mrs. William T. Pepin, soprano, of the First Baptist church choir.

General Daggett's Address

The address of the evening was by Gen. A. S. Daggett, of Washington, D. C. He spoke against re-establishing the army canteen, and he congratulated the W. C. T. U. upon its work in having it abolished.

"It is a great privilege," he said, "to stand before an audience like this. It is a privilege to stand before any audience and talk about the temperance question and in the cause of temperance. You know not many of the great things you have accomplished. I have seen some of them in our army out there in the Philippines, and in other countries. I have seen them in our young men who are better men, better soldiers, and better servants of their country because of what you have accomplished."

"What was the origin of the army canteen? This is our theme this evening. Let us brush away a little of the confusion which has surrounded in which the medium told her that Mr. Shaw said he had left the body and he wanted Mrs. Shaw to tell the medium to tell Mrs. Shaw that he was not feeling just right because of his actions in this world and of his conduct towards her. He said he did not like the way he had treated her and he wanted her to do as she pleased with her money."

Wandered 40 Years

It was about this time that Mrs. Shaw had received a message from the "little master" advising her of a great financial depression.

Witness said Mrs. Shaw told her that the "little master" after losing all his money in the government, had been wandering for forty years in caves.

Witness stated that Mrs. Shaw said to her that when she went to California she left food on the table at home for her dead husband, Mr. Shaw.

"She told me," continued the witness, "that she would sell her home and its contents and go to Montreal, where she would devote her life and money to the Mazdaznan belief, and that she would go wherever the 'little master' dictated."

Witness said that Mrs. Shaw had great stress upon the notions which she received from the robe she wore, a robe that she made for the "little master."

Mrs. Wilson cross-examined about Mrs. Shaw's business connection with Captain Hitchcock.

Mrs. Kittredge objected, but on Mr. Wilson's statement that he wanted to show others that he wanted to bring the petition, then the one stated, the line of cross-examination was permitted by the court. Miss Drew said she knew that they had some business dealing, but did not know of Mrs. Shaw making any demand upon Capt. Hitchcock for money or stocks.

Mrs. Kittredge asked the witness about a visit to a fortune teller, with Mrs. Shaw, at the latter's invitation. Miss Drew said that the fortune teller said that Mrs. Shaw, among other things, to "get rid of her lawyer." She also told her to sell her property, or to "go up in smoke," and that Mrs. Shaw wanted her to go about and spend her money as she liked, and do as she liked.

Adjourned until Tuesday, October 13. The hearing will be resumed, it is understood, at Cambridge.

this question through the meanings of the words canteen and mess-exchange. Before it was abolished, the canteen was a beer saloon. What is a post-exchange? As instituted by the war department, it consisted of four departments. It was a general store and a reading room; it was a library and a soldiers' club; it was a lunch room. While the canteen existed, a beer saloon, when in the canteen was abolished, many have said that when this was done the rest of the post-exchange was abolished with it. This is not so. If you could look at our soldiers at the present time, you would find them enjoying all the benefits of the post-exchange without the influence of the saloon.

"I would regard the restoration of the canteen one of the greatest blows that could be struck at the temperance cause, because for seven years they have tried to bring order and discipline into the army without the aid of it. If the United States should return to the old way, it would lend a character and dignity to the traffic, if such a traffic could have dignity and character. Take the officer in charge of the canteen. He is usually a man with a record back of him; in most cases, he is not appointed by his president. He is not appointed for two, or three, or four years, but for life. This is the man in charge of this saloon. For such an officer to be present in the enlisted men lends a dignity and character to the traffic."

Entering warmly into his discourse Gen. Daggett said: "Now as to the origin of the canteen, I went back in 1882 a commanding officer at Vancouver, saw that the men of his barracks were going out of the barracks to the outside saloons. He said 'It is evident that we have no amusement places in our barracks. Let us have rooms inside the barracks where the men can be entertained. Let us begin tomorrow, and begin they did. And ladies connected with the army came in and assisted as they always knew how to do, and they decorated rooms and fixed them up for the men.'

"On the first night there were a few who went to the rooms, and every night after that there was an increase. Finally more rooms had to be fitted up to accommodate the men."

"Shortly after that I was ordered to this post, and when I met the commanding officer, his face beamed with smiles as he told me what he had instituted to keep the men out of the dens of iniquity outside the barracks. He said: 'I found that the men would return to their homes with as good habits as when they left to enlist. Some of them, of course, were not attracted to the place.'

"I returned to my post in Spokane, and reported there, the results of the institution. A similar place was set up in Spokane, and met with the same results. I commanded my men for 20 years. I saw many young men who touched liquor, and as I looked at their faces, they were bright, and their eyes clear, while they were ready for any duty that might be assigned to them."

"In 1898 when the post at Spokane was moved to Fort Ord, Nebraska, a post within the city limits, and surrounded by saloons, the commanding officer took a different view of the matter. He said 'these men go out of the barracks to get liquor. Let us have some attractions inside. Let us introduce the sale of beer in the canteen, to regulate the sale of liquor, and keep the men inside.'

Evils of the Canteen

"He appointed an able and efficient officer to take charge of the canteen, and introduced the sale of beer. That officer brought beer into the post, not by the wagon load, but by the car load. What was its effect?"

"The men went to the canteen and got their beer. After they had drunk rather freely, they became under its influence and went straight to the outside for something presumably stronger. Men were actually seen going from the canteen to the saloons outside. Remember, this is not hearsay evidence. No, I have seen it day after day, and month after month."

"What was its final result? After it had been in existence long enough to produce effects, the total abstinence had become moderate drinkers, and the moderate drinkers had become hard drinkers. The canteen had sent them outside for something stronger than beer. The canteen was a feeder of outside saloons."

"When I returned to Spokane, I stood before the same company of men whom I had left, and there they were with red faces, blue eyes, and in a measure, sodden with beer. It was not the canteen which had been established in the meantime."

"Let us look at a slightly different phase of the question. What is the effect of the canteen in the time of war?"

"During the war in the Philippines, if you can call it a war, I was stationed at a place about 16 miles south of Manila. Many men were stationed there, and their money from the government was about three months' pay. The commissary made great preparations for pay day, and brought in great quantities of beer. When pay day came, the men went straight to the canteen, and then out to the places where they could get the native liquor, which the natives make and drink, and which is said to be destructive to the human system."

In the course of two hours, a large percentage of the men were drunk. The president of the native town went to the commanding officer and said that an attack would probably occur that night, as the natives knew just what condition his men were in. The commanding officer wired immediately to Manila for reinforcements, saying 'Just what was the condition of affairs, and the reinforcements were hurried down by the first boat. When, at 9 o'clock that November evening, those men appeared, a great loud rolled off that commanding officer's shoulders.'

"There was no attack, because the natives learned of the arrival of fresh men. And this is not the only case that might be referred to. There are many more similar cases."

"Gen. Grant, the son of the great general, has expressed himself as in favor of the canteen. I know the general well. We have messed at the same table. I have always found him a courteous gentleman, and it is a pleasure to speak well of him."

Gen. Grant Favored Canteen

"But Gen. Grant resigned from the army in 1881, long before the canteen was ever thought of, and was reappointed in 1901, after the canteen was abolished. However, saw a canteen in the regular army in time of peace. What weight can his argument have?"

"Gen. Funston has spoken in favor of the canteen. He was not in the regular army while the canteen existed, and never saw one in the regular army in a time of peace."

"The officer of very limited experience says through the press 'If the canteen were re-established, the sickness in the army would fall off 100 per cent., and desertion almost in the same proportion.' He also says 'Army officers are a unit in favor of it.' I know one army officer who is not a unit in favor of it. I also know a great many more who are not. The only way to cure drunkenness in the army is to have the officers in Washington pass a law that no man shall be eligible for promotion who is not a total abstainer."

Next followed ten minute addresses by Rev. Allen Conant Perrin, pastor of the High Street Congregational church, Lowell; Rev. James Craig, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, also of this city. Then came the offering and a most pleasing feature of the occasion was the presentation to the state president, Mrs. Katherine Lent Stevenson with a purse of silver. Next came an appeal for members with good results and this was followed by the reading of notices, benediction and adjournment.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN

Addressed the Waterways Convention

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The second session of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf deep waterways conference was attended today by as large a gathering as that which opened to W. H. Taft yesterday. W. J. Bryan was the magnet of the second session and his appearance on the platform and introduction by David R. Francis of St. Louis was the signal for the democratic candidate to bow repeatedly and wait many minutes before delivering the first sentence of his speech.

After the report of the committee on credentials had been received in the morning session, Walter D. Moody representing the Chicago Association of Commerce as the chairman of its committee on the reception of delegates announced the program for the day. He was followed by former Governor Francis of Missouri who introduced Mr. Bryan.

In the afternoon session, Gifford Pinchot, chairman of the National Conservation commission, spoke on "Waterways and the conservation movement." Mr. Taft left early today for Cincinnati. Mr. Bryan, after delivering his speech at the convention addressed Evanston students on the Northwestern university campus in the afternoon.

THEATRE VOYONS

All that's best in moving pictures well describes the new program at the Theatre Voyons today. Every class of picture is represented and all are exceptionally good. "Falmoro and Its Surroundings" is a most interesting travel picture, showing many scenes of interest in Italy and it is really a great educational picture. "A Soldier's Sweetheart" is a stirring dramatic, full of action, well staged and excellently acted. "The Forsaken" is a fine version of this standard drama, calling for the best of acting and some exquisite stage pictures. "The Basket Party" is a long laughable comedy with several novelties introduced in its clever story. "The Days of '49" is a stirring march song, and "When Night Falls" just fills the bill as a ballet.

Social and dance at Hibernian Hall, tomorrow night. Tickets 25 cents.

ANNUAL REUNION

Of the Sacred Heart Parish a Great Success

Associate hall last night was the scene of the annual reunion of the Sacred Heart parish and the capacity of the place was amply tested by the large assemblage, which embraced representatives from all of the Catholic parishes of Lowell, North Billerica, North Chelmsford, Grantville and Collinsville.

Among the clergymen who graced the occasion with their presence were three of the Oblate Fathers of the Immaculate Conception church, who were formerly identified with the Sacred Heart church either as pastor or assistant pastor, namely: Rev. John M. McRory, O. M. I., Rev. John P. Reynolds, O. M. I., Rev. John Flynn, O. M. I. The Sacred Heart parish priests were all present consisting of the pastor, Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., Rev. Robert Barrett, O. M. I., Rev. Bernard Fletcher, O. M. I., and Rev. John O'Brien, O. M. I.

The reunion began in the afternoon when the children of the Sacred Heart school were very much in evidence in singing and furnishing joyous entertainment. In the afternoon as well as in the evening everything showed plainly the result of the faithful work of the competent committee in charge, whose labors were amply rewarded with signal success in having the reunion of 1908 go into history as the largest assemblage which ever gathered socially under the auspices of the Sacred Heart parish. During the evening an exceptionally fine program for the entertainment of those assembled was cleverly arranged and ably presented under the direction of Miss Elizabeth L. Miskella. It was entitled "Using the Weed," a lively musical comedy in one act and was produced by an excellently trained chorus and cast of principals, of the Children of Mary of that parish. Special mention should be made of the singing of the older Irish songs, "Kathleen Mavourneen" and "Believe Me," by Mrs. Muldoon. Misses Margaret McQuillan and Margaret Shanley impersonated the aunts to perfection, and Miss Alice Begley with the Irish colleens furnished one of the delightful little bits of the evening. The particular little bit

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 8.—"Wild Bill" Donovan of the Detroit Tigers is the hero of the American league, for his shut-out of the Chicago in the final game of the season won the pennant for his team. He had his opponent under control from the opening of the game, allowing only two hits, and the White Sox got only three men on bases. Donovan is one of the pitching marvels of the decade. In a recent game with Washington he pitched only ten balls in one inning, yet struck out three batters. More remarkable still, only one of the ten balls was struck at.

EDWIN MULREADY

Made Deputy Probation Commissioner

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—The announcement made by the commission on probation that Edwin Mulready had been named for the position of deputy commissioner of probation is universally commended, according to opinions heard yesterday about the court house and down town among the lawyers. The selection made by the commission is said to be an ideal one in every way.

Mr. Mulready has been a member of the board of selection of Rockland for about 15 years, and during 10 of these he was its chairman. For ten or more years he has been probation officer of Norfolk and Plymouth counties, and the way he has discharged his duties in that office has on more than one occasion elicited the commendation of both bench and bar.

He has always been a most abstemious man, and has spent many years of his life in an endeavor to spread the cause of temperance.

For more than 15 years he was secretary of the Archdiocese Total Abstinence union, was three years its president, and at the present time is serving his second term as national secretary of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of America.

He is a member of the board of trustees of the State hospital at Foxboro having been named by Governor Guild some months ago.

Mr. Mulready will probably start at once on his new duties, and his headquarters will be in the court house in Pemberton square.

Are Tied for the Golf Medal

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—H. H. Wilder and J. W. Coe, both Harvard golfers, tied at Brae-Burn yesterday for the gold medal offered by the Intercollegiate Golf association for the lowest score made in the qualifying round at 36 holes and the final on Saturday, also at 36 holes.

Their score was 159 and both were 51 in the morning and 13 in the afternoon. They will play off later in the week for the medal. Another score under 50 was made by Templeton Briggs of Harvard, who was 18 in the morning and led the field for the first 18 holes. The qualifying scores ran from 138 to 171, and at the latter figures three players were tied for two places and had to play off hole by hole until one of them was dropped.

R. Y. Hayne of Yale made a 73 in the afternoon and C. L. Langdon of Harvard scored 81 each round; C. E. Van Vleet, Jr., of Yale was 89 in the second round. The totals showed creditable play, though the conditions were right for low scoring, no wind and the greens very true.

H. H. Wilder and J. W. Coe had very even rounds, made by steady play with no luck in getting down long putts to speak of. The draw of the first 18 for match play brought together two Harvard men at the top of the drawing, Coe vs. Morgan, and two Harvard men at the bottom of the draw, Wilder vs. Sweeney; Hayne and Mosser, both of Yale, also were drawn together.

Six Harvard men qualified, five Yale.

BOSTON RED SOX

To Be Managed by Fred Lake

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—The baseball season closed in Boston yesterday. Pres. John I. Taylor saw the double-header at the Huntington avenue grounds and after the game said:

"Our club was patronized in splendid shape on the home grounds, while on the road the team was a general favorite. I appreciate the support of the Boston lovers of the game."

"I think I have good reason to hope that the Red Sox will cut an important figure in the race next season, as our boys are young and are bound to improve. In any event I will do my level best to bring about such a result."

When asked if Fred Lake would be retained as manager of the club of next season, Pres. Taylor smiled and said: "Mr. Lake has given entire satisfaction. Since he took the team it has won 23 games and lost 19, which certainly is a fine showing. With a good start I feel confident that Mr. Lake will make one of the most successful managers in the business."

It can be put down as a fact that the native son manager will be given an opportunity to train and pick out his men for the hard work next season. Lake knows baseball, is a tireless worker, and is absolutely loyal to any cause that he follows.

Starbird orchestra will play at the social and dance at Hibernian hall, Friday night.

BASEBALL CRAZY

Wild Excitement in New York Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The sporting world, augmented by thousands usually lukewarm or indifferent towards baseball, holds its breath today while New York and Chicago contend under extraordinary if not unique conditions in the last round of the struggle for the national league championship of 1908. For weeks owing to the closeness of the struggle interest has been maintained at fever pitch. But today even that point was exceeded. Not only the "fans" but solid business and professional men laid aside all their engagements for the day and devoted their attention exclusively to the discussion of "prospects" and to an attempt to obtain for themselves advantageous places in the grand stands and bleachers at the polo grounds. Aside from the weather which could not have been more favorable either interest, of course centered in the two teams which were to engage in the battle royal.

The Cubs reached the Grand Central station five minutes ahead of time this morning on the Twentieth Century limited express over the New York Central. The players were in fine fettle and in cheerful spirits, looking forward eagerly to the supreme battle of this afternoon. They went at once to the Hotel Somerset where they will make headquarters during their stay in this city. They were welcomed at the station by a large crowd of baseball enthusiasts, newspapermen, photographers and waiting passengers and received a cordial cheer.

It was announced that the line-up of the Chicago team this afternoon would probably be identical with that on the day when the disputed game was played, as follows:

Hayden, rf; Evers, 2b; Schulte, lf; Chance, 1b; Steinfield, 3b; Hoffman, cf; Tinker, ss; Kling, c; Pfeister, p.

CITY IS CRAZY

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—New York is baseball crazy today. Elections, war rumors in the Balkans and everything has been forgotten. No one talks of anything but baseball and the probable outcome of this afternoon's game between the New Yorks and the Chicago. With the Chicago team speeding across the country as fast as steam could bring them, New Yorkers talked themselves hoarse last night and only stopped that they might rest their voices for the demands that will be made upon them at the Polo grounds this afternoon.

The situation is unique in baseball history. Both the Cubs and Giants have finished the season with a percentage of .611, tied for the precious bit of bunting that means so much to the winner in the National league. On the result of today's game hangs the success or failure of a season's hard work.

Never before have two teams been tied for the championship at the end of the race. Never before has the race been so close. Never has it been necessary to play off the tie of six months baseball in a single gigantic battle. That the game will be a struggle to death is certain for the town is in the grip of the greatest excitement, frigid with nervous prostration.

On past performances the pitchers look like "Christy" Mathewson and Browne, he of the three fingers. Matty has not pitched since he twisted his elbow Philadelphia on Saturday. However, he looks drawn and tired and it is still doubtful whether he will be in the box. Mathewson has not beaten Browne in two years, having pitched in several close games where his luck broke bad. This superstitious influence may have its effect on the selection of the twirlers. No class on earth are greater patrons of the god of luck than ball players. Then Chicago may use Reulbach who has not had a run scored against him in the last nine games that he has pitched.

Many nightworkers early this morning went directly from their places of employment to the grounds. It is freely predicted on all sides that thousands will be turned away and that all records for attendance will be shattered. Many persons went to the grounds at 5 and 6 o'clock this morning and thus obtained a good position on the line. The gates will open at noon and undoubtedly be closed long before the game starts at three o'clock.

The batting order of the New York team was announced as follows:

Tenney, lb; Herzog, 2b; Bresnahan, cf; Donlin, rf; Seymour, cf; Devlin, 3b; McCormick, lf; Bridwell, ss; Mathewson, p.

Manager McGraw said today that he had no thought of any outcome of the game but the victory for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Fay, of Blossom street, are rejoicing over the arrival of a ten-pound daughter, and are receiving congratulations from their many friends.

NEW YORK NATIONAL LEAGUE TEAM

The New York players in this group are as follows: 1, Taylor; 2, Tenney; 3, McCormick; 4, Herzog; 5, Donlin; 6, Bridwell; 7, Needham; 8, Seymour; 9, Doyle; 10, Barry; 11, Wilson; 12, Witke; 13, Devlin; 14, Mathewson; 15, McGinnity; 16, Ames; 17, Bresnahan; 18, McGraw; 19, Marquard.

TEXTILE ELEVEN

No Match for St. Mark's School

SOUTHBOURNE, Oct. 8.—St. Mark's overwhelmingly defeated Lowell Textile school yesterday afternoon, 30 to 0. The visitors were very weak in tackling and could not gain against the St. Mark's defense. In the first half St. Mark's received the kickoff and scored in three minutes on a 40-yard run by Erving and line plunges by Rushmore and Woodhead. A little later Dewey recovered an inside kick and ran 50 yards for a touchdown.

In the second half the home team put in many substitutes, but made two touchdowns, nevertheless. Lowell got the ball on the two-yard line on a fumble, but could not score. Ervin, Armour, Rushmore, Hardy and Mudge played well. The summary:

SOCCER FOOTBALL

The following team will represent North Billerica in their league game with Andover at Fordway park on Saturday: Goal, W. Gates; full backs, J. T. Holmes, vice captain, C. Hardy; half-backs, J. Burke, F. Butler, Captain J. Gettles; forwards, B. Burke, W. Woodcock, J. Chaplain, J. Walsley, J. Royds, reserves, H. Yates, E. Nelson; linesman, J. Gabelier; referee, P. Dacey of Methuen. Game called at 3 sharp.

DIAMOND NOTES

The story comes from Haverhill that Frank Connaughton of Lawrence, may manage the down-river club next season. The local fans would regret to see this player away from Lawrence next year, but as he has a non-reserve contract he has the power to go wherever he wants. Connaughton is popular in Haverhill, just as he is in every city in this league. He played great ball for the Lawrence team and to him is due much of the credit for the success of the team. Another story is that Old Man McPartin may manage the club.

Harry Wilson has asked the Lawrence baseball management for his release. The purchase of George Boardman from the Haverhill club means that he will probably play that ball next season. Wilson realizes that there will be no chance for him. The Lawrence management will not give him his release as yet, anyway, as it would be unwise to do so. Wilson may be played in the right garden. Wilson has some good offers to play in another league and he wants to accept them.

Manager Hugh Duffy, formerly of Lowell, has received the following players for his 1500 Providence Guard: Jack Cronin, Phil Poland, Roy Rock, Jack Phelan, Bob Peterson, George Eaton, Bill Silne, Harry Arndt, Harry Hoffman, Blackburn, Owen and "Chapple" Ward.

It has been announced in Chicago that it is the Three I league that seeks to induce old Cap Anson to return to baseball by offering to him the presidency of the league in place of Tom Loftus, who was president during the year just closed. When Loftus was elected he went in against his will, only desiring to bring about peace between warring factions. This he has apparently done.

After having regained his health to such an extent that he is again able to carry the burden of business cares, Frank G. Seice, the veteran baseball manager, who has been in Colorado for several years, yesterday purchased part interest in the St. James hotel, in Denver, and hereafter will be connected with the well known Curtis street hostelry. Mr. Seice is fascinated with the hotel business, and as assistant manager of the St. James, will have an opportunity to satisfy a desire he has cherished ever since his health broke down and he was rendered unfit physically to follow a ball team around the circuit. The St. James is well known throughout the country, especially to the sporting fraternity.

HELPFUL WORDS

From a Lowell Citizen

Is your back lame and painful?
Does it ache especially after exertion?
Is there a soreness in the kidney region?
These symptoms indicate weak kidneys.

There is danger in delay.
Weak kidneys fast get weaker.
Give your trouble prompt attention.
Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly.
They strengthen weak kidneys.

Read this Lowell testimony.
Mrs. James Johnston, living at 29 Powers street, Lowell, Mass., says:
"About a year ago I had an attack of La Grippe which left my kidneys in a weakened condition. I suffered from pains across the small of my back and loins, and noticed that the kidney secretions were unnatural in appearance. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I obtained from Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store, helped me wonderfully and soon banished the backache. Other members of my family have used them and in each case the results have been of the best. I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers of kidney complaint."

13 PERSONS DEAD

A Big Explosion Occurred at Richford, Vt.

Many Persons Are Reported Injured — Grain Elevator Was Entirely Burned — Property Damage Estimated at $400,000

RICHFORD, Vt., Oct. 8.—An explosion of dust and gases in a large grain elevator, owned jointly by the Canadian Pacific and Boston & Maine railroads in this village, caused the death of at least 13 persons late yesterday afternoon, while it is possible that the death toll may be still further increased when the full extent of the disaster is known.

Of the victims 11 were men employed in the elevator; the other two were women who were walking on the railroad track nearby.

The fire destroyed not only the elevator building but a flour shed and 75 freight cars which could not be removed from the danger zone. The property loss is estimated roughly at $400,000.

The explosion occurred at 4:35, while work was going on within the elevator. It is supposed that it was due to spontaneous combustion of the dry grain dust, ignited possibly by the sun's rays through a window.

With a concussion which could be heard for miles and which shook every building in the town, the roof of the great elevator was blown skyward, while flames burst from every window and door of the structure. The roof, or the greater part of it, was carried a long distance and fell in a field. Several freight cars which were standing on the tracks beside the building were thrown over and broken into a mass of wreckage and every person within a radius of a quarter of a mile of the structure was knocked off his feet and stunned.

Twenty-one men, all employees of the elevator, are known to have been in the building at the time. Of these all but 11 had been located as living late last night. Of the others one body only was found. It was carried by the explosion 500 yards and was found in a field near the roof. The bodies of this man's companions are supposed to have been incinerated in the tremendous heat of the burning grain. The list of dead is as follows:

HEMAN LAHUE, 40 years old, married, leaves a family.

LUCIUS WRIGHT, 25 years old, married.

ROBERT MANDIGO, 22, married, W. C. BARNES, 50, married and has several children.

MRS. JELFORD.

MRS. GUARD, aged 40.

These two women were walking on the track nearby and were probably stunned by the explosion. Both were living, though badly burned, when they were picked up by rescuers and taken to a neighboring house, but they died within a few hours.

Aside from these the only body thus far recovered is that of Robert Mandigo. He was at work near the top of the elevator. A short time before the explosion he was seen looking from a window near the roof. He was carried aloft when the explosion occurred and his body, lifeless and terribly mangled, was found late last night near the wreckage of the roof, far from the site of the building.

There is but one piece of fire apparatus, a hand engine, in this village, and this was entirely inadequate to cope with the blaze. Every part of the elevator was quickly enveloped in flames and in a very short time one of the two flour sheds nearby was blazing. The firemen directed all their efforts to saving the second flour shed and it seemed probable at a late hour that they would succeed in stopping the fire there.

Freight cars on the tracks of the Canadian Pacific railroad also caught fire and seventy-five of them were burned. There were no locomotives in the yard at the time, so that with the exception of a few cars which railroad men and citizens managed to push down the tracks beyond the reach of the flames, practically every piece of rolling stock in the yard was consumed.

The wreckage blocked the railroad tracks completely and it was necessary to send all trains over the Canadian Pacific by the way of Sherbrook, P. Q., although wrecking crews were early on the scene ready to begin work as soon as the metal work of the blazing cars cooled sufficiently.

The ten men who are known to have escaped from the elevator were all more or less burned, though none was believed to be in a serious condition. All had narrow escapes, and were obliged to fight their way through the grain dust, flames and smoke to the doorway. The men who got out were all in the lower part of the structure. Every man who was working above the first floor is believed to have perished.

The elevator had a capacity of 500,000 bushels and is believed to have been nearly filled with oats, corn and wheat. Much of the oats was consigned to the Quaker Oats company at Chicago. The loss on the grain alone is estimated at $150,000 and the building cost $100,000 when built. It was 130 feet long and 9 feet wide and had a tower 15 feet high. It was the distributing depot for the Canadian Pacific and Boston and Maine railroads at the Canadian border.

The village of Richford, which has a population of only 1000, is hard hit by the fire and the scene around the burning elevator was one of desolation and woe last night. Mothers, wives and children of the men who were victims of the flames were gathered about, sobbing and wringing their hands in grief while still hoping against hope that their missing loved ones would yet return.

Mrs. Guard and Mrs. Jelford, the two women who were burned, were new-comers to the village. They were wives of laborers but the exact names of their husbands could not be learned last night.

KING BOY HELD

Is Charged With Pushing Lad Overboard

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 8.—Nelson King, Jr., aged 8, is under arrest, ostensibly accused of horse thieving, but actually charged with the death of a playmate, Ernest Souza, aged 7, whose body was found yesterday morning floating in the river near the foot of Mainfield street.

King confesses he pushed the Souza boy overboard.

"He said he could swim," he said, "and I pushed him overboard to see. He couldn't. I saw him come up once and he put his hand out of the water. I didn't see him again. I looked around for him, and he was gone. So I went home."

The incident occurred Tuesday afternoon. When the Souza boy did not return, his father, John M. Souza, instituted a search. The little fellow's shoes were found yesterday morning, and later the body came to the surface of the water. There was no suspicion of foul play, but the King boy told Dr. Graves, a medical inspector in the schools, yesterday, and Dr. Graves notified the police. The boy retold the story yesterday.

The police have had trouble with the King boy for a year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson King of 141 Grinnell street. His mother has been employed in a laundry for several years and his father has been away much of the time. Last July he was accused of stealing a horse from James F. Hoye. This was the fifth offense of the kind charged to him, but he was regarded as too young to be put before the court.

ARMED GUARDS

Caught Prisoners Who Escaped From Fort

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 8.—A general alarm was sounded at Fort Adams late yesterday, following the escape of three military convicts who attacked a sentinel, scaled the wall and were at liberty for less than an hour. The prisoners are Privates Stone, Taylor and Senay of the coast artillery. While at work in the cemetery, accompanied by an armed sentry, the men attacked the guardhouse. Private Senay of the 9th coast artillery company, and after disarming him struck him over the head twice, rendering him unconscious. Adela revived just as the prisoners disappeared from view over the fortification and gave the alarm. All the officers and men attached to the station were dispatched to various points.

Lieut. Frank H. Phipps, who left the fort in an automobile, with three armed privates, overtook the fugitives on the road about a quarter of a mile from the station. The party in the automobile held up the fugitives at the points of rifles and revolvers and the three surrendered before a shot was fired.

The prisoners had been convicted by court-martial on charges of desertion.

DAN'L CLOHECEY

NO LONGER PRESIDENT OF THE HAVERHILL TEAM

HAVERHILL, Oct. 8.—Daniel F. Clohecey, who has been president of the Haverhill baseball team of the New England league, failed of reelection at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the association last night. W. R. Rich was elected president; Frank Amazeen, treasurer, and Albert M. Childs, secretary.

According to statements made at the meeting Courtney the rightfielder and Temple, first baseman, and outfielder, are about the only players left of the Haverhill team of the past season. Some of the others have been disposed of by Mr. Clohecey to different clubs and some are not held by a reserve clause in their contracts and have signed elsewhere next year. Pitcher O'Toole and Shortstop McInnis have been transferred to Lynn in exchange for Pitcher Vokes, and two other players from that city; the pony batsman, Ed Beckman, have been sold to Providence, and Boardman, third baseman, and Pitcher Girard, have been transferred to Lawrence. Billy Hamilton, who was not held by a reserve clause, has gone to Lynn.

HATHAWAY'S THEATRE

"In Dreamland," a dramatic fantasy by Emmett Devoy, holds a lot of novelty in store for Hathaway audiences this week. Mr. Devoy plays the leading male role, that of "Bob Hammond," a believer in the occult and a neglectful husband. But things right themselves in time and when his dreamy wife decides to change his course of life, that's the skeleton framework of the play, but there are a hundred and one clever little surprises connected with the piece.

Charles F. Senon, a human slat, can no more be being funny than a bird can help flying. He plays on a hat tree, a one-stringed fiddle and a double flute, and extracts real music from them, too. His Scotch impersonation at the close is very funny. Other acts on this excellent bill are: Harlan Knight in "The Chalk Line"; Mueller and Mueller, the boys who sing the Dartmouth and other songs; Carney and Wagner, comedians and dancers; Potter and Harris, gymnasts and acrobats; Gilbert, singing comedienne. The Hathascope has good pictures.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening, with an "In Dreamland" matinee, Saturday.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"The Lion and the Mouse," probably the most talked of play in America today, will be presented here again this evening tonight and under the direction of Henry E. Harris. Ever since it is interested and keenly alive to the influence wrought upon American politics by the moneyed interests, trusts and kings of finance, will appreciate Mr. Harris' great drama. Briefly outlined, it relates the story of Shirley Rossmore, daughter of Judge Rossmore, a judge of excellent standing, who, through the flattery of decisions in opposition to the interests of a despotic and financial world, John Burkett Ryder, as "Ready Money" Ryder, is lured by the latter and financially ruined. Ryder's son, Jefferson, falls in love with Judge Rossmore's daughter, Shirley, who has been ruined by the latter's actions. She finds her father ruined in reputation, broken in health and financially embarrassed as a result of this ruling. One holds the proof of Rossmore's innocence. That man is Ryder. Through his love for Miss Rossmore, Ryder's torn papers, which will prove Judge Rossmore's innocence, at least morally. Discovering this, Ryder orders the girl from his house, in which she has become an inmate as the writer of his biography and under an assumed name. The scene which follows is a taxing and dramatic one, and although the love interest seemingly subsides in the struggle, becomes the vital factor in a situation unconventional in its treatment and finely dramatic in its presentation and climax. There has been no American play in the history of the American drama which has scored the triumph of "The Lion and the Mouse." There is no class of theatre goers who will not be interested in its wonderful lesson it teaches.

It is like a picture from one of Fenimore Cooper's works. In the foreground are the ropes, the tanned skin walls glowing in the light of the camp fires. Beyond, like great giants with snowy locks, bend over the scene the Rockies in all the magnificence of their granite walls. Suddenly the scene springs to life. Two white prisoners are brought in and the Indians prepare for their sacrifice. The prisoners are tied to stakes and the funeral fires lighted. Then comes the most famous dance of the Indians, the ghost dance. And at the psychological moment a troop of galloping cowboys arrives and saves the victims from the fiendish fate awaiting them.

Miss Della Deshon is appearing in the title role of "Bunco," the little western girl who turns out to be a great English heiress and is very pleasing. She cares for the difficulties of her part to the entire satisfaction of the audiences. Victor Brown makes a manly hero, Harry Horne plays Jim in an excellent manner. The production is handsomely staged by Charles D. Pitt.

THE LIFE OF AN ACTRESS

The success achieved by the new play, "The Life of an Actress," proves that there is just as good material at hand in our own country for the dramatist, as there is abroad, and it also proves that American play-goers will support liberally any domestic play that possesses originality enough to merit their support. Any American play which aims to portray the old characters, costumes and manner of the country, is worthy of consideration and support, and it is gratifying to note that "The Life of an Actress" has met with such substantial success. This production will be seen at the Opera House October 9th and 10th, with a matinee Saturday.

FRANK LALOR

Unusual interest has already manifested itself in the forthcoming appearance of Frank Lalor in his new musical comedy, "Prince Humbug," which will occur at the Opera House next Wednesday afternoon and evening. Mr. Lalor is exceedingly popular with theatre-goers of Lowell, a fact due to his very enjoyable performance of "Nell," the Tailor, in "Morning Thru the Key," which he has presented so frequently in this city during the past two seasons. He comes at this time in a new musical comedy which is said to be better in every particular than his previous vehicle, in which he is given opportunities to indulge his fun-making proclivities to the fullest extent. Mr. Lalor is surrounded by a very large company, said to number eighty people, among whom are comedians and vocalists of recognized excellence. There is a large chorus and ballet which the Boston Globe says is about the liveliest and best looking aggregation of girls that has appeared in this city in a very long time. The scenery, costumes, electric and mechanical effects are all said to be exceedingly beautiful, with many surprising novelties, and the entire production is generally regarded as one of the very best that has been brought forward in this country. The musical score of "Prince Humbug" has given rise to more than ordinary favorable comment by the Boston critics. In view of all that is known of Mr. Lalor's new piece, there can be no doubt whatever, that all who attend the performances at the Opera House next Wednesday afternoon and night, will be amply compensated. The sale of the seats opens Saturday morning.

BIG CONFERENCE

OF CIGARMAKERS OPENED IN PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 8.—A three-days' convention was opened yesterday at labor temple by the New England label-conference, representing 54 New England locals of the Cigarmakers' International union of America. Pres. William Standumb of local 57 of Boston presided and Thomas McCullough of Holyoke was secretary. T. J. Garvey of Lowell served on the committee on resolutions. Standumb in his report asserted that business would soon return to normal conditions throughout the country if the presidential election were not monopolizing the attention of the people. He said also that the cigar industry has fared better in New England during the business depression than in any other part of the country. During the past year the label conference had paid over $14,000 in advertising and has received $15,500, leaving a balance in hand of $1,500. The report of the president was referred to the committee on the reports of the officers, while its financial part was turned over to the finance committee.

FINISHED JACK CROSBY IN PRETTY QUICK TIME

In one of the roughest wrestling matches ever witnessed at the Olympia theatre, Boston, last night Jim Prokos, the Greek grappler, defeated Jack Crosby of Lynn. The first fall went to Prokos in 19 minutes. Crosby was awarded the second fall on a foul. Prokos had been warned three times to desist in his unfair methods and when the third offence was committed, the referee decided the fall in Crosby's favor. Prokos rushed at the Lynn man in the final fall, and picking him up bodily, threw him to the floor, gaining a fall in less than half a minute. Crosby was helpless for some time after the match.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

At a meeting of L'Association Catholique held Tuesday night it was voted to donate $25 to the French American orphanage and also considering the proposition of business it was decided not to run the usual festival given every fall.

Lady Franklin council 17, Daughters of Liberty, met in regular session with a good attendance last night. The meeting was opened by the committee, Lucy Staples. The (lady) given was drawn by Grace Hartley. The meeting closed in form. There was a rehearsal of the degree start also.

Local 352 of the steam engineers held its 11th meeting of the fall last night. Two applications were received and one candidate was initiated. The organization voted to march in the labor parade of Wednesday night next and the committee on the fall report and progress of the educational work, which have been so helpful and instructive, will begin again on the second Wednesday in November.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

"Bunco in Arizona," which is being presented by the Deshon-Pitts Stock company at the Academy of Music this week, is full of thrilling scenes and incidents, but perhaps the most interesting of all is that in which the Indian camp is pictured in the shadow of the Rockies.

It is like a picture from one of Fenimore Cooper's works. In the foreground are the ropes, the tanned skin walls glowing in the light of the camp fires. Beyond, like great giants with snowy locks, bend over the scene the Rockies in all the magnificence of their granite walls. Suddenly the scene springs to life. ENGLISH EDITOR

Comes to Study American Journalism

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Lord Northcliffe, better known as Alfred Harmsworth, controller of the London Times and proprietor of the Daily Mail and some forty-five other publications, has sailed for America for a vacation and to study American journalism at close range. He has just completed an arduous season's work, chief of which was the reorganization of the Times, which he hopes to turn into a modern newspaper. He has done more toward modernizing the English press than any other man.

It was decided to put a football team in the field this fall and also a basketball team, and to further that end Timothy Lynch, a well known student of the Textile school, was appointed chairman of the athletic committee, with John J. Shanley, George F. Kerwin and George W. Burrows as his assistants on the committee. Mr. Lynch will leave nothing undone to put one of the fastest football and basketball teams in the city on the field this season.

After the meeting a program was enjoyed by the members. There was a social hour, and the members of the club were entertained by Harry Heaton and Fred McGuire.

WOMEN'S RESEARCH

MEETING OF THE CLUB WITH MRS. CROMPTON

The Women's Research club held its opening meeting of the fall season yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Crompton, Golden Cove, Chelsea. Mrs. W. E. Moore presided and reports were heard from the various committees. Letters were read from Miss Emily Skilton and others thanking the club for assistance rendered by the charitable work. To further this work an investigating committee was appointed, consisting of Mrs. Cyrus Barton, Mrs. Eva Farris and Mrs. C. F. Hedrick.

A nominating committee was appointed to present candidates for election as officers for the ensuing year, the committee, consisting of Mrs. H. E. Grover, Mrs. Charles P. Conant and Mrs. F. E. Harris. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. F. P. Munn, 166 Sixth street, at which time the election will take place. After the conclusion of the business, Mrs. F. E. Harris read a most interesting paper, describing her trip to Jamaica. This was followed by refreshments of ice cream, cakes and coffee. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. E. D. Livingston and Mrs. John Crompton.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Encouraged by J. P. Morgan's recent donation of $200,000 to the campaign fund, the republican managers have hit upon a new scheme to increase the fund.

Each one of the 300 customs inspectors at this port is asked to contribute $5. It is said the campaign fund is the smallest in years and the managers are becoming nervous, and according to reports Roosevelt sees no harm in the scheme to tax federal employees.

JOHN W. HEALEY

CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF MUSKETAQUID CANOE CLUB

The quarterly meeting of the Musketiquid Canoe club was held Monday. The principal business of the meeting was the election of officers for the ensuing term which resulted in John W. Healey being unanimously elected president. Joseph J. Collins was chosen vice president and James B. Broderick, secretary and treasurer.

It was decided to put a football team in the field this fall and also a basketball team, and to further that end Timothy Lynch, a well known student of the Textile school, was appointed chairman of the athletic committee, with John J. THE DECISION AGAINST EXPRESS COMPANIES.

The railroad commission did a good thing in deciding against the increase of express rates made without any excuse whatever by the American Express and National Express companies last February. At that time the rates were advanced from 65 to 100 per cent, with a 25 cent instead of a 15 cent minimum.

The commission holds that where a scale of rates in force for a long time is suddenly increased by any considerable percentage the burden is on the company to show cause. In this case the companies have not shown sufficient cause, and hence the decision of the railroad commission. The companies show an increase in expenses, but the commission holds that the increase in business offsets that.

The defence that about 40 per cent. of the receipts has to go to railroads the commission rightly decides is no justification. The commission further asserts that the rates of these express companies have been established in the face of competition, and now that competition has been largely removed, there is less justification for increasing rates.

It appears that the express companies affected are not inclined to obey the decision of the commission. The railroads ignored a decision of the commission in the seventies, and the express companies will, probably endeavor to do the same. The railroad commission is useless unless its decisions are binding upon all the companies concerned. It should be vested with power to enforce its decrees.

The extortions of the express trust have been outrageous. The rates were raised in the midst of the panic, showing an utter disregard of the public interests. It is time that some authority were applied to stop the high-handed work of these companies that eat up the profits of the small store keeper and make it necessary for large stores to keep a reshipping house in Boston where a lot of small parcels are done up together to be shipped as one.

WHY REPUBLICANS OPPOSE PUBLICITY.

It is useless to discuss why the republicans do not want to publish their campaign contributions until after election.

Everybody knows why. The list would convict the party of an alliance with the trusts that would discredit all the bluff and buncombe being dished out by the president.

It was Mark Hanna who in 1896 told the corporations of the country if they would furnish the money, he would furnish a candidate, who could be elected. They furnished the money, and furthermore as a reward for their large donations, they were subsequently given the privilege of writing their own schedules in the tariff law. That put the trusts in control of the government.

They had things their own way again in 1900, when the republican party once more had an enormous corruption fund contributed by the trusts and other large corporations of the country.

It is no wonder the party refuses to let the public see the sources of its great power of corruption.

The money poured in upon the party is used for the purchase of votes in close states. The people of Massachusetts have no idea of the extent to which the money bags are emptied by republican campaigners in close states. Millions have been used to purchase the votes of some states, and it is quite likely that this year, the republicans will adopt the same tactics in New York state and some others.

There are laws against bribery, but republican politicians have no difficulty in evading them. They usually pay voters for remaining away from the polls, preferring to do this with men of the opposite party, rather than take chances of paying them and at the same time giving them an opportunity to vote as they pleased.

Since the revelations in the great insurance scandals which brought out the rottenness of republican campaign methods, the alliance of that party with the trusts and the money kings has been discredited; so that while the republican party is willing to accept the money it is not willing to let the public know of such acceptance until after the election.

President Roosevelt says that the publication is withheld until after election, lest the people should draw wrong conclusions in regard to the motive and the effect of such contributions.

The real dread with the republicans is, that the people should draw right conclusions in regard to the tacit alliance between the republican party and the law-defying corporations. So great has become the power of these combines that the republican party would not dare to disturb the tariff before election, lest by doing so it would lose the support of the trusts and the money power and thus go down in defeat.

The bluff prosecutors instituted against certain trusts is of slight importance. While the high tariff wall remains to shelter them from foreign competition, with republican connivance they will manage somehow to throttle or control domestic competition and thus to force the people under republican protection.

The story of their methods is so well known and the effect of their extortions so ruinous that the people have been groaning under the added burden while the unscrupulous trusts sell to the foreign consumer 25 per cent. less than to the American consumer.

SEEN AND HEARD

Mrs. Nellie Prince and daughter Charlotte and Mrs. Ada Thornton of North Chelmsford have gone to Portsmouth for a week. They will make an automobile tour of the White Mountains with Mr. and Mrs. Burpee Wood.

Mr. Daniel Murphy of Baltimore, Md., engaged in the automobile business, is on a two weeks' visit at his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Murphy of this city.

Misses Alice and Mabel Peacock of Hildreth street have returned from a vacation in the White Mountains.

At Lancaster, N. H., yesterday occurred the marriage of Miss Mary Webb of that town to Mr. Justin Richardson of Mammoth road, Dracut.

The race for the pennant in the American and National leagues caused a great deal of enthusiasm among the fans and no small considerable money has changed hands.

One of the pleasantest sights imaginable to a visitor from another country is to see old well-remembered faces and hear the familiar voices of friends. An instance of this occurred at the recent Prokos-Conkle wrestling contest. The latter, who resides in Hamilton, Ont., must have been agreeably surprised when he heard cries of encouragement from quite a number of spectators who were former residents of that city and now reside in Lowell. The effect was noticeable immediately in the way the Canadian brightened up and the manner in which he went after his opponent showed that the encouragement was not without its effect.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

BISHOP TIERNEY

Boston Herald: The death of Bishop Tierney of Hartford, Conn., removes one of a group of administrative heads of Roman Catholic dioceses in New England, who, after thorough tests in lesser positions, have shown the possibilities that lie in their office in building up large and flourishing institutions, religious, educational and philanthropic. How admirably this work has been done, viewed solely as an administrative proposition, the layman in business too often is ignorant. To meet the needs and demands of a state whose population, in the cities and large towns, has changed as Connecticut has during the past fifteen years, has called for vigor and skill. Intemperance and civic corruption have found in Bishop Tierney a persistent antagonist. His death will be mourned by men of all faiths.

THE SUPPORTERS OF DEBS

Boston Herald: Was it hero worship, mere discontent, fanaticism or ism of any sort that induced 10,000 people to pack the Hippodrome and the American Theatre in New York Sunday night, paying from fifteen to fifty cents to hear and cheer Eugene V. Debs? Whatever it was it was not apathy. Whether or not the principles of the socialist party are approved, the habit the members of that party have of believing their principles commands itself to members of other parties and other movements which, possessed of sound principles, are often threatened with death from inertia.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Two Jesuit fathers, Rev. James A. Rockliff and Rev. Joseph Dahmann, are on their way from Naples to Japan at the request of the pope to make preparations for a higher institute of learning, with courses in philosophy and kindred subjects, which the pope asked the society to undertake in that country. The two priests hope to meet Rev. H. Daubech at Shanghai before proceeding to Tokyo. The foundation of such an enterprise, with the necessary buildings and the establishment of a library, is expected to be a difficult matter in a country where little material help can be expected. The success of the work will depend largely on the assistance of those who are able and willing to help the cause of advancing the intellectual progress of Japan on the lines of occidental culture and Christian civilization.

Franz Kneisel, who has been the conductor of the orchestra at the Worcester festival for several years, announces that he had held that post for the last time. His quarter will demand his whole attention hereafter.

An important incident in its field is the purchase for the Field museum of national history in Chicago of the great collection of butterflies and moths made by the late Herman Strecker of Reading, Pa. Dr. Strecker was a celebrated lepidopterist, and his collection comprised between 75,000 and 100,000 specimens, the fruit of 30 years' work and expenditure, including much original research, as many of the rare specimens were named and published to science by himself.

A wharf builder at San Francisco has discovered that wood borers will not touch a pile which is used to support a live wire, and through this he hopes to get up a method of treating piles by electricity so that their life in the water will be much longer than is now the case.

Professor Charles H. Judd, head of the department of psychology at Yale university for several years, has tendered his resignation to take effect next June, when he will become the dean of the School of Education at the Chicago university. Professor Judd went to Yale from Wesleyan.

Ernestine Gregory is the first woman to pass an examination in the Seminary of Oriental Languages of Berlin. Besides a full diploma, she also received honorable mention for her knowledge of Oriental languages. Her examination in Russian language and literature was especially notable and is said to have been one of the finest ever passed by a pupil of the institution. It is expected that she will soon be called to a professorship in one of the German universities.

Mrs. A. F. Goddard of Abington has just resigned her place as church organist after a service of forty-four years, said to be the longest term of any woman in the church history of New England. She has been a successful director of choruses and quartets and has produced several popular musical compositions.

The women's club bought the necessary materials and she taught them to sew and to make garments for themselves, and they went out from the jail looking respectable, at least, and many of them were benefited.

TRIP TO THE CLOUDS

PROVIDED BY THE B. & N. NEXT SUNDAY

The special excursions to Mt. Uncasagone, N. H., which were started by the Boston & Northern St. Ry. Co. last Sunday, will be continued next Sunday and probably the Sunday following as there have been many requests from people who could not find it convenient to go on the other day.

The excursion Sunday was handled very smoothly without a hitch and the people who went upon it expressed themselves as having spent one of the most delightful of days. The trolley trip is a very enjoyable one itself, then there is the ride up the inclined railway, which is the steepest in the country, but the greatest joy of all is the view from the top of the mountain when its summit is reached.

From Shirley station to the base of the mountain is about two miles. This is a steady climb, it having a rise of 350 feet, right through the woods with a view over the surrounding country presented at intervals, and gives one an idea of what is to come. The mountain itself rises 1387 feet into the air and presents the most magnificent view in New England, from all four sides. The foliage has been late in turning this year but by Sunday it will be wearing its most gorgeous colorings.

The special through excursion cars will leave Merrimack square at 9.15, 9.45 and 10.15 a.m., and return leaving the mountain at 3 p.m.

CHURCH NOTES

WHAT IS GOING ON AT THE VESTRIES

Sunday, October 11, will be observed as rally day at the Dracut Centre church.

Pawtucket Church

The regular monthly social of the Pawtucket church was held last evening and was under the general direction of Mrs. Atkinson Varnum. There was a supper and entertainment. Guests of the evening included Rev. E. R. Smith of Concord, N. H., a former pastor of the church, and Mrs. Smith.

Fifth St. Baptist

A pretty and very enjoyable social was held in the vestries of the Fifth Street Baptist church, Tuesday evening. The rooms were prettily decorated with autumn foliage and hydrangeas.

In the reception room was a Chinese exhibit consisting of silk scarves, handkerchiefs, shawls and various other articles that were made in China. The following musical program was enjoyed:

Piano duet, selected, Miss Margaret Park and Miss Marion Swann; song, "Slave Song," Miss Mullen; piano solo, "The Two Angels," Miss Elsie Harvey; "Travels in Southern Europe," Miss Macdonald; song, "Through the Grasses," Miss Mullen; piano duet, selected, Miss Marion Swann and Miss Margaret Park.

Captain S. C. Lural, who was with Gen. Kitchener in his expedition to Khartoum will lecture in the Gorham street Primitive church tonight on his experience in that adventure.

TUESDAY CLUB

BY MRS. J. CLARK GLIDDEN YESTERDAY

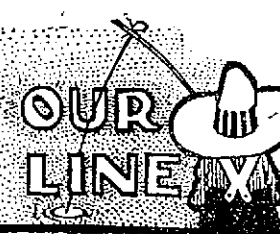

The Tuesday club, an organization existing during the summer months at Stirling Junction, was entertained, yesterday, by Mrs. J. Clark Glidden. It was a noon luncheon and covers were laid for ten.

The house was prettily decorated with autumn leaves.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Walter Perham and Mrs. Merion N. Glidden. Mrs. F. L. Roberts sang solos and Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Pinkham sang duets after the lunch. The officers of the Book-a-Month club of this city also assisted Mrs. Glidden.

LOWELL HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The regular (quarterly) meeting of the society will be held at its rooms in Memorial hall, Wednesday evening, October 14, 1908, at 7.30 sharp, to transact such business as may legally come before the meeting. James F. Savage, Esq., will deliver an address on Genealogical Research and Hon. Samuel P. Hadley will give a talk on his recent and former visits to Europe.

FOR ERIN'S CAUSE

Sum of $10,000 Sent by Irish League

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—The national treasurer of the United Irish league of America, T. B. Fitzpatrick, yesterday forwarded to the national trustees of the parliamentary fund in Ireland, John E. Redmond, M. P., Rt. Rev. Patrick O'Donnell, bishop of Raphoe, and John Fitzgibbon, $10,000 as a first instalment of the amount pledged at the recent national convention of the organization held in Faneuil hall. Mr. Fitzpatrick hopes to be able to forward another large instalment within the next few weeks.

Following is the letter which accompanied the money:

"Boston, Mass., Oct. 6, 1908. John E. Redmond, Esq., M. P., Rt. Rev. Patrick O'Donnell, Bishop of Raphoe, John Fitzgibbon, Chairman Rosemount County Council, Trustees Irish Parliamentary Fund.

"Gentlemen—Enclosed please find draft for two thousand pounds (£2000) the first instalment of the $10,000 pledged by the convention of the United Irish league of America at Faneuil hall, Boston, 10 days ago.

"This amount is but an earnest of what the United Irish league of America intends doing within the next two years to sustain by moral and financial assistance a united pledge-bound and determined Irish party in the house of commons, pending the winning of national self-government.

"You will, I feel sure, be glad to hear that at no time in the past was the spirit of largeness more manifest among the people of the Irish race in this country than it is at present. This was plainly indicated at the recent great convention of the organization held in Boston. American public sentiment is ranged with practical unanimity on the side of the Irish party and has no sympathy with any attempt at bickering or strife which would tend to weaken the influence or lessen the power of that party.

"Trusting I may be enabled to forward another instalment, similar to the enclosed, in the very near future. I have the honor to be, respectfully yours,

T. B. Fitzpatrick, "National Treasurer."

From Springfield a Successful One

The Springfield Republican published the following account of the balloon ascension made in that city this week, by Charles J. Glidden:

Charles J. Glidden made a beautiful ascension in the balloon Boston yesterday afternoon about 3.15, accompanied by his brother, Merton N. Glidden of Lowell. The balloon rose slowly, sailing a bit toward the east. The crowd was not so large as at the ascensions in the days before Springfield became so important a ballooning center, but the 500 or so who did see the balloon go up were favored with a pretty an ascension as any that has been held here. The balloon sailed slowly up to a height of 2000 feet and by that time had gently floated due west a short distance, although the big bag was visible over the western section of the city for a considerable time. Eight bags of sand were taken up, a good supply, that would have made a longer flight possible with a favorable breeze. Merton N. Glidden had never before made an actual start, although he had before assisted with the methods of starting. After going a short distance east, the balloon turned north, and finally passed over Holyoke and then went toward Ludlow, in which town it finally landed, after being in the air three hours. The two balloons were brought back to Springfield by H. G. Chapin and H. G. Chapin and P. Butler. The ascension yesterday was especially noticeable for the increasing number of motorists who followed the big bag, and several cars were "in at the death," among them being the two cars of the author, Dr. E. C. Collins and Judge J. L. Long of this city and that of J. K. Judd of Holyoke. If the gradual increase in the number of pursuing cars continues, the ascensions will soon take the form of a hare and hound chase. Yesterday's trip was not exciting, however, nor was it hard for the motorists, for it was a beautiful day, so that the view was wonderful. Merton Glidden called the trip a "real lesson in geography," and he expressed great pleasure at his experience.

The ascension yesterday will be remembered by one Holyoke girl for many years to come, for she was given the chance to see what it is like to leave the ground in a balloon, and while her trip was short, it was thoroughly enjoyed. When the balloon ascended yesterday its course was followed by J. K. Judd of Holyoke with a party in his automobile, and when it came down between South Hadley and Holyoke the automobile party were near the spot. In the automobile was Miss Dorothy Munson, the 15-year-old niece of Mrs. Judd, a junior in the Holyoke high school. After the balloon descended the aeronauts invited members of the party to try a short ascension, but they declined, with the exception of Miss Munson, who was not afraid to make the trial, and so got into the basket. The balloon was let go, and rose to an elevation of about 500 feet and remained in the air about 10 minutes before it was brought to the earth. She enjoyed the ride and was not frightened in the least, and will be perfectly willing to try a balloon ride again should the chance be offered. Miss Munson enjoys the distinction of being one of the few Holyokers who have made a balloon ascension.

ing to try a balloon ride again should the chance be offered. Miss Munson enjoys the distinction of being one of the few Holyokers who have made a balloon ascension.

LIVES IN DANGER

Fourteen Persons Had Narrow Escapes

LYNN, Oct. 8.—Fourteen persons had a fortunate escape from suffocation during the progress of a fire which broke out in the three-story wooden block at 150 Chestnut street shortly after 11 o'clock last night.

Many of them had to go out into the chill night air clad in their sleeping apparel. The fire started in the plumbing store of George M. Stoddard on the first floor, and great clouds of smoke poured through all the rooms and made escape dangerous.

On the second floor were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fannor and their son Michael. They were led down stairs to safety by the firemen.

On the third floor were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Trudell and their daughter Mary; Mr. and Mrs. Mosomom, Mrs. Ida Taylor, Andrew and George Taylor and Hazel and Maud Hadley. None of the occupants had time to dress.

THE BARTENDERS

ANOTHER ATTEMPT MADE TO ORGANIZE THEM

Another attempt is being made to organize the bartenders, or wine clerks, of this city. J. E. Laycock, international organizer, is in this city conferring with different bartenders for the purpose of gaining from them an expression as to the outlook. A number of years ago, the Lowell union roll began in its dues to the National organization, and the charter was suspended. It happened that a no-license year went into effect not long afterward, and the Lowell bartenders were greatly handicapped in their quest for employment in other cities because of their inability to show union cards.

Mr. Laycock is also the organizer for the culinary workers, and a meeting of this craft has been called for Friday night of this week in Weavers' hall. The culinary workers include cooks, waitresses and all employees of restaurants. These employees have never been organized in Lowell.

WM. J. CARROLL

SAYS DEBS RECEIVES NO ASSISTANCE FROM REPUBLICANS.

William J. Carroll, a law student who is also a socialist, called at The Sun office this morning to say that he does not believe there is any foundation for the statement that Mr. Debs is receiving financial aid from the republicans. He had with him a copy of the official Bulletin of the socialist party in which it is shown that up to date the cash contributions to the campaign amount to $13,364.05. In addition, he says, collections are taken up at all the socialist meetings so that there should be enough funds to keep Debs in motion in his red special until the campaign is over.

SERVIA'S PROTEST

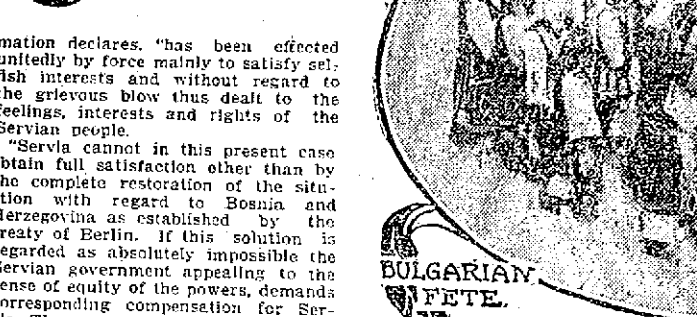

Against Annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina

BELGRADE, Servia, Oct. 8.—The Servian government in its proclamation protesting against the annexation by Austria-Hungary of Bosnia and Herzegovina expresses the hope that the powers will respond to the appeal addressed to them for protection and justice. "This new and flagrant violation of the Berlin treaty," the proclamation declares, "has been effected unilaterally by force mainly to satisfy selfish interests and without regard to the grievous blow there is to the feelings, interests and rights of the Servian people."

"Servia cannot in this present case obtain full satisfaction other than by the complete restoration of the situation with regard to Bosnia and Herzegovina as established by the treaty of Berlin. If this solution is regarded as absolutely impossible the Servian government appealing to the sense of equity of the powers, demands corresponding compensation for Servia. The guarantee is indispensable to her existence as an independent state must be maintained and the general condition of existence assured Servia by the treaty of Berlin must, at least in a measure, be restored."

The proclamation declares that the rights accorded Servia under this treaty are incomparably inferior to the sacrifices imposed upon her. Servia has scrupulously observed the terms of the treaty. No modifications to the advantage of Servia have been made, whereas there have been a number of modifications to the advantage of other powers.

FOR BOY WHO WAS INJURED BY DEFECTIVE MACHINERY

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—A verdict for $5000 was awarded James L. Donovan, a boy, against the Chase Shawmut company for injuries before Judge Schofield in the fifth session of the superior court yesterday. It was all the boy sued for, and his father, Michael Donovan, was awarded $500 for the loss of the son's service. Young Donovan, shortly after leaving school, went to work in the company's shop, and on May 19, 1902, while operating a defective machine, his right hand was caught in the knife of it and badly lacerated.

WHAT JACKIE WILL SEE IN THE PHILIPPINES

Uncle Sam Thinks That He Has Good Reason to Be Proud of His Ten-year-old Experiment.

WHEN the mighty American fleet which is now girdling the globe reaches the Philippine archipelago, on Oct. 1, according to the official itinerary, the jacks who man the great fighting machines will already have seen more of the world than falls within the experience of most men. How- ever jaded and surfeited they may be from an embarrassment of riches in the way of sightseeing opportunities, they are certain to be stimulated by fresh interest when they set foot in Uncle Sam's faraway territory.

Ten years ago on the 1st day of last May the stars and stripes were flung out over Manila bay by Admiral Dewey. It was a summons to better things given to a group of feckless, far stretching islands, basking half asleep in the tropical sun, the dwelling place of 7,000,000 of half civilized beings, for the most part steeped in ignorance and broken into warring factions by dissimilarity of language and customs.

A change has been wrought that is a marvel to the world. The hand of the despot has been made powerless, the demon of internal strife has been quieted, the light of western civilization has been set to shine in the dark places and industries that will bring increasing prosperity have been planted.

Who could have believed ten years ago that today the American public school would be the most popular thing in the archipelago? There are 3,500 of these dwellers in the islands, 1,000 conducted by American teachers and the others by natives who understand the English language and how to teach it. In round numbers there are enrolled at the present time 500,000 children who are reaping the benefit of the new order of things. It seems almost incredible, but there are now more persons in the islands who speak English than those who speak Spanish after the long years of peninsular occupation.

The Craze For Education. The Filipino's desire for the new education amounts to a veritable passion. There is no need for the truancy officer in the Philippines. The schools are overcrowded by pupils who present themselves voluntarily. Every effort is being made to increase the number of public schools, but the demand keeps well in advance of the supply. In the great rice growing districts, tenanted by the most poverty stricken and ignorant of the native population, clubs are being formed, and each member contributes his pittance toward sending for an American teacher.

It still happens that in the interior districts, far away from the business centers, the children crowd into the schoolrooms without a vestige of clothing on their attenuated little bodies. This propensity to go unclothed is one of the things which the American teachers find most difficult to overcome. Naturally it is one of the first reforms the American woman teacher tries to make. First of all, she tries to influence the mothers. It does not take her long to discover that the maternal indifference is practically insurmountable. Long custom has made the Filipino mother a convert to the belief that juvenile nakedness is a housekeeping convenience which she

American capital is invested in the Philippines. As a matter of fact, the opportunity for the safe and profitable investment of capital in the Philippines is very great, far greater than it has ever been in Cuba. The island of Luzon, the second largest in the archipelago, is 2,000 square miles larger than Cuba. There is probably no other country in the world in which the intelligent investment of capital investment expired. There can be no question as to the agricultural fitness of the islands, for in spite of the antiquated methods which have always prevailed there the returns have been highly remunerative.

Not So Remote.

It is really amazing how little is known about the Philippines by the great majority of Americans. The Freight from the Philippines can be landed in New York, via Suez, for less than $7.50 a ton. To bring freight from San Francisco to New York by railroad costs three times that amount.

One of the things which will be a surprise to the men of the fleet will be the remarkable diversity of Philippine products. In the mountains of interior Luzon the so called "head hunt-abundance of uncultivated land so well adapted to the raising of this product. In Cuba and Hawaii practically all of the good sugar land has long since been placed under cultivation. Prime sugar land in Cuba commands lofty figures, ranging from $400 to $800 per acre, and the land is to be had in such small parcels that enough cannot be obtained to make a sugar mill profitable. In Hawaii the want of land is

During the Past Decade Wonderful Things Have Come to Pass In the Archipelago.

If not better, sugar lands than are owned by foreigners, with just as cheap, or cheaper, labor as there is to be found in other tropical countries.

Jack will also see for himself how the Filipino has been maligned by those who have made habitual indolence his foremost characteristic. This is disproved by the great enthusiasm which the islanders have manifested over the industrial schools established by the United States government. Before the experiment was tried it was declared in certain quarters that the native propensity to shirk labor would prove to be an insuperable barrier to the way of the success of the plan. Time has shown the falsity of this insinuation. In the insular school of arts and trades at Manila, which is the principal industrial institution in the islands, there is a waiting list which largely exceeds that of the registered pupils. The American Jacks will be both astonished and pleased at what he sees in Uncle Sam's ten-year-old experiment. A. J. POMEROY.

ENGLAND'S ROYAL CARRIAGE.

King Edward rode in a carriage worth $35,000 when he went to the opening of parliament on the last occasion.

The vehicle is one of the most costly and splendid in the world. It was built in 1761, on the occasion of the marriage of George III, and has ever since carried the English kings and queens on all high state occasions. Sir William Chambers designed the vehicle, which weighs four tons.

Despite its 147 years' service its great wheels, gear and body are said to be as sound as when built, and it looks as if it would go on forever. Steel springs were unknown when the coach was built, and its ponderous yet daintily luxurious body is suspended on leather braces, not unlike those of the old Concord stagecoaches of America. Its balance is so perfect that a touch of the finger is enough to set the body swinging on the big creaking straps which brace the carved and gilded tritons supporting the driver's seat and hammercloth. The length of the vehicle is twenty-four feet.

The elaborate carvings cost more than the carriage proper, the coach builder's bill having been less than $3,000, while that of the carver was more than $10,000. Something of the character of the ornamentation may be guessed from the fact that the artist Cipriani received $1,500 for painting the panels and that the lacemaker's charge was something like $4,000.

The preparation of the royal equipage for state occasions is a real sight. Six pairs of milk white horses from the royal stud are always used, and all wear false tails. The coachman, in powder and curls, mounts his seat with the aid of a ladder, but does not really drive, postillions on the horses and state groomers who walk beside them being in command of the team.

COCKPIT IN MANILA

CLASS OF BOYS IN NORMAL HIGH SCHOOL, MANILA

cannot do without. One teacher enlisted the co-operation of some army women, and in time her pupils were provided with garments of the most elemental sartorial pretensions and instructed to wear them. On the following morning every one of them appeared covered only with their dusky little skins. The mothers explained that the new garments were good for a feast day, but altogether too much bother for ordinary occasions. It was found necessary to make the wearing of the unwelcome clothes a part of the regular school discipline. The children were dressed when they arrived in the morning and permitted to lay aside the unpopular garments at the close of the afternoon session.

The American Jack tar will be astonished to find how much good will yield such vast returns. Many Americans have invested in lumbering and mining operations and are beginning to reap satisfactory results. Several large companies have engaged in agriculture. One of these, a concern which uses an enormous quantity of binding twine, has invested $5,000,000 in hemp. Another company has purchased an immense estate of 44,000 acres and has gone extensively into farming.

So far most of the Americans who have become Philippine farmers are those who were formerly in the employ of the government. At Davao, on the island of Mindanao, there are at least fifty men engaged in hemp raising who were formerly soldiers in the United States army and remained in the country after their terms of en-

It cannot fail to be apparent to the American visitors that sugar raising is certain to become the agricultural feature of the country. When the President and Kermit Go A-hunting

WHEN President Roosevelt announced his intention of going to the dark continent on a hunting expedition at the close of his term he was besieged immediately by a host of men who confessed to a yearning to become his companions de voyage. Some of them were real hunters, men who have gone in search of big game and have bagged it, but most of them were camp followers pure and simple—cooks, photographers, surgeons, taxidermists, botanists and rough riders innumerable.

Had the president accepted half of those who offered he would have been able to enter the African jungle next spring at the head of a fair sized army, as American armies go. He could have captured the Kongo State, with half of the force that has already volunteered to serve under his banner. As a matter of fact, he has decided positively on no application save that of his son Kermit, who in some way managed to secure a favorable decision at a very early stage of the game.

Among the most insistent in their importunities to go with the party have been the photographers. It is Kermit also who has interfered with the aspirations of these artistic gentlemen. Within the past few months he has become a very expert photographer and will be perfectly competent to furnish all the pictures needed. The illustration of the president's magazine articles and of the book which will be forthcoming will be attended to by this clever young amateur, and the fact that it is done by the president's son will add greatly to the value of the output. A special camera has been constructed under the direction of Frank M. Chapman, one of the curators of the American Museum of Natural History, who for some time has been teaching Kermit how to use a similar apparatus. This camera is especially provided with lenses adapted to the taking of movable objects and is patterned after the one used by Mr. Chapman in his expeditions undertaken in the service of the museum.

The Happy Hunting Ground.

According to the expert Nimrods, east Africa is now the only remaining field in the world which is proof against the pot hunter. As such it appeals mightily to the lover of big game, and the president is not the only one who has looked longingly in the direction of its unpenetrated solitudes. Thus far those wholesale slayers of wild beasts who might have afforded the enormous expense of equipping an expedition into these untrodden wilds have been deterred by various prudential reasons. For one thing they have been afraid to risk their lives in the pestilential fever swamps of the interior, and for another they have not been able to satisfy themselves that it is measurably safe to venture into the country of a race so unfriendly to the whites.

So it happens that although more than one adventurous American sportsman has made his way to this admirable hunting ground it has not become familiar to the ordinary "man with a gun." The great expenditure of time and money involved in a journey to Africa has kept him at a distance. Before one concludes to make it he must consider that two months will be required to reach a port of entry and an expenditure of at least $500, leaving the question of equipment and all further expense out of the consideration. Those who have leisure for such matters and a taste for figures of respectable denominations have estimated that the cost of the president's east African holiday cannot fall far short of $25,000.

Marvelous Tales.

In the old slave trading days those who were engaged in the nefarious traffic used to spin marvelous yarns concerning the animal life of this region. Their accounts of the vast natural zoological park which comprised the heart of the continent were so extravagant that no one pretended to credit them fully. We were more willing to believe Dr. Livingstone, but when he stated that in the country behind Quilimane he had seen herds of elephants that must have aggregated millions of specimens we were inclined to the belief that his arithmetic was at fault. Tippo Tip, the famous sultan of Zanzibar who was so potent in Africa twenty years ago, compared the number of wild animals in the continent with that of the sands of the sea. That, of course, was largely fanciful, but the noted despot's subsequent estimate that in east Africa there were no fewer than 200,000 elephants in 15,000 herds and that their tusks were worth $25,000,000 was not so hard to comprehend. In those days the greed of the Arab ivory hunters was so intense that extinction seemed probable. A stop was put to the dastardly behavior, and since that time the herds have increased wonderfully, so largely, indeed, that recently there have come appeals from the interior settlements for the suspension of the game laws for a few years so that the elephants, buffaloes, rhinoceroses, hippopotamuses and other large animals which are now a menace to life and property may be thinned out by unlimited slaughter. The Literary Viewpoint.

It goes without saying that the president will write a book. He has not denied the soft impeachment, and Kermit's strenuous course in photography seems to clinch the matter. Mr.

Roosevelt is far too wise and altogether too thrifty to permit such valuable material for copy to be wasted. He is not the man to make this long and trying journey for the sole purpose of killing an elephant or two and mayhap bagging a lion or a tiger. It was all very well for an opposition newspaper humorist to suggest that he was going for the purpose of securing genuine lion skins to cover the floors at Sagamore Hill since he was unable to make the pure food law cover the adulteration of lion hides, but there is not the slightest reason to believe that his intention is other than he expressed it when the project first was announced—to get away from civilization, to recover from the wearing effect of seven years of hard labor and to get his nerves into proper condition for the remainder of his life work.

Experienced Nimrod that he is, the president has not yet qualified himself to rank with the world's premier hunters of big game. Before he is entirely fit he must have killed the lion, the rhinoceros, the elephant, the gorilla and the royal Bengal tiger, not to mention the swift eland, the meditative carabao and the sociable hippopotamus. Mr. Roosevelt has never hunted outside his own country and in Canada, a region in which there is but a single wild creature which is bagged at any personal risk to the sportsman—the grizzly bear. The president is but an undergraduate in the great university of outdoor life and sport. He realizes this and is anxious to complete his training and receive his major degree.

Among the minor animals which the president will hunt for the first time are the zebra, the ferocious wart hog, the harlequin and the armor protected crocodile. He will also get some ostrich shooting and may succeed in bagging a few secretary birds, although they are reputed to be scarce even in Africa. It will be very unusual indeed if while the party is making its slow way through the swamps which form a sort of moat around the happy hunting ground proper Mr. Roosevelt does not get a shot at a nodding hippopotamus half buried in the mud and rank vegetation. Unless his aim is well directed the wounded animal is quite likely to go lumbering through the underbrush in the direction of the point of attack, emitting sounds which will seem to be far more menacing than they really are, since the awkward beast is not well provided with means of defense and is about the easiest foe on earth from which to escape.

The Noblest Game.

The rhinoceros, however, is quite a different proposition. When disturbed it is very apt to resent the interruption. Although it is not constructed in the interests of agility, it is sufficiently dangerous when maimed to afford Mr. Roosevelt a lively moment. As for the lion, it is now admitted by those who have had experience in the matter that he is a cowardly beast, making a big noise, but inclined to turn tail and run when he recognizes the fact that his master, man, is in dead earnest. The president will find some other animals much more interesting and even dangerous than "the king of beasts." All accredited hunters of big game at the present time agree that the elphant is the noblest game in the world and that hunting him is "the sport of kings." The elephant always dies game. He is never a docile and resigned victim, and his companions are not slow to avenge him if the assailant can be reached.

Besides the president's favorite rifles, some necessary personal effects and Kermit's new camera practically none of the equipment for the expedition will be taken from America. When the Mediterranean steamer carrying the president's party arrives at Cairo everything necessary for the continuation of the journey will be found ready. At each point of special interest or danger there will be native guides in waiting, and when it is deemed necessary an armed force will be in readiness to safeguard the party. Nothing that will contribute to the success of the expedition is at all likely to be neglected by a man endowed with so much executive ability as is the president.

CHARLES E. GAYLORD.

THE FIRST TEA PLANT.

In A. D. 510 an Indian prince named Darma visited China on a religious mission. Wishing to influence the people more strongly, he devoted nights and days during several years to unceasing prayer until at last, overcome by fatigue, he slept. When Prince Darma awoke he was horrified to find yielded to his desire to sleep and cut off his eyelids, which he threw on the ground, the better to remember his vow of vigilance.

The next day he returned to the spot and found his eyelids had disappeared and that where he had thrown them a strange kind of plant was growing. Darma picked some of the leaves and tasted them. He suddenly felt reinvigorated and restored in spirits, and, calling his followers, he drew their attention to the plant, which became known as the tea plant, and since then has become world known for its properties as "the cup that cheers."

THINGS REVERSED IN JAPAN.

In Japan the natives have a habit of reversing nearly everything according to our accepted ideas of how things should be done. Thus a Japanese workman pulls the piano toward him, a blacksmith blows the bellows with his feet, the cooper holds tube with his feet, and nearly every one sits down to work. Horses are put in their stables reverse ways, for the horse's flank is where his head should be. Japanese screws screw the other way, and Japanese locks lock to left.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The Polo grounds where today's contest takes place, was a center of growing interest as the morning advanced. Groups of enthusiastic fans, before daylight, were coming from their homes to gain points of vantage. By 1 o'clock several hundred people were at the gate and the crowd was steadily augmented. Patrols of guards had been thrown around the enclosure to keep back the swarms of marauding loafers. The police were doing a splendid job of their duty. The game was not started until 2 o'clock, the men having been assured by the side and outside the grounds. A goodly share of the extras were held in reserve for possible emergencies, for with such a crowd and such intensity of feeling the officials were prepared for lively and perhaps disorderly scenes. "I fear we may see some rough-houses here today," said one of the officials. The crowd at the Polo grounds is a splendid show. Thirty thousand people are expected to be here. The game was not started until 2 o'clock, the men having been assured by the management from the Polo grounds to secure early information of the result.

President Murphy of the Cubs said there was no question in his mind as to the outcome this afternoon. He already had predicted that Chicago would win by a score of 3 to 2, he said, and he was standing by that prediction. "The boys were never in such a condition of fitness as they are today," said he.

While I have no bitter feelings against McGraw or President Brush I am strong in my assertion that if the Cubs had to be played off it should have been by a series of three games. This custom obtains in all departments of sport and in a professional contest like baseball it is unfair for a team to be obliged to rush out of the west and play one deciding game. I believe as do all the Chicago followers that the Cubs should have been awarded to us by the board of directors on the merits of the case.

Whatever the merits of the directors' decision which compelled the playing off today the alleged game of September 23 even the most bitter enthusiast must concede that the decree has given opportunity for seeing such a marvelous thing and such rare sports would not otherwise have been possible. The circumstances which have led up to today's contest are unique and this final game between Chicago and New York is sure to stand spectacularly and otherwise as one of the greatest in baseball history. Whoever wins, it is evident from today's demonstrations that to have been affectionately known to followers as a "Giant" or a "Cub" in 1908 will be sufficient glory. But the temper of the players today, judging from what was heard at the quarters before the squads came on the field was not for "gallery playing" but for the truest, truest kind of baseball and team-work. Both teams are fit though New York, whose fight has had no let-up, lacks the advantage Chicago must have gained from several days of rest.

The gates were opened unusually early today that so far as possible the inevitable congestion in the last half hour in the time set for calling play might be relieved. Lines began to form shortly after daylight and when the gates swung at 11 o'clock there was a large crowd. From then on an ever-increasing hundreds, men, women and boys fairly hurled themselves inside the enclosure and then at top notch speed sprinted to the bleachers and unreserved sections.

Many Scrimmages

Scrimmages over positions were frequent. Special police provisions had been made but there were times when they were powerless to stop the almost unending crowding around the entrance. Soon every possible vantage point, however precarious, came to have its human cluster. In the grandstand were numerous notables; cosmopolitan groups of "fans," many of whom had travelled hundreds of miles for the event. Vast as was the crowd at the Polo grounds hundreds of its counterparts in miniature throughout the country were watching bulletin boards in Chicago where by almost instantaneous "flashes" over the wire play by play is produced on mammoth perpendicular diamond; and even in the little village where the enterprising weekly records on an impromptu poster the results half inning by half inning were from the press box here. Stadium-like the throngs are packed here on every side, and now breathless hush, now wildest cheering indicate the tension which has eliminated life's ordinary routine and concentrated attention upon championship baseball.

The Gates Opened

At 1:15 the gates to the field were opened and thousands rushed madly for vantage places. The crowd was interrupted by the three which persisted in crowding around the home plate and in front of the benches. Already the police within the enclosure had their hands full.

There is a general demand for clearing of the gates to the field as the crowd around the diamond will shut off the view from the lower rows of seats. Outside grounds pandemonium reigns. Thousands are clamoring for admittance, which is denied them. Chicago is warming up.

While the excitement around the diamond is spreading, the players on the grounds and sitting on the benches are peacefully engaged in their pre-game routine. The players are peacefully engaged in their pre-game routine. The players are peacefully engaged in their pre-game routine.

But this rapidly dissipated later, the morning sun which by 1:30 was shining brightly from a clear sky, the casual fan was pulled up by the south but a storm cloud was sight to threaten the approaching game.

Mathewson arrived on the field at 1:50. He was not at first noticed by the crowd, but when he was there was the wildest enthusiasm.

Chicago went out on field at 2:20 for preliminary practice. There was some hooting from the stands but the demonstration was not of a hostile character and the visiting players did not seem to mind it.

As the time for the beginning of the game approached, from the press box the skyline everywhere is human heads. They are located at grandstands, roofs, fences, "L" structures, electric light poles, and in the further distance on smokestacks, chimneys, advertising signs, and copings of apartment houses.

On the viaduct, speedway and cliffs back of the grandstand is practically a solid mass of people. The partially completed addition to the grandstand converted from a section of the bleachers to the north is in use, seating 2500. A fair car "L" train, which stood on a siding by the grounds, affording a fine view of the whole amphitheatre and which was covered inside and on the roof was suddenly moved out by the railroad company, and all were down town. The practice of the visitors was interrupted by the ringing of the bell and although they were supposed to have 15 minutes for this work Pitcher McGinnity of the local team went to the plate and started to bat a ball which was pitched by Over-

Manager Chance asked McGinnity to start but the New York player replied by showing his elbow into Chance's chest. The police then interfered and avoided any trouble from the players who rushed up and surrounded the men at the plate. After a couple of minutes' argument the visiting players moved away to their own bench and the New York team took place on the diamond and began warming up.

The crowd is ready for anything evidently. It is apparently in an inflammable condition.

Chance to McGraw

In a few minutes McGraw's men relinquished the diamond and the visitors resumed practice. As Manager Chance was going to first base he was shot at by a crowd of fans who were sitting on the bench where McGraw was sitting. "That was a small piece of business,"

Ground Rules

The game was called at 2:50. Ground rules were agreed upon. A hit into the crowd was good for two bases and one base was allowed for an overthrow.

The umpires were Johnstone and Klein. The New York lineup: Tenney, 1b; Herzog, 2b; Bresnahan, c; Donlin, 3b; Seymour, cf; Devlin, ss; McCormick, lf; Bridwell, ss; Mathewson, p.

THE GAME.

First Inning

For Chicago: Sheppard struck out. Schulte fanned and the crowd cheered wildly for Mathewson, who was in superb condition.

Evers was out on a fast stop and throw, Herzog to Tenney. No runs. For New York: Tenney took his base, being hit by the first ball Pfeister pitched.

Herzog got a base on balls. Herzog was caught off first by Chance on Kling's throw. Bresnahan struck out and Donlin doubled to right scoring Tenney. Chance claimed the ball was foul but Umpire Johnstone differed.

Seymour walked. Chance took Pfeister out of the box and substituted Brown.

One run. Devlin fanned. Score—New York 1, Chicago 0.

Second Inning

Chicago: Chance singled to right but was caught napping off first. Mathewson to Tenney. Hoffman protested while the crowd boomed.

Hoffman continued to protest and was put out of the game and ordered off the field. Moran who was coaching was put off the coaching line. Steinfield fanned. Howard batted in place of Hoffman and struck out. No runs.

Schulte, Bridwell went out the same way. Mathewson out. Tinker to Chance, a fast play. No runs.

Score—New York 1, Chicago 0.

Third Inning

Chicago: Tinker tried to deep center. Kling singled to left center, scoring Tinker. Brown went out to Tenney. Unassisted. Kling going second. Sheppard and Donlin to Seymour. Sheppard struck out. Evers walked. Devlin doubled to left. No runs.

Chance decided to pitch, scoring Herzog and Seymour.

Score—New York 1, Chicago 0.

Fourth Inning

For Chicago: Herzog went out. Herzog to Tenney. Tinker was caught by Mathewson and Pfeister. Kling batted in place of Herzog. No runs.

For New York: Herzog, 1st out. Herzog to Tenney. Tinker was caught by Mathewson and Pfeister. Kling batted in place of Herzog. No runs.

Score—New York 1, Chicago 0.

Fifth Inning

For Chicago: Herzog was out. Herzog to Tenney. Tinker was caught by Mathewson and Pfeister. Kling batted in place of Herzog. No runs.

Score—New York 1, Chicago 0.

A fast stop and throw, Devlin to Tenney. Seymour was under Sheppard's fly. Evers went out. Mathewson to Tenney. No runs.

For New York: Mathewson out. Steinfield to Chance. Evers and Chance dismissed. Tenney. Herzog and Pfeister out. No runs.

Score—Chicago 4, New York 1.

Sixth Inning

For Chicago: Schulte foul batted to Devlin. Chance singled to left. Chance caught stealing. Bresnahan to Herzog. Steinfield singled to left. Herzog fanned. No runs.

For New York: Bresnahan was out. Tinker to Chance. Donlin died to Sheppard. Seymour sent a long fly to Schulte. No runs.

Total score: Chicago 4, New York 1.

For Chicago: Tinker batted to McCormick. Kling fanned. Brown out. Mathewson to Tenney. No runs.

For New York: Devlin singled to left center. McCormick hit safely to right for a base. Bridwell walked, filling the bases. Doyle batted for Mathewson. He fouled out to Kling.

Eighth Inning

For Chicago: Willse went into pitch for New York. Sheppard struck out. Evers doubled to left. Schulte hit to Tenney but was safe on latter's fumble. Evers going to third. Chance died to McCormick and the latter threw to Bresnahan nailing Evers at the plate. No runs.

For New York: Bresnahan out. Brown to Chance. Donlin died to Sheppard. Seymour out. Evers to Chance. No runs.

CRIES OF "MURDER"

Cries of "murder," "help," and "police" shortly before eight o'clock last night aroused the people in the vicinity of Middlesex and King streets and the sight of a police officer hot footed it after a fleeing man followed by the sound of revolver shots gave every indication that a murder had been committed and that the culprit was endeavoring to make his escape. The matter, however, was not so serious as was at first thought.

It seems that Eugene Oryenda had been working for a man and anxious to get his pay called at his employer's place of business and after demanding his money was refused. It is alleged that Eugene "smashed" his boss in the face and then ran out of the building through Middlesex street.

The employer enraged at the manner in which he had been used started shouting "murder," "help," "police," etc., and the cries attracted the attention of Patrolman John H. Clarke. The officer saw Oryenda rushing down Middlesex street and shouted at the man to stop but the latter instead of stopping increased his speed and went through King street towards Jackson street.

In order to frighten the fleeing man the officer discharged his revolver twice, the shots being directed in the rear. More shots were fired by the officer and Oryenda stopped. He was taken to the police station where he was booked for drunkenness, and owing to the fact that no one appeared against him this morning the prisoner was fined $2.

THE DEMOCRATS SHOULD SEE THAT THEIR NAMES ARE ON VOTING LIST

The democratic city committee calls the attention of democratic citizens of voting for their candidates at the approaching election that unless they register they cannot vote, and it behooves them not to slight registration. The democrats should take this matter up at once and if their names are not on the list they should go to city hall and make themselves eligible to vote on election day.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Secretary Wilson of the New York city board of health died at his home at 10 o'clock this morning. He was 61 years of age.

GREAT MEETING

One of the largest and most important meetings ever held by Division Number 2, A. O. H., was held last evening in Hibernian hall. The quarterly reports were read, which showed the condition of the treasury to be satisfactory, despite the seven deaths, and also the large amount of sick benefits paid out. Arrangements were completed for the annual social and dance to be held in A. O. H. hall on Friday evening, November 20, 1908. It was voted unanimously to turn out and take part in the parade in Boston on Wednesday evening, Nov. 11th, the opening night of the grand charity bazaar, which is called Hibernian night.

A committee of three was appointed to meet with a like committee from the other four divisions to make all necessary arrangements. It was voted, unanimously to support the candidacy of James O'Sullivan of Division 2 for county president of the A. O. H. for Middlesex county at the meeting to be held in Hibernian hall, Sunday, October 11th at 12 o'clock noon. It was also voted to be one of the most important conventions held for a number of years. A social and literary entertainment was held last night, which proved very interesting. The principal speaker of the evening was the division chaplain, Rev. John P. Reynolds, O. M. I., who was enthusiastically applauded at intervals during his able address. At the conclusion of the address he was given a cordial reception. The other speakers were Michael Conolly, president of Division 11th, A. O. H.; James O'Sullivan of Division 2, and John W. Daly of Division 1, who gave one of the ablest addresses ever delivered in Hibernian hall. Hon. James B. Casey of the A. O. H. also spoke in his usual able manner and did not forget to mention the A. O. H. and its work in the world.

Dr. Halpin and others. Edward Pope of No. 1 rendered a very pleasing vocal selection, and was applauded for his efforts to please. Thomas J. Lyons, president during the meeting, and also during the exercises in an able manner.

6 O'CLOCK HAD TWO WIVES

Camille Marineau and Emma Desmarais were arraigned in police court this morning on complaints charging them with larceny and lascivious cohabitation. Both entered pleas of not guilty, but probable cause was found and they were held for the grand jury, the man being held under $500 bonds while the woman's bonds were placed at $200.

Inspector Charles Laflamme and Lieut. Freeman arrested the couple last night, the man being taken from Friend Bros. bakery while the woman was taken from her home in Gage street.

The warrant for the arrest was sworn out by a woman who gave her name as Marie Marineau and who claims to be the wife of the man in the case.

Mrs. Marie Marineau was the first witness called and she testified in part as follows: "I have known Mr. Marineau for 31 years and was married to him June 8, 1878 at Ottawa. We lived in Ottawa for about 17 years and then went to Montreal where we stayed for about 16 or 18 years. He left me and came to this city. I wrote him three letters after he came to Lowell and in the last letter I asked him for money, but he answered and stated that he was sick and had no money. I learned that he was living with another woman and came to this city last Sunday to learn if such was the case."

Inspector Charles Laflamme, one of the arresting officers, testified that he placed Marineau under arrest. Marineau stated that he was not married. He said he had been living with Miss Desmarais for the past three or four years. The woman, when arrested, said her name was Marineau and that she got married in Nashua about four years ago. She also showed a marriage certificate. Inspector Laflamme said that the woman said that she had heard that Marineau was married, but afterwards learned that he was not married. She visited a priest in Lowell who refused to marry her so she went to Nashua and got married. Alexander Duchesne of 414 Moody street testified that Marineau said that he was married to Miss Desmarais. Lieut. Freeman corroborated the testimony offered by Inspector Laflamme.

Miss Emma Desmarais, one of the defendants, was the first witness for the defense and her testimony was in part as follows: "I have lived in Lowell for 32 or 33 years and for the past 27 years have resided at 85 Gage street. I have known Mr. Marineau for nearly six years, having met him at the home of a friend of mine. I had known him about a year and three months before I married him. We got married by Rev. Isaac Leclaire at Nashua. I heard that Mr. Marineau was married, but the person who so informed me later denied that he knew that Mr. Marineau was married. Last night was the first time that I really knew he was married.

On cross examination witness said that Mr. Marineau went to the city clerk's office in this city and secured a marriage license. He then went to Rev. Fr. Fournier, O. M. I., and the latter sent for witness, Miss Desmarais called on the priest and the latter told her that he had learned that Marineau was a married man and had a wife in Canada and advised her to investigate for herself.

Questioned by Judge Hadley witness said that she received a letter from a woman in Canada, who said that she had been living with Marineau and had two children, but as the children were growing up she did not want to have anything more to do with him.

Lawyer Joseph Laughman who appeared for Marineau offered no defense. James E. O'Donnell, counsel for Miss Desmarais said that there was no evidence on the part of his client, while the government, said that he thought both defendants should be held for the grand jury.

Probable cause was found and both were bound over to the grand jury.

For Larceny of Castings
Stanislaw Glowinski was arrested by Major Noyes yesterday afternoon and taken to the police station where he was booked for larceny, it being alleged that he stole 130 pounds of metal castings from the property of the Lowell Machine shop. A number of the castings were found in junk shops, but it is alleged that about 40 pounds of the castings were found in Glowinski's room. The defendant was in court this morning, but at the request of counsel the case was continued till Saturday morning, Glowinski being held under $300 bonds.

Julia Daley made her third appearance within a month before the court, but entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging her with being drunk. Patrolman John H. Clarke testified that on the request of the woman's husband he went to a court off Appleton street and finding the woman in a drunken stupor, placed her under arrest.

Mrs. Daley denied that she was intoxicated, but the court found her guilty and sentenced her to three months in jail.

Patrick Boyle, a second offender, was fined $6.

There were six first offenders who were fined $2 each and six simple drunkards were released without appearing in court.

Officers Elected
The forenoon session of today opened at 9 o'clock with a convention prayer meeting led by Mrs. M. L. Gibson which was of the half hour's duration. Then the convention was called to order by the state president, Mrs. Katherine Lent Stevenson. Mrs. Lydia H. Olmstead after leading a song service was followed in prayer by Mrs. Myra J. Higgins. Mrs. Helen A. Rice read the minutes of yesterday's meetings and business was then transacted.

The quiz department was next in order when Mrs. Emma L. Howland spoke on anti-narcotics and she was followed by Mrs. Theresa J. Kildner on "medal contest work." Mrs. Harriette D. Walker spoke on "Evangelistic Work," Mrs. Harriet T. Todd, on "Psalms and Refrainatory," and Mrs. Annie E. Damon on "School Savings Banks."

After recommendations of the executive committee came the election of officers. The following were re-elected: President, Mrs. Katherine Lent Stevenson, Newton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Janette Hill, Roxbury; recording secretary, Mrs. Helen G. Rice, Roxbury; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Mary E. Cheney, Dorchester.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Gordon was elected acting vice president at large. Ballots were taken for the office of treasurer, a position now held by Mrs. Isabelle A. Morse of Roxbury. It was decided by vote to place the ballots in a place of safe keeping until the afternoon session when the result of the election would be declared. It was voted

The Little Master of Chicago Regarded as a Divinity—Spent 40 Years in Caves—Controls the Banks of England

The sensation yesterday afternoon in the Mrs. Shaw, Mazdaznan case, was contained in greater part, in the testimony of Miss Hilma Lee Drew. It was evidence that came after Dr. Benner, the local alienist had said that a woman might have done all the things that Mrs. Shaw has done and have said all the things accredited to her and yet be of competent mind.

It was putting it mildly indeed to say that the testimony of Dr. Benner, the "little master" after losing all his money in the shipwreck that he wandered for forty years in caves.

Witness stated that Mrs. Shaw said to her that when she went to California she left food on the table at home for her dead husband, Mr. Shaw.

"She told me," continued the witness, "that she would sell her home and its contents and go to Montreal, where she would devote her life and money to the Mazdaznan belief, and that she would go wherever the 'little master' dictated."

Witness said that Mrs. Shaw laid great stress upon the vibrations which she received from the 'little master.' Mr. Wilson, cross-examined about Mrs. Shaw's business connection with Captain Hitchcock.

Kittredge objected, but on Mr. Wilson's statement that he wanted to show other reasons for bringing the petition, then the cross-examination was permitted by the court.

Miss Drew said she knew that they had some business dealing, but did not know of Mrs. Shaw making any demand upon Capt. Hitchcock for money or stocks.

Kittredge asked the witness about a visit to a fortune teller, with Mrs. Shaw, at the latter's invitation. Miss Drew said that the fortune teller told Mrs. Shaw, among other things, to "get rid of her lawyer," or "to tell her to sell her property, or to would go up in smoke; and that Mr. Shaw wanted her to go about and spend her money as she liked, and do as she liked."

Adjourned until Tuesday, October 13. The hearing will be resumed, it is understood, at Cambridge.

What Medium Said
Miss Drew told of a reading that Mrs. Shaw had had relative to her husband, in which the medium told her that Mr. Shaw had left her the body and the soul, and that he was not feeling right because of his actions in the past and of his conduct towards her. He said he did not like the way he had treated her and he wanted her to do as she pleased with her money.

Wandered 40 Years
It was about this time that Mrs. Shaw had received a message from the "little master" advising her of a great financial depression.

Witness said Mrs. Shaw told her that the "little master" after losing all his money in the shipwreck that he wandered for forty years in caves.

Witness stated that Mrs. Shaw said to her that when she went to California she left food on the table at home for her dead husband, Mr. Shaw.

Kennegott, pastor of the First Unitarian church of Lowell. This will be followed by a demonstration by the "L. T. L." and "Y." branches and also demonstrations of departments. The three days' convention will be brought to a termination by the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, D.D., pastor of the First Baptist church of Lowell.

LAST NIGHT'S SESSION
Last night's session of the state convention of the W. C. T. U. at the First Baptist church was largely attended and proved the most successful since the opening Tuesday afternoon. The session opened with an organ voluntary followed by the rendition of a hymn and devotional services by Rev. N. W. Matthews, pastor of the First Primitive Methodist church of Lowell. There was a solo by Mrs. William H. Pettin, soprano of the First Baptist church choir.

General Daggett's Address
The address of the evening was by Gen. A. S. Daggett, of Washington, D. C. He spoke against re-establishing the army canteen, and he congratulated the W. C. T. U. upon its work in having it abolished.

"It is a great privilege," he said, "to stand before an audience like this, it is a privilege to stand before you and to talk about the temperance question and in the cause of temperance. You know many of the great things you have accomplished, have seen some of them in our army out there in the Philippines, and in other countries. I have seen them in our young men who are better men, better soldiers, and better servants of their country because of what you have accomplished."

"What was the origin of the army canteen? This is our theme for evening. Let us brush away a little of the confusion which has surrounded this question through the meanings of the words canteen and post-exchange. Before it was abolished, the canteen was a beer saloon. What is a post-exchange? As instituted by the war department, it consisted of four departments. It was a general store of merchandise; it was a library and reading room, the soldiers' club; it was a complete gymnasium; it was a lunch room. While the canteen existed, the post-exchange had four departments, a beer saloon. When the canteen was abolished, many have said that when this was done the rest of the post-exchange was abolished with it. This is not so. If you could look at our soldiers at the present time, you would find them enjoying all the benefits of the post-exchange without the influences of the saloon.

"I would regard the restoration of the canteen one of the greatest blows that could be struck at the temperance cause, because for seven years they have tried to bring order and discipline into the army without the aid of the United States should return to the old way, it would lend a character to the traffic, if such a character could have dignity and character. ANNUAL REUNION

Associate hall last night was the scene of the annual reunion of the Sacred Heart parish and the capacity of the place was amply tested by the large assemblage, which embraced representatives from all of the Catholic parishes of Lowell, North Billerica, North Chelmsford, Grantville and Collinsville.

Among the clergymen who graced the occasion with their presence were three of the Oblate church, who were formerly identified with the Sacred Heart church either as pastor or assistant pastor, namely: Rev. John M. McRory, O. M. I., Rev. John P. Reynolds, O. M. I., Rev. John Flynn, O. M. I. The Sacred Heart parish priests were all present consisting of the pastor, Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., Rev. Robert Barrett, O. M. I., Rev. Bernard Fletcher, O. M. I., and Rev. John O'Brien, O. M. I.

The reunion began in the afternoon when the children of the Sacred Heart school were very much in evidence in singing and furnishing joyous entertainment. In the afternoon as well as in the evening everything showed plainly the result of the faithful work of the competent committee in charge, whose labors were amply rewarded with signal success in having the reunion of 1908 go into history as the largest assemblage which ever gathered socially under the auspices of the Sacred Heart parish. During the evening an exceptionally fine program for the entertainment of those assembled was cleverly arranged and ably presented under the direction of Miss Elizabeth L. Miskella. It was entitled "Using the Weed," a lively musical comedy in one act and was produced by an excellently trained chorus and cast of principals, of the Children of Mary of that parish. Special mention should be made of the singing of the older Irish songs, "Kathleen Mavourneen" and "Believe Me" by Mrs. Muldoon. Misses Margaret McQuillan and Margaret Shanley impersonated the aunts to perfection, and Miss Alice Bagley with the Irish colleens furnished one of the delightful little bits of the evening. The particular little bit

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 8.—"Willie" Donovan of the Detroit Tigers is the hero of the American league, for his shut-out of the Chicago Cubs in the final game of the season won the pennant for his team. He had his opponents under control from the opening of the game, allowing only two hits, and the White Sox got only three men on bases. Donovan is one of the pitching marvels of the decade. In a recent game with Washington he pitched only ten balls in one inning, yet struck out three batters. More remarkable still, only one of the ten balls was struck at.

EDWIN MULREADY

Made Deputy Probation Commissioner

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—The announcement made by the commission on probation that Edwin Mulready had been named for the position of deputy commissioner of probation is universally commended, according to opinions heard yesterday about the court house and down town among the lawyers. The selection made by the commission is said to be an ideal one in every way.

Mr. Mulready has been a member of the board of selection of the board of about 15 years, and during 10 of those he was its chairman.

For ten or more years he has been probation officer of Norfolk and Plymouth counties, and the way he has discharged his duties in that office has on more than one occasion earned the commendation of both bench and bar.

He has always been a total abstemious, and has spent many years of his life in an endeavor to spread the cause of temperance.

For more than 15 years he was secretary of the Archdiocese of Boston. His second term as national secretary of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of America.

He is a member of the board of trustees of the State hospital at Foxboro, having been named by Governor Guilford some months ago.

Mr. Mulready will probably start at work on his new duties, and his headquarters will be in the court house in Probation square.

STILL BURNING

Ruins of Grain Elevator on Fire

RICHFORD, Vt., Oct. 8.—The ruins of the grain elevator which smoldered and burned yesterday causing the death of more than a dozen employees, were burning too fiercely at dawn today to permit a start being made in the search for the bodies of the victims, but a careful canvass among those who escaped indicated that the death list had been increased to fourteen, as Elmer Draper, a foreman, could not be found. Early today the residence of E. H. Grice, close to the ruins, caught fire and was destroyed, bringing the total loss from the elevator fire to about $425,000.

The walls of the elevator did not fall last night and towered menacingly above the scene. The morning breeze, however, shook the charred timbers and just before daylight they tumbled over with a thundering crash and once more the ruins were aflame. No one was injured, however, and all that could be done was to wait until the fire which had plenty of fuel in the great quantity of oats, corn and wheat, burned itself out.

Working crews arrived during the day to clear the tracks adjoining the scene but little progress could be made because of the continued burning of the grain.

THOMAS HISGEN

Says Pres. Roosevelt is Insincere

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Oct. 8.—Thomas Hisgen, independence candidate, addressed a large audience last night. W. H. Hearst was not among the speakers, having left the party at Los Angeles in response to a summons from San Francisco.

Mr. Hisgen said he believed that President Roosevelt was insincere in his light against the Standard Oil Co., which he had driven out of the republican party.

BOY IS IN JAIL

He May Be Charged With Murder

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 8.—The police are searching the statutes to determine what to do with Nelson King, 8 years old, who is under arrest and who has told the officers that yesterday he pushed his playmate Ernest Souza into the river and the Souza boy drowned. In the district court today Young King was given a hearing on a charge of being a delinquent child and proceedings were continued for one week, King being taken to jail.

The body of the Souza child was found in the Acushnet river yesterday. Statements made by the King had led to an investigation and his arrest followed. The police claim that he told them that Souza had been bragging that he could swim and King pushed him into the river to find out whether he was telling the truth. The police say that King has attracted their attention on several previous occasions but that no charges against him have been pressed on account of his extreme youth.

The point upon which the police are seeking light is whether a charge of murder can be brought against a defendant aged only eight years.

ELEVEN DISTRICTS OF NATIONAL BANK EXAMINERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Comptroller of the currency Murray announced today that he would put into immediate action a plan for the formation of eleven districts of national examiners, with a chairman examiner in charge at each of the following cities: Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Nashville, Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Fort Worth, Denver and San Francisco. The chairman in each district will compile quarterly reports to the comptroller from the reports of the examiners covering the states in each of the districts.

THE B. & M. ROAD

Defendant in Suit in Superior Court

A case that had its beginning in the police court is having another chapter added in the superior civil court, in Gorham street. It's a case of alleged false arrest. The plaintiff is William Cassidy and the Boston & Maine railroad is the defendant. Cassidy, some time ago, was arrested by Officer Peller of the Boston & Maine for the alleged larceny of coal and now Mr. Cassidy is seeking to recover for false arrest.

John T. Masterson is counsel for the plaintiff and Fred N. Wier for the defendant. The case was on at the time of the noon adjournment.

Boy Was Shot During Strike Trouble

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Robert Quail, the 14-year-old boy who was shot last night while standing innocently in front of his home during a clash between striking and non-union chauffeurs, died today. Robert Stutts and Richard Dineen have been placed under arrest in connection with this occurrence. Both are said to be special officers of the Taxi-cab company, against which the chauffeurs are on strike.

6000 MASONS

TOOK PART IN THE CELEBRATION IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Oct. 8.—Climax pictures, stately, inspiring and grand, are being presented here today in connection with the formal dedicatory ceremonies of the $3,000,000 bridge spanning the placid Connecticut. It was a dual pagan, masonic and military—great throngs of people came here from all sections of the state and from many cities and towns beyond its borders. Tonight in a blaze of pyrotechnic glory the curtain will fall but the memories of it all will be vivid for years.

With imposing masonic ceremonies in which six thousand members of that organization took part, the last stone of the bridge was laid under the direction of the grand lodge this morning. After parading through the center of the city the body escorted by Knights Templar formed about the north approach to the bridge and in accordance with their ritual sealed the five-ton stone which completes the structure.

HELPFUL WORDS

From a Lowell Citizen

Is your back lame and painful?
Does it ache especially after exertion?
Is there a soreness in the kidney region?
These symptoms indicate weak kidneys.
There is danger in delay.
Weak kidneys fast get weaker.
Give your trouble prompt attention.
Don't let your kidneys get sickly.
They strengthen weak kidneys.
Read this Lowell testimony.
Mrs. James Johnston, living at 21 North street, Lowell, Mass., says:
"About a year ago I had an attack of La Grippe which left my kidneys in a weakened condition. I suffered from pains across the small of my back and loins, and noticed that the kidney secretions were unnatural in appearance. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I obtained from Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store, helped me wonderfully and soon banished the 'backache.' Other members of my family have used them and in each case the results have been of the best. I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers of kidney complaint."

13 PERSONS DEAD

A Big Explosion Occurred at Richford, Vt.

Many Persons Are Reported Injured — Grain Elevator Was Entirely Burned — Property Damage Estimated at $400,000

RICHFORD, Vt., Oct. 8.—An explosion of dust and gases in a large grain elevator, owned jointly by the Canadian Pacific and Boston & Maine railroads in this village, caused the death of at least 13 persons late yesterday afternoon, while it is possible that the death toll may be still further increased when the full extent of the disaster is known.

Of the victims 11 were men employed in the elevator, the other two were women who were walking on the railroad track nearby.

The fire destroyed not only the elevator building but a flour shed and 75 freight cars which could not be removed from the danger zone. The property loss is estimated roughly at $400,000.

The explosion occurred at 4.35, while work was going on within the elevator. It is supposed that it was due to spontaneous combustion of the dry grain dust, ignited possibly by the sun's rays through a window.

With a concussion which could be heard for miles and which shook every building in the town, the roof of the great elevator was blown skyward, while flames burst from every window and door of the structure. The roof, or the greater part of it, was carried a long distance and fell in a field. Several freight cars which were standing on the tracks beside the building were thrown over and broken into a mass of wreckage and every person within a radius of a quarter of a mile of the structure was knocked off his feet and stunned.

Twenty-one men, all employees of the elevator, are known to have been in the building at the time. Of these all but 11 had been located as living late last night. Of the others one body only was found. It was carried by the explosion 500 yards and was found in a field near the roof. The bodies of this man's companions are supposed to have been incinerated in the tremendous heat of the burning grain. The list of dead is as follows:

HEMAN LAHUE, 40 years old, married, leaves a family.

LUCIUS WRIGHT, 25 years old, married.

ROBERT MANDIGO, 22, married.

W. C. BARNES, 50, married and has several children.

RALPH HADRE, 20, single.

HERMAN NILES, 25, married.

CHARLES HARRIS, 25, single.

LOUIS PAPINEAU, 40, married.

DOMA LAPORTE, 21, single.

TUTTLE.

A workman, name unknown, who is known to have been in the building, and who is reported missing.

MRS. JELFORD.

MRS. GUARD, aged 40.

These two women were walking on the track nearby and were probably stunned by the explosion. Both were living, though badly burned, when they were picked up by rescuers and taken to a neighboring house, but they died within a few hours.

Aside from these the only body thus far recovered is that of Robert Mandigo. He was at work near the top of the elevator. A short time before the explosion he was seen looking from a window near the roof. He was carried aloft when the explosion occurred and his body, lifeless and terribly mangled, was found late last night near the wreckage of the roof, far from the site of the building.

There is but one piece of fire apparatus, a hand engine, in this village, and this was entirely inadequate to cope with the blaze. Every part of the elevator was quickly enveloped in flames and in a very short time one of the two flour sheds nearby was blazing.

The firemen directed all their efforts to saving the second flour shed and it seemed probable at a late hour that they would succeed in stopping the fire there.

Freight cars on the tracks of the Canadian Pacific railroad also caught fire and seventy-five of them were burned. There were no locomotives in the yard at the time, so that with the exception of a few cars which railroad men and citizens managed to push down the tracks beyond the reach of the flames, practically every piece of rolling stock in the yard was consumed.

The wreckage blocked the railroad tracks completely and it was necessary to send all trains over the Canadian Pacific by the way of Sherbrook, P. Q. Although wrecking crews were early on the scene ready to begin work as soon as the metal work of the blazing cars cooled sufficiently.

The ten men who are known to have escaped from the elevator were all more or less burned, though none was believed to be in a serious condition. All had narrow escapes and were obliged to light their way through the grain dust, flames and smoke to the doorway. The men who got out were all in the lower part of the structure. Every man who was working above the first floor is believed to have perished.

The elevator had a capacity of 500,000 bushels and is believed to have been nearly filled with oats, corn and wheat. Much of the oats was consigned to the Quaker Oats company at Chicago. The loss on the grain alone is estimated at $100,000 and the building cost $100,000 when built. It was 130 feet long and 9 feet wide and had a tower 15 feet high. It was the distributing depot for the Canadian Pacific and Boston and Maine railroads at the Canadian border.

The village of Richford, which has a population of only 1500, is hard hit by the fire and the scene around the burning elevator was one of desolation and was last night. Mothers, wives and children of the men who were victims of the flames were gathered about, sobbing and wringing their hands in grief while still hoping against hope that their missing loved ones would yet return.

Mrs. Guard and Mrs. Jelford, the two women who were burned, were new-comers to the village. They were wives of laborers but the exact names of their husbands could not be learned last night.

KING BOY HELD

Is Charged With Pushing Lad Overboard

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 8.—Nelson King, Jr., aged 8, is under arrest, ostensibly accused of horse thieving, but actually charged with the death of a playmate, Ernest Souza, aged 7, whose body was found yesterday morning floating in the river near the foot of Maxwell street.

King confesses he pushed the Souza boy overboard. "He said he could swim," he said, "and I pushed him overboard to see. He couldn't. I saw him come up once and he put his hand out of the water. I didn't see him again. I looked around for him, and he was gone. So I went home."

The incident occurred Tuesday afternoon. When the Souza boy did not return, his father, John M. Souza, instituted a search. The little fellow's shoes were found yesterday morning, and later the body came to the surface of the water. There was no suspicion of foul play, but the King boy told Dr. Graves, a medical inspector in the schools, yesterday, and Dr. Graves notified the police. The boy retold the story yesterday.

The police have had trouble with the King boy for a year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson King of 141 Grinnell street. His mother has been employed in a laundry for several years and his father has been away much of the time. Last July he was accused of stealing a horse from James P. Hoye. This was the fifth offence of the kind charged to him, but he was regarded as too young to be put before the court.

The boy is now held on the old charge and the police are embarrassed at the situation. They do not know of an institution just calculated to receive him.

ARMED GUARDS

Caught Prisoners Who Escaped From Fort

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 8.—A general alarm was sounded at Fort Adams late yesterday, following the escape of three military convicts who attacked a post, scaled the wall and were at liberty less than an hour. The prisoners are Privates Stone, Taylor and Senn of the coast artillery. While at work in the cemetery, accompanied by an armed sentry, the men attacked the guardman, Private Aclia of the 37th coast artillery company, and after disarming him struck him over the head twice, rendering him unconscious. Aclia revived just as the prisoners disappeared from view over the fortification and gave the alarm. All the officers and men attached to the station were dispatched to various points.

Lieut. Frank H. Phipps, who left the fort in an automobile, with three armed privates, overtook the fugitives on the fort road about a quarter of a mile from the station. The fugitives in the automobile held up the party at the points of rifles and revolvers and the three surrendered before a shot was fired.

The prisoners had been convicted by court martial on charges of desertion.

DAN'L CLOHECEY

NO LONGER PRESIDENT OF THE HAVERHILL TEAM

HAVERHILL, Oct. 8.—Daniel F. Clohecey, who has been president of the Haverhill baseball team of the New England league, failed of reelection at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the association last night. W. B. Rich was elected president. Frank Amazeen, treasurer, and Albert M. Childs, secretary.

According to statements made at the meeting Courtney, the right-hander and Tomlin, first baseman, and outfielder, were the only players left of the Haverhill team of the past season. Some of the others have been disposed of by Mr. Clohecey to different clubs and some are not held by a reserve clause in their contracts, and have signed elsewhere next year. Pitcher O'Connell and shortstop McInnis have been transferred to Lynn in exchange for Pitcher Verkes, and two other players from that club, the pony battery, Perkins and Fullerton, have been sold to Providence, and Boardman, the third baseman, and Pitcher Girard, have been transferred to Lowell. Billy Hamilton, who was not held by a reserve clause, has gone to Lynn.

HATHAWAY'S THEATRE

"In Dreamland," a dramatic fantasy by Emmett Devoy, holds a lot of novelty in store for Hathaway audiences this week. Mr. Devoy plays the leading male role, that of "Buck," a dreamer, a believer in the occult and a successful husband. But things right themselves in time and when Devoy dreams that his wife is unfaithful to him, he decides to change his course in life. That's the skeleton framework of the play, but there are a hundred and one clever little surprises connected with the piece.

Charles F. Semon, a human stat, can no more help being funny than a bird can help flying. He plays on a hat tree, a one-stringed fiddle and a double flute, and extracts real music from them, too. His Scotch impersonation at the close is very funny. Other acts on this excellent bill are: Harlan Knight in "The Chalk Line," Mueller and Mueller, the boys who sing the Dartmouth and other songs; Carney and Wagner, singers and dancers; Potter and Harris, gymnasts; and Aliss Gilbert, singing comedienne. The Hathaway has good pictures.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening, with an "In Dreamland" matinee, Saturday.

"The Lion and the Mouse," probably the most talked of play in America today, will be presented here again in this city tonight and under the direction of Henry B. Harris. Everyone who is interested and keenly alive to the influence wrought upon American politics by the moneyed interests, trade, and kings of finance, will appreciate Mr. Allen's great drama. Briefly outlined, it relates the story of Shirley Rossmore, daughter of Judge Rossmore, a judge of excellent standing, who through the rendering of decisions in opposition to the interests of a despot in the financial world, John Burkett Ryder, known as "Reddy Money" Ryder, is impeached by the United States senate, and through her son, Jefferson, falls in love with Judge Rossmore's daughter, Shirley, who has been in Europe. Upon her return, she finds her father ruined in reputation, broken in body and financially embarrassed as a result of this ruin. One man holds the proof of Rossmore's innocence. That man is Ryder. Through his love for Miss Rossmore, Ryder's son, Burkett, certain papers, which will prove Judge Rossmore's innocence, at least morally. Discovering this, Ryder offers the girl from his home, in which she has become an inmate as the writer of his biography and under an assumed name. This scene follows in a striking and dramatic one, and although the love interest, seemingly subservient in the intrigue, becomes the vital factor in a situation unconventional in its treatment and fine dramatic in its presentation and climax. There has probably never been a play in the history of the American drama which has a situation so unconventional in its treatment and fine dramatic in its presentation and climax.

The success achieved by the new play, "The Life of an Actress," proves that the life of an actress is as good material as that of a dramatist. As there is abroad, and it also proves that American play-goers will support liberally any domestic play that possesses originality enough to merit their support. Any American play which aims to portray the odd characters, costumes and incidents peculiar to different parts of the country, is worthy of consideration and support, and it is gratifying to note that "The Life of an Actress" is met with such substantial success. This attraction will be seen at the Opera House October 9th and 10th, with a matinee Saturday.

Unusual interest has already manifested itself in the forthcoming appearance of Frank Lalor in his new musical comedy, "Prince Humbug," which will occur at the Opera House next Wednesday afternoon and evening. Mr. Lalor is exceedingly popular with theatre-goers of Lowell, a fact due to his very enjoyable performance of Nott, the Tailor, in "Coming Thru the Rye," which he has presented so frequently in this city during the past two seasons. He comes at this time in a new musical comedy which is said to be better in every particular than his previous vehicle, in which he is given opportunities to indulge his fun-making propensities to the fullest extent. Mr. Lalor is surrounded by a very large company, said to number eighty people among whom are comedians and vocalists of recognized excellence. There is a large chorus and ballet, which the Boston Globe says is about the liveliest and best looking aggregation of girls that has appeared in that city in a very long time. The scenery, costumes, electrical and mechanical effects are all said to be exceptionally beautiful. We may say that the production is generally regarded as one of the very best that has been brought forward in this country. The musical score of "Prince Humbug" is said to be more than ordinary favorable comment by the Boston critics. In view of all that is known of Mr. Lalor's new piece, there can be no doubt whatever that all who attend the performance of "Prince Humbug" will be amply compensated. The sale of the seats opens Saturday morning.

Mrs. Marie Doro, now in her second season, as a star under the direction of Charles Frohman, will appear at the Opera House next Tuesday evening, Oct. 12th, in a new comedy by Gaxant and Thornton, authors of "My Wife." The new play is called "The Richest Girl" and in it Miss Doro has a role which is adapted admirably to her winsome and appealing personality as well as to these traits which have endeared her to the audience. She has been steadily in the critical eyes of the theatre-going public. As "Benjamin Monnier," only daughter of "Monnier, the chocolate king," Miss Doro has a role which is so odd and unusual.

THE LIFE OF AN ACTRESS

The scenery, costumes, electrical and mechanical effects are all said to be exceptionally beautiful. We may say that the production is generally regarded as one of the very best that has been brought forward in this country. The musical score of "Prince Humbug" is said to be more than ordinary favorable comment by the Boston critics. In view of all that is known of Mr. Lalor's new piece, there can be no doubt whatever that all who attend the performance of "Prince Humbug" will be amply compensated. The sale of the seats opens Saturday morning.

BIG CONFERENCE

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 8.—A three-day convention was opened yesterday at labor temple by the New England cigar conference, representing 54 New England locals of the Cigarmakers' International union of America. Pres. William Standcomb of local 97 of Boston presided and Thomas McCullough of Holyoke was secretary. T. J. Garvey of Lowell served on the committee on credentials.

Pres. Standcomb in his report asserted that business would soon return to normal conditions throughout the country if the presidential election were not monopolizing the attention of the people. He said also that the cigar industry has fared better in New England during the business depression than in any other part of the country. During the past year the label conference had paid over $14,000 in advertising and has received $15,500, leaving a balance in hand of $1350. The report of the president was referred to the committee on the report of the officers, while the financial part was turned over to the finance committee.

JIM PROKOS

FINISHED JACK CROSBY IN PRETTY QUICK TIME

In one of the roughest wrestling matches ever witnessed at the Columbia theatre, last night Jim Prokos, the Greek grappler, defeated Jack Crosby. The first fall came in less than half a minute. Crosby was helpless for some time after the match.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

At a meeting of the Association of Catholic Socialists held Tuesday night it was voted to donate $10 to the French American orphanage and also considering the donation of business it was decided not to run the annual festival given every fall.

Lacy Franklin, council 17, Daughters of Liberty, met in regular session with a good attendance last night. The meeting was opened by the council, Lacy Staples. The foreign program was drawn by Grace Hardin. The meeting closed in form. There was a resolution of the degree staff also.

Local 332 of the steam engineers held its first meeting at the fall last night. The applications were 14 in number and one candidate was nominated. The organization voted to march on the labor parade of Wednesday next and the committee on the fall program.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

"Bunco in Arizona," which is being presented by the Doshon-Pitts Stock company at the Academy of Music this week, is full of thrilling scenes and incidents, but perhaps the most interesting of all is that in which the Indian camp is pictured in the shadow of the Rockies.

It is like a picture from one of Fenimore Cooper's works. In the foreground are the tepees, the tanned skin walls glowing in the light of the camp fires. Beyond, like great giants with snowy locks, bend over the scene the Rockies in all the magnificence of their granite walls. Suddenly the scene springs to life. Two white prisoners are brought in and the Indians prepare for their sacrifice. The prisoners are tied to stakes and the funeral fires lighted. Then comes the most famous dance of the Indians, the ghost dance. And at the psychological moment a troop of galloping cowboys arrives and saves the victims from the fiendish fate awaiting them.

Miss Della Doshon is appearing in the title role of "Bunco," the little western girl who turns out to be a great English heiress, and is very pleasing. She cures for the difficulties of her part to the entire satisfaction of the audience. Victor Brown makes a manly hero, Harry Home plays Jim in an excellent manner. The production is handsomely staged by Charles D. Pitt.

Grover, Mrs. Charles P. Conant and Mrs. E. E. Harris. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. F. F. Munn, 165 Sixth street, at which time the election will take place. After the conclusion of the business, Mrs. F. E. Haines read a most interesting paper, describing her trip to Jamaica. This was followed by refreshments of ice cream, cakes and coffee. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. E. D. Livingston and Mrs. John Crompton.

CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF MUSKET CLUB

The quarterly meeting of the Musket Club was held Monday. The principal business of the meeting was the election of officers for the ensuing term which resulted in John W. Healey being unanimously elected president. Joseph J. Collins was chosen vice president and James B. Broderick, secretary and treasurer.

It was decided to put a football team in the field this fall and also a basketball team. To further that end Timothy Lynch, a well known student of the Textile school, was appointed chairman of the athletic committee, with John J. Shanley, George F. Kerwin and George W. Burrows as his assistants on the committee. Mr. Lynch will leave nothing undone to put one of the fastest football and basketball teams in the city on the field this season.

After the meeting a program was enjoyed by the members. There were selections by John J. Shanley, George W. Burrows, Walter Brown and remarks by Harry Heelan and Fred Maguire.

REPUBLICANS

Have Decided to Tax Federal Employees

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Encouraged by J. P. Morgan's recent donation of $20,000 to the campaign fund, the republican managers have hit upon a new scheme to increase the fund.

Each one of the 50 customs inspectors at this port is asked to contribute $25. It is said the campaign fund is the smallest in years and the managers are becoming nervous, and according to reports Roosevelt sees no harm in the scheme to tax federal employees.

THE DECISION AGAINST EXPRESS COMPANIES.

The railroad commission did a good thing in deciding against the increase of express rates made without any excuse whatever by the American Express and National Express companies last February. At that time the rates were advanced from 66 to 100 per cent. with a 25 cent instead of a 15 cent minimum.

The commission holds that where a scale of rates in force for a long time is suddenly increased by any considerable percentage the burden is on the company to show cause. In this case the companies have not shown sufficient cause, and hence the decision of the railroad commission. The companies show an increase in expenses, but the commission holds that the increase in business offsets that.

The defence that about 40 per cent. of the receipts has to go to railroads the commission rightly decides is no justification. The commission further asserts that the rates of these express companies have been established in the face of competition, and now that competition has been largely removed, there is less justification for increasing rates.

It appears that the express companies affected are not inclined to obey the decision of the commission. The railroads ignored a decision of the commission in the seventies, and the express companies will probably endeavor to do the same. The railroad commission is useless unless its decisions are binding upon all the companies concerned. It should be vested with power to enforce its decrees.

The extortions of the express trust have been outrageous. The rates were raised in the midst of the panic, showing an utter disregard of the public interests. It is time that some authority were applied to stop the high-handed work of these companies that eat up the profits of the small store keeper and make it necessary for large stores to keep a reshipping house in Boston where a lot of small parcels are done up together to be shipped as one.

WHY REPUBLICANS OPPOSE PUBLICITY.

It is useless to discuss why the republicans do not want to publish their campaign contributions until after election.

Everybody knows why. The list would convict the party of an alliance with the trusts that would discredit all the bluff and buncombe being dished out by the president.

It was Mark Hanna who in 1896 told the corporations of the country if they would furnish the money, he would furnish a candidate, who could be elected. They furnished the money, and furthermore as a reward for their large donations, they were subsequently given the privilege of writing their own schedules in the tariff law. That put the trusts in control of the government.

They had things their own way again in 1900, when the republican party once more had an enormous corruption fund contributed by the trusts and other large corporations of the country.

It is no wonder the party refuses to let the public see the sources of its great power of corruption.

The money poured in upon the party is used for the purchase of votes in close states. The people of Massachusetts have no idea of the extent to which the money bags are emptied by republican campaigners in close states. Millions have been used to purchase the votes of some states, and it is quite likely that this year, the republicans will adopt the same tactics in New York state and some others.

There are laws against bribery, but republican politicians have no difficulty in evading them. They usually pay voters for remaining away from the polls, preferring to do this with men of the opposite party, rather than take chances of paying them and at the same time giving them an opportunity to vote as they pleased.

Since the revelations in the great insurance scandals which brought out the rottenness of republican campaign methods, the alliance of that party with the trusts and the money kings has been discredited; so that while the republican party is willing to accept the money it is not willing to let the public know of such acceptance until after the election.

President Roosevelt says that the publication is withheld until after election, lest the people should draw wrong conclusions in regard to the motive and the effect of such contributions.

The real dread with the republicans is, that the people should draw right conclusions in regard to the tacit alliance between the republican party and the law-defying corporations. So great has become the power of these combines that the republican party would not dare to disturb the tariff before election, lest by doing so it would lose the support of the trusts and the money power and thus go down in defeat.

The bluff prosecutions instituted against certain trusts is of slight importance. While the high tariff wall remains to shelter them from foreign competition, with republican connivance they will manage somehow to throttle or control domestic competition and thus to force the people under republican protection.

The story of their methods is so well known and the effect of their extortions so ruinous that the people have been groaning under the added burden while the unscrupulous trusts sell to the foreign consumer 28 per cent. less than to the American consumer.

SEEN AND HEARD

Mr. Daniel Murphy of Baltimore, Md., engaged in the automobile business, is on a two weeks' visit at his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Murphy of this city.

Misses Alice and Mabel Peacock of Hildreth street have returned from a vacation in the White Mountains.

At Lancaster, N. H., yesterday occurred the marriage of Miss Mary Webb of that town to Mr. Justin Richardson of Mammoth road, Dracut.

The race for the pennant in the American and National leagues caused a great deal of enthusiasm among the fans and as a result considerable money has changed hands.

One of the pleasant sights imaginable to a visitor from another country is to see old well-remembered faces and hear the familiar voices of friends. An instance of this occurred at the recent Prokes-Conkle wrestling contest. The latter, who resides in Hamilton, Ont., must have been agreeably surprised when he heard cries of encouragement from quite a number of spectators who were former residents of that city and now reside in Lowell. The effect was noticeable immediately in the way the Canadian brightened up and the manner in which he went after his opponent showed that the encouragement was not without its effect.

BISHOP TIERNEY

Boston Herald: The death of Bishop Tierney of Hartford, Conn., removes one of a group of administrative heads of Roman Catholic dioceses in New England, who, after thorough tests in lesser positions, have shown the possibilities that lie in their office in building up large and flourishing institutions, religious, educational and philanthropic. How admirably this work has been done, viewed solely as an administrative proposition, the layman in business too often is ignorant. To meet the needs and demands of a state whose population, in the cities and large towns, has changed as Connecticut's has during the past fifteen years, has called for vigor and skill. Intemperance and civic corruption have found in Bishop Tierney a persistent antagonist. His death will be mourned by men of all faiths.

THE SUPPORTERS OF DEBS

Boston Herald: Was it hero worship, mere ascotism, fanaticism or ism of any sort that induced 10,000 people to pack the Essex Theatre and the American Theatre in New York Sunday night, paying from fifteen to fifty cents to hear and cheer Eugene V. Debs? Whatever it was it was not apathy. Whether or not the principles of the socialist party are approved, the habit the members of that party have of believing their principles commands itself to members of other parties and other movements which, possessed of sound principles, are often threatened with death from inertia.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Two Jesuit fathers, Rev. James A. Rockliff and Rev. Joseph Dahmann, are on their way from Naples to Japan at the request of the pope to make preparations for a higher institute of learning, with courses in philosophy and kindred subjects, which the pope asked the society to undertake in that country. The two orators hope to meet Rev. H. Boucher at Shanghai before proceeding to Tokyo. The foundation of such an enterprise, with the necessary buildings and the establishment of a library, is expected to be a difficult matter in a country where little material help can be expected. The success of the work will depend largely on the assistance of those who are able and willing to help the cause of advancing the intellectual progress of Japan on the lines of occidental culture and Christian civilization.

An important incident in its field is the purchase for the Field museum of national history in Chicago of the great collection of butterflies and moths made by the late Herman Strecker of Rudolph, Pa. Dr. Strecker was a celebrated lepidopterist, and his collection comprised between 75,000 and 100,000 specimens, the fruit of 20 years' work and expenditure, including much original research, as many of the rare specimens were named and published to science by himself.

TRIP TO THE CLOUDS

PROVIDED BY THE B. & N. NEXT SUNDAY

The special excursions to Mt. Uncanconoc, N. H., which were started by the Boston & Northern St. Ry. Co. last Sunday, will be continued next Sunday and probably the Sunday following, as there have been many requests from people who could not find it convenient to go on the other.

The excursion Sunday was handled very smoothly without a hitch and the people who went upon it expressed themselves as having spent one of the most delightful of days. The trolley trip is a very enjoyable one itself, then there is the ride up the inclined railway, which is the steepest in the country, but the greatest joy of all is the view from the top of the mountain when its summit is reached.

From Shirley station to the base of the mountain is about two miles. This is a steady climb, it having a rise of 350 feet, right through the woods with a view over the surrounding country presented at intervals, and gives one an idea of what is to come. The mountain itself rises 1387 feet into the air and presents the most magnificent view in New England, from all four sides. The foliage has been late in turning this year but by Sunday it will be wearing its most gorgeous colorings.

The special through excursion cars will leave Merrimack square at 9:15, 9:45 and 10:15 a.m., and return leaving the mountain at 3 p.m.

CHURCH NOTES

WHAT IS GOING ON AT THE VESTRIES

Sunday, October 11, will be observed as rally day at the Dracut Centre church.

Pawtucket Church

The regular monthly social of the Pawtucket church was held last evening and was under the general direction of Mrs. Atkinson Varum. There was a supper and entertainment. Guests of the evening included Rev. E. R. Smith of Concord, N. H., a former pastor of the church, and Mrs. Smith.

Fifth St. Baptist

A pretty and very enjoyable social was held in the vestries of the Fifth Street Baptist church, Tuesday evening. The rooms were prettily decorated with autumn foliage and chrysanthemums.

In the reception room was a Chinese exhibit consisting of silk scarves, handkerchiefs, shawls and various other articles that were made in China. The following musical program was enjoyed:

Piano duet, selected, Miss Margaret Park and Miss Marion Swann; songs, "Slave Song," Miss Mullen; piano solo, "The Two Angels," Miss Elsie Harvey; "Travels in Southern Europe," Miss MacDonald; song, "Through the Grasses," Miss Mullen; piano duet, selected, Miss Marion Swann and Miss Margaret Park.

Captain S. C. Lugal, who was with Gen. Kitchener in his expedition to Khartoum will lecture in the Gorham street Primitive church tonight on his experience in that adventure.

TUESDAY CLUB

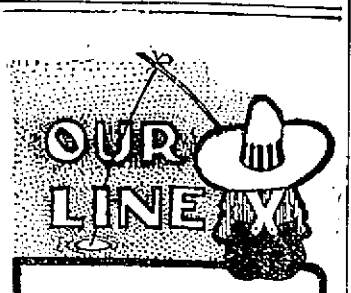

BY MRS. J. CLARK GLIDDEN YESTERDAY

The Tuesday club, an organization existing during the summer months at Stirling Junction, was entertained, yesterday, by Mrs. J. Clark Glidden. It was a noon luncheon and covers were laid for ten.

The house was prettily decorated with autumn leaves. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Walter Perham and Mrs. Merton N. Glidden. Mrs. F. L. Roberts sang solos and Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Pinkham sang duets after the lunch. The officers of the Book-a-Month club of this city also assisted Mrs. Glidden.

LOWELL HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The regular (quarterly) meeting of the society will be held at its rooms in Memorial hall, Wednesday evening, October 14, 1908, at 7:30 sharp, to transact such business as may legally come before the meeting. BOSTON, Oct. 8.—The national treasurer of the United Irish league of America, T. B. Fitzpatrick, yesterday forwarded to the national trustees of the parliamentary fund in Ireland, John E. Redmond, M. P., Rt. Rev. Patrick O'Donnell, bishop of Raphoe, and John Fitzgibbon, $10,000 as a first instalment of the amount pledged at the recent national convention of the organization held in Faneuil hall. Mr. Fitzpatrick hopes to be able to forward another large instalment within the next few weeks.

Following is the letter which accompanied yesterday's draft:

"John E. Redmond, Esq., M. P., Rt. Rev. Patrick O'Donnell, Bishop of Raphoe, John Fitzgibbon, Chairman Resurrection County Council, Trustees Irish Parliamentary Fund:
"Gentlemen—Enclosed please find draft for two thousand pounds (2000) the first instalment of the $100,000 pledged by the convention of the United Irish league of America at Faneuil hall, Boston, 10 days ago.

"This amount is but an earnest of what the United Irish league of America intends doing within the next two years to sustain by moral and financial assistance a united pledgee found and determined Irish party in the house of commons, pending the winning of national self-government.

"You will, I feel sure, be glad to hear that at no time in the past was the spirit of harmony more manifest among the people of the Irish race in this country than it is at present. This was plainly indicated at the recent great convention of the organization held in Boston. American public sentiment is ranged with practical sympathy on the side of the Irish race and has no sympathy with any attempt at bickering or strife which would tend to weaken the influence or lessen the power of that party.

"Trusting I may be enabled to forward another instalment, similar to the enclosed, in the very near future. I have the honor to be, respectfully yours,
"T. B. Fitzpatrick,
"National Treasurer."

Percy Bell Had Unusual Experience

Percy Bell, aged 11 years and living in Carlton street, while riding his bicycle down the hill in Grand street Tuesday night lost control of the machine and crashed into a window of the Royal Cash market in Middlesex street. The boy's face was badly cut. He was taken to Dr. Laurin's office nearby where five stitches were taken in the chin.

GLIDDEN'S TRIP

From Springfield a Successful One

The Springfield Republican published the following account of the balloon ascension made in that city this week, by Charles J. Glidden:

Charles J. Glidden made a beautiful ascension in the balloon Boston yesterday afternoon about 3.15, accompanied by his brother, Morton N. Glidden of Lowell. The balloon rose slowly, sailing a bit toward the east. The crowd was not so large as at the ascensions in the days before Springfield became so important a ballooning center, but the house so who did see the Boston go up were favored with a pretty ascension as any that has been held here. The balloon sailed slowly up to a height of 2000 feet and by that time had gently floated due west a short distance, although the big bag was visible over the western section of the city for a considerable time. Eight bags of sand were taken up, a good supply, that would have made a longer flight possible with a favorable breeze. Morton N. Glidden has never before made an actual start although he had before assisted at ascensions as a helper, familiar with the methods of starting. After going a short distance east the balloon turned north, and finally passed over Holyoke and then went toward Ludlow, in which town it finally landed, after being in the air three hours. The two balloonists were brought back to Springfield in the automobile of H. C. Chapin and E. Dudley Chapin.

The ascension yesterday was especially noticeable for the increasing number of motorists who followed the bag and several cars were "in at the death" among them being the cars of Messrs. Chapin, Mr. E. C. Collins and Judge Charles L. Long of this city and that of J. K. Judd of Holyoke. If the gradual increase in the number of pursuing cars continues, the ascensions will soon take the form of a "hot" chase. Yesterday's trip was not exciting, however, nor was it hard for the motorists to follow. Ludlow is not far away, but it was a beautiful day, so that the view was wonderful. Morton Glidden called the trip a "real lesson in geography," and he expressed great pleasure at his experience.

The ascension yesterday will be remembered by one Holyoke girl for many years to come, for she was given the chance to see what it is like to leave the ground in a balloon, and while her trip was short, it was thoroughly enjoyed. When the balloon ascended yesterday its course was followed by J. K. Judd of Holyoke with a party in his automobile, and when it came down between South Hadley and Holyoke the automobile party were near the spot. In the automobile was Miss Dorothy Munson, the 16-year-old niece of Mrs. Judd, a junior in the Holyoke high school. After the balloon descended the aeronauts invited members of the party to try a short ascension, but they declined, with the exception of Miss Munson, who was not afraid to make the trial, and so got into the basket. The balloon was let go, and rose to an elevation of about 600 feet and remained in the air about 10 minutes before it was brought to the earth. She enjoyed the ride and was not frightened in the least, and will be perfectly willing to try a balloon ride again should the chance be offered. Miss Munson enjoys the distinction of being one of the few Holyokers who have made a balloon ascension.

LIVES IN DANGER

Fourteen Persons Had Narrow Escapes

LYNN, Oct. 8.—Fourteen persons had a fortunate escape from suffocation during the progress of a fire which broke out in the three-story wooden block at 109 Chestnut street shortly after 11 o'clock last night.

Many of them had to go out into the chill night air clad in their sleeping apparel. They first started in the plumbing store of George M. Stoddard on the first floor, and great clouds of smoke poured through all the rooms and made escape dangerous. On the second floor were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Palmer and their son Michael. They were led down stairs to safety by the firemen. On the third floor were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Trudell and their daughter Mary; Mr. and Mrs. Mosomon, Mrs. Ida Taylor, Andrew and George Taylor and Hazel and Maud Hadley. None of the occupants had time to dress.

THE BARTENDERS

ANOTHER ATTEMPT MADE TO ORGANIZE THEM

Another attempt is being made to organize the bartenders, or wine clerks, of this city. J. E. Laycock, international organizer, is in this city conferring with different bartenders for the purpose of gaining from them an expression as to the outlook. A number of years ago the Lowell union fell behind in its dues to the National organization, and the charter was suspended. It happened that a no-license year went into effect not long afterward, and the Lowell bartenders were greatly handicapped in their quest for employment in other cities because of their inability to show union cards.

Mr. Laycock is also the organizer for the culinary workers, and a meeting of this craft has been called for Friday night of this week in Weavers' hall. The culinary workers include cooks, waitresses and all employees of restaurants. These employees have never been organized in Lowell.

W.M. J. CARROLL

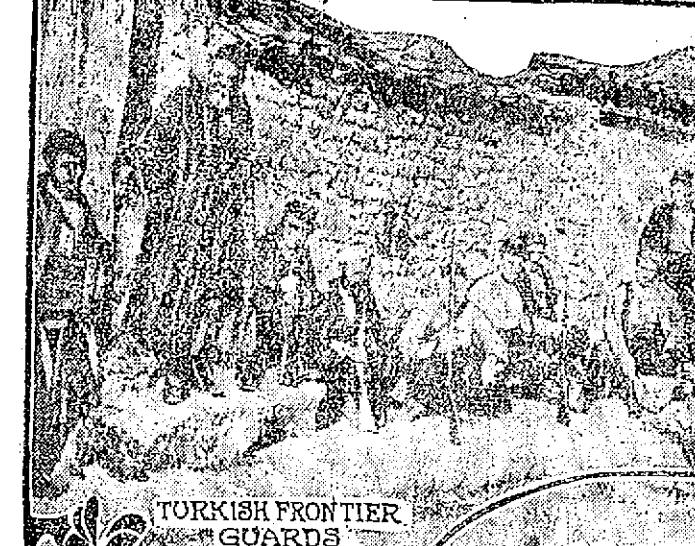

SAYS DEBS RECEIVES NO ASSISTANCE FROM REPUBLICANS.

William J. Carroll, a law student who is also a socialist, called at the Sun office this morning to say that he does not believe there is any foundation for the statement that Mr. Debs is receiving financial aid from the republicans. He had with him a copy of the official Bulletin of the socialist party in which it is shown that up to date the cash contributions to the campaign amount to $13,364.95. In addition he says, collections are taken up at all the socialist meetings so that there should be enough funds to keep Debs in motion in his red special until the campaign is over.

SERVIA'S PROTEST

Against Annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina

BELGRADE, Serbia, Oct. 8.—The Serbian government in its proclamation protesting against the annexation of Austria-Hungary of Bosnia and Herzegovina expresses the hope that the powers will respond to the appeal addressed to them for protection and justice. "This new and flagrant violation of the Berlin treaty," the proclamation declares, "has been effected unitedly by force mainly to satisfy selfish interests and without regard to the grievous blow thus dealt to the feelings, interests and rights of the Serbian people.

"Serbia cannot in this present case obtain full satisfaction other than by the complete restoration of the situation with regard to Bosnia and Herzegovina as established by the treaty of Berlin. If this solution is regarded as absolutely impossible the Serbian government appealing to the sense of equity of the powers, demands corresponding compensation for Serbia. The guarantee is indispensable to her existence as an independent state must be maintained and the general condition of existence assured Serbia by the treaty of Berlin must, at least in a measure, be restored."

The proclamation declares that the rights accorded Serbia under this treaty are incomparably inferior to the sacrifices imposed upon her. Serbia has scrupulously observed the terms of the treaty. No modifications to the advantage of Serbia have been made, whereas there have been a number of modifications to the advantage of other powers.

FOR BOY WHO WAS INJURED BY DEFECTIVE MACHINERY

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—A verdict for $5000 was awarded James L. Donovan, a boy, against the Chase Shawmut company for injuries before Judge Schofield in the fifth session of the superior court yesterday. It was all the boy sued for, and his father, Michael Donovan, was awarded $570 for the loss of the son's service. Young Donovan, shortly after leaving school, went to work in the company's shop, and on May 19, 1903, while operating a defective machine, his right hand was caught in the knife of it and badly lacerated.

WHAT JACKIE WILL SEE IN THE PHILIPPINES

Uncle Sam Thinks That He Has Good Reason to Be Proud of His Ten-year-old Experiment.

WHEN the mighty American fleet which is now girdling the globe reaches the Philippine archipelago, on Oct. 1, according to the official itinerary, the Jackies who man the great fighting machines will already have seen more of the world than falls within the experience of most men. However faded and surfeited they may be from an embarrassment of riches in the way of sightseeing opportunities, they are certain to be stimulated by fresh interest when they set foot in Uncle Sam's faraway territory.

Ten years ago on the 1st day of last May the stars and stripes were hung out over Manila bay by Admiral Dewey. It was a summons to better things given to a group of feeble, far stretching islands, basking half asleep in the tropical sun, the dwelling place of 7,000,000 of half civilized beings, for the most part steeped in ignorance and broken into warring factions by dissimilarity of language and customs.

A change has been wrought that is a marvel to the world. The hand of the despot has been made powerless, the demon of internecine strife has been quieted, the light of western civilization has been set to shine in the dark places and industries that will bring increasing prosperity have been planted.

Who could have believed ten years ago that today the American public school would be the most popular thing in the archipelago? There are 3,500 of these civilizers in the islands, 1,000 conducted by American teachers and the others by natives who understand the English language and how to teach it. In round numbers there are enrolled at the present time 500,000 children who are reaping the benefit of the new order of things. It seems almost incredible, but there are now more persons in the islands who speak English than those who speak Spanish after the long years of peninsular occupation.

The Craze For Education.

The Filipino's desire for the new education amounts to a veritable passion. There is no need for the student officer in the Philippines. The schools are overcrowded by pupils who present themselves voluntarily. Every effort is being made to increase the number of public schools, but the demand keeps well in advance of the supply. In the great rice growing districts, tenanted by the most poverty stricken and ignorant of the native population, clubs are being formed, and each member contributes his pittance toward sending for an American teacher.

It still happens that in the interior districts, far away from the business centers, the children crowd into the schoolrooms without a vestige of clothing on their attenuated little bodies. This propensity to go unclothed is one of the things which the American teachers find most difficult to overcome. Naturally it is one of the first reforms the American woman teacher tries to make. First of all, she tries to influence the mothers. It does not take her long to discover that the maternal indifference is practically insurmountable. Long custom has made the Filipino mother a convert to the belief that juvenile nakedness is a housekeeping convenience which she

American capital is invested in the Philippines. As a matter of fact, the opportunity for the safe and profitable investment of capital in the Philippines is very great, far greater than it has ever been in Cuba. The island of Luzon, the second largest in the archipelago, is 2,500 square miles larger than Cuba. There is probably no other country in the world in which the intelligent investment of capital investment expired. There can be no question as to the agricultural fitness of the islands, for in spite of the antiquated methods which have always prevailed there the returns have been highly remunerative.

Not So Remote.

It is really amazing how little is known about the Philippines by the great majority of Americans. The Freight from the Philippines can be landed in New York, via Suez, for less than $7.50 a ton. To bring freight from San Francisco to New York by railroad costs three times that amount.

One of the things which will be a surprise to the men of the fleet will be the remarkable diversity of Philippine products. In the mountains of interior Luzon the so called "head hunt-

abundance of uncultivated land so well adapted to the raising of this product. In Cuba and Hawaii practically all of the good sugar land has long since been placed under cultivation. Prime sugar land in Cuba commands forty figures, ranging from $400 to $500 per acre, and the land is to be had in such small parcels that enough cannot be obtained to make a sugar mill profitable. In Hawaii the want of land is

If not better, sugar lands than are owned by foreigners, with just as cheap, or cheaper, labor as there is to be found in other tropical countries.

Jack will also see for himself how the Filipino has been maligned by those who have made habitual indolence his foremost characteristic. This is disproved by the great enthusiasm which the islanders have manifested over the industrial schools established by the United States government. Before the experiment was tried it was declared in certain quarters that the native propensity to shirk labor would prove to be an insuperable barrier in the way of the success of the plan. Time has shown the falsity of this insinuation. In the industrial school of arts and trades at Manila, which is the principal industrial institution in the islands, there is a waiting list which largely exceeds that of the registered pupils. The American Jackie will be both astonished and pleased at what he sees in Uncle Sam's ten-year-old experiment. A. J. POMEROY.

ENGLAND'S ROYAL CARRIAGE.

King Edward rode in a carriage worth $36,000 when he went to the opening of parliament on the last occasion.

The vehicle is one of the most costly and splendid in the world. It was built in 1761, on the occasion of the marriage of George III, and has ever since carried the English kings and queens on all high state occasions. Sir William Chambers designed the vehicle, which weighs four tons.

Despite its 147 years' service its great wheels, gear and body are said to be as sound as when built, and it looks as if it would go on forever. Steel springs were unknown when the coach was built, and its ponderous yet daintily luxurious body is suspended on leather braces, not unlike those of the old Concord stagecoaches of America. Its balance is so perfect that a touch of the finger is enough to set the body swinging on the big creaking straps which brace the carved and gilded tritons supporting the driver's seat and hammercloth. The length of the vehicle is twenty-four feet.

The elaborate carvings cost more than the carriage proper, the coach builder's bill having been less than $3,000, while that of the carver was more than $10,000. Something of the character of the ornamentation may be guessed from the fact that the artist Cipriani received $1,500 for painting the panels and that the lacemaker's charge was something like $4,000.

The preparation of the royal equipage for state occasions is a real sight. Six pairs of milk white horses from the royal stud are always used, and all wear false tails. The coachman, in powder and curls, mounts his seat with the aid of a ladder, but does not really drive, postilions on the horses and state grooms who walk beside them being in command of the team.

COCKYTON IN MANILA

cannot do without. One teacher enlisted the co-operation of some army women, and in time her pupils were provided with garments of the most elemental sartorial pretensions and instructed to wear them. On the following morning every one of them appeared covered only with their dusky little skins. The mothers explained that the new garments were good for a feast day, but altogether too much better for ordinary occasions. It was found necessary to make the wearing of the unwelcome clothes a part of the regular school discipline. The children were dressed when they arrived in the morning and permitted to lay aside the unpopular garments at the close of the afternoon session.

The American Jack far will be astonished to find how much good will yield such vast returns. Many Americans have invested in lumbering and mining operations and are beginning to reap satisfactory results. Several large companies have engaged in agriculture. One of these, a concern which uses an enormous quantity of blinding twine, has invested $5,000,000 in hemp. Another company has purchased an immense estate of 44,000 acres and has gone extensively into farming.

So far most of the Americans who have become Philippine farmers are those who were formerly in the employ of the government. At Davao, on the island of Mindanao, there are at least fifty men engaged in hemp raising who were formerly soldiers in the United States army and remained in the country after their terms of en-prevalent idea is extremely hazy. Beyond the fact that the archipelago is a long way off very little is known of it by the average American citizen. From a commercial viewpoint, Manila is not so remote from New York as is San Francisco. Freight from the Philippines can be landed in New York, via Suez, for less than $7.50 a ton. To bring freight from San Francisco to New York by railroad costs three times that amount.

One of the things which will be a surprise to the men of the fleet will be the remarkable diversity of Philippine products. In the mountains of interior Luzon the so called "head hunting" Igorrotes grow the finest cotton known to commerce and weave it in their own looms. This is a tropical product, but in these same mountains may be found the northern pine. The flora and fauna of this region are also full of northern and southern species all massed together without regard to climatic conditions. This mixture of tropical and temperate zone products always delights the visitor to the islands.

It cannot fail to be apparent to the American visitors that sugar raising is certain to become the agricultural feature of the country. No other country in the known world presents better conditions for the growing of this great staple than the archipelago. There is no other region under American control which contains such an even more appreciable. Good sugar farms sell at from $500 to $1,500 an acre, and all the sugar land is in use.

The greatest market in the world for the consumption of sugar is the United States. Our consumption is so great—about 6,000,000,000 pounds a year—that we can easily absorb all the sugar which Cuba, Hawaii and the East Indies can produce, in addition to the limited production of our own beet sugar factories, and still have room for all the sugar output of the Philippines for many years. The sugar producing capacity of the Philippines is almost boundless. Yet today the United States is paying from $60,000,000 to $90,000,000 yearly to foreign countries, while in the islands where floats the stars and stripes there are immense areas in sight, with every bit as good, even more appreciable. Good sugar farms sell at from $500 to $1,500 an acre, and all the sugar land is in use.

When the President and Kermit Go A-hunting

WHEN President Roosevelt announced his intention of going to the dark continent on a hunting expedition at the close of his term he was besieged immediately by a host of men who confessed to a yearning to become his companions on voyage. Some of them were real hunters, men who have gone in search of big game and have bagged it, but most of them were camp followers pure and simple—cooks, photographers, surgeons, taxidermists, botanists and rough riders innumerable.

Had the president accepted half of those who offered he would have been able to enter the African jungle next spring at the head of a fair sized army, as American armies go. He could have captured the Kongo State with half of the force that has already volunteered to serve under his banner. As a matter of fact, he has decided positively on no application save that of his son Kermit, who in some way managed to secure a favorable decision at a very early stage of the game.

Among the most insistent in their importunities to go with the party have been the photographers. It is Kermit also who has interfered with the aspirations of these artistic gentlemen. Within the past few months he has become a very expert photographer and will be perfectly competent to furnish all the pictures needed. The illustration of the president's magazine articles and of the book which will be forthcoming will be attended to by this clever young amateur, and the fact that it is done by the president's son will add greatly to the value of the output. A special camera has been constructed under the direction of Frank M. Chapman, one of the curators of the American Museum of Natural History, who for some time has been teaching Kermit how to use a similar apparatus. This camera is especially provided with lenses adapted to the taking of movable objects and is patterned after the one used by Mr. Chapman in his expeditions undertaken in the service of the museum.

The Happy Hunting Ground.

According to the expert Nimrod, east Africa is now the only remaining field in the world which is proof against the pot hunter. As such it appeals mightily to the lover of big game, and the president is not the only one who has looked longingly in the direction of its unpenetrated solitudes. Thus far those wholesale slayers of wild beasts who might have afforded the enormous expense of equipping an expedition into these unfrequented wilds have been deterred by various prudential reasons. For one thing they have been afraid to risk their lives in the pestilential fever swamps of the interior, and for another they have not been able to satisfy themselves that it is measurably safe to venture into the country of a race so unfriendly to the whites.

So it happens that although more than one adventurous American sportsman has made his way to this admirable hunting ground it has not become familiar to the ordinary "man with a gun." The great expenditure of time and money involved in a journey to Africa has kept him at a distance. Before one concludes to make it he must consider that two months will be required to reach a port of entry and an expenditure of at least $500, leaving the question of equipment and all further expense out of the consideration. Those who have leisure for such matters and a taste for figures of respectable denominations have estimated that the cost of the president's east African holiday cannot fall far short of $25,000.

Marvelous Tales.

In the old slave trading days those who were engaged in the nefarious traffic used to spin marvelous yarns concerning the animal life of this region. Their accounts of the vast natural zoological park which comprised the heart of the continent were so extravagant that no one pretended to credit them fully. We were more willing to believe Dr. Livingstone, but when he stated that in the country behind Quilimane he had seen herds of elephants that must have aggregated millions of specimens we were inclined to the belief that his arithmetic was at fault. Tippee Tip, the famous sultan of Zanzibar who was so potent in Africa twenty years ago, compared the number of wild animals in the continent with that of the sands of the sea. That, of course, was largely fanciful, but the noted despot's subsequent estimate that in east Africa there were no fewer than 200,000 elephants in 15,000 herds and that their tusks were worth $25,000,000 was not so hard to comprehend. In those days the greed of the Arab ivory hunters was so intense that extinction seemed probable. A step was put to the distasteful business, and since that time the herds have increased wonderfully, so largely, indeed, that recently there have come appeals from the interior settlements for the suspension of the game laws for a few years so that the elephants, buffaloes, rhinoceroses, hippopotamuses and other large animals which are now a menace to life and property may be thinned out by unlimited slaughter. The Literary Viewpoint.

It goes without saying that the president will write a book. He has not denied the soft impeachment, and Kermit's strenuous course in photography seems to clinch the matter. Mr.

Roosevelt is far too wise and altogether too thrifty to permit such valuable material for copy to be wasted. He is not the man to make this long and trying journey for the sole purpose of killing an elephant or two and maybe bagging a lion or a tiger. It was all very well for an opposition newspaper humorist to suggest that he was going for the purpose of securing genuine lion skins to cover the floors at Sagamore Hill since he was unable to make the pure food law cover the adulteration of lion hides, but there is not the slightest reason to believe that his intention is other than he expressed it when the project first was announced—to get away from civilization, to recover from the wearing effect of seven years of hard labor and to get his nerves into proper condition for the remainder of his life.

Experienced Nimrod that he is, the president has not yet qualified himself to rank with the world's premier hunters of big game. Before he is entirely fit he must have killed the lion, the rhinoceros, the elephant, the gorilla and the royal Bengal tiger, not to mention the swift eland, the meditative carabao and the sociable hippopotamus. Mr. Roosevelt has never hunted outside his own country and in Canada a region in which there is but a single wild creature which is feared as by any personal risk to the sportsman—the grizzly bear. The president is but an undergraduate in the great university of outdoor life and sport. He realizes this and is anxious to complete his training and receive his major degree.

Among the minor animals which the president will hunt for the first time are the zebra, the ferocious wart hog, the hartbeeste and the armor protected crocodile. He will also get some ostrich shooting and may succeed in bagging a few secretary birds, although they are reputed to be scarce even in Africa. It will be very unusual indeed if while the party is making its slow way through the swamps which form a sort of moat around the happy hunting ground proper Mr. Roosevelt does not get a shot at a nodding hippopotamus half buried in the mud and rank vegetation. Unless his aim is well directed the wounded animal is quite likely to go lumbering through the underbrush in the direction of the point of attack, emitting sounds which will seem to be far more menacing than they really are, since the awkward beast is not well provided with means of defense and is about the easiest foe on earth from which to escape.

The Noblest Game.

The rhinoceros, however, is quite a different proposition. When disturbed it is very apt to resent the interruption. Although it is not constructed in the interests of agility, it is sufficiently dangerous when maimed to afford Mr. Roosevelt a lively moment. As for the lion, it is now admitted by those who have had experience in the matter that he is a cowardly beast, making a great noise, but inclined to turn tail and run when he recognizes the fact that his master, man, is in dead earnest. The president will find some other animals much more interesting and even dangerous than "the king of beasts." All accredited hunters of big game at the present time agree that the elephant is the noblest game in the world and that hunting him is "the sport of kings." The elephant always dies game. He is never a docile and resigned victim, and his companions are not slow to avenge him if the assailant can be reached.

Besides the president's favorite titles, some necessary personal effects and Kermit's new camera practically none of the equipment for the expedition will be taken from America. When the Mediterranean steamer carrying the president's party arrives at Cairo everything necessary for the continuation of the journey will be found ready. At each point of special interest or danger there will be native guides in waiting, and when it is deemed necessary an armed force will be at hand to safeguard the party. Nothing that will contribute to the success of the expedition is at all likely to be neglected by a man endowed with so much executive ability as is the president.

CHARLES E. GAYLORD.

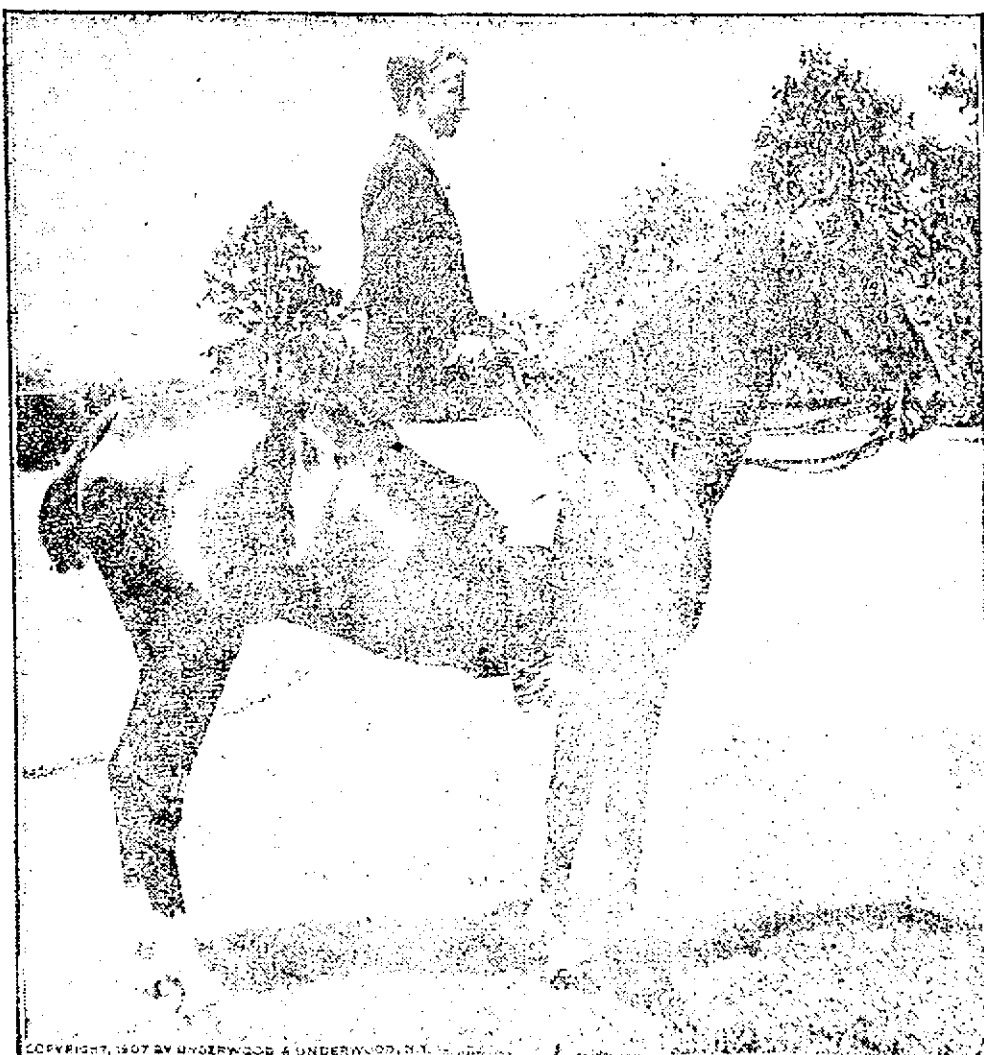

THE FIRST TEA PLANT.

In A. D. 510 an Indian prince named Darma visited China on a religious mission. Wishing to influence the people more strongly, he devoted nights and days during several years to unceasing prayer until at last, overcome by fatigue, he slept. When Prince Darma awoke he was horrified at having yielded to his desire to sleep and cut off his eyelids, which he threw on the ground, the better to remember his vow of vigilance.

The next day he returned to the spot and found his eyelids had disappeared and that where he had thrown them a strange kind of plant was growing. Darma picked some of the leaves and tasted them. He suddenly felt reinvigorated and restored in spirits, and, calling his followers, he drew their attention to the plant, which became known as the tea plant, and since then has become world known for its properties as "the cup that cheers."

THINGS REVERSED IN JAPAN.

In Japan the natives have a habit of reversing nearly everything according to our accepted ideas of how things should be done. Thus a Japanese workman pulls the plow toward him, a blacksmith blows the bellows with his feet, the cooper holds the tub with his feet, and nearly every one sits down to work. Horsey are put in their stables reverse ways, for the horse's dink is where his head should be. Japanese screws screw the other way, and Japanese locks lock to left.

CHAS. SEAWARD

Charles W. Seaward, known all over the country in newspaper circles by reason of his connection with Mergenthaler Linotype machines, died at his home in Malden, Tuesday night.

He was but 49 years of age, and was born in Clinton, spent part of his youth in Kittery, Me., and later lived in Cleveland and New York, being the traveling expert of the Linotype machine company. Besides his wife and two children, the youngest being born but a week ago, he leaves his mother, who resided with him.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias and Masons and of Boston Typographical Union No. 13.

Mr. Seaward set up the new Linotype machine recently installed in The Lowell Sun office.

BRYAN AND TAFT OUT FOR SENATOR

Met Same Banquet Table in Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—William H. Taft and William J. Bryan, rival candidates for the presidency of the United States, met last night at the fourth annual banquet of the Chicago association of Commerce.

Mr. Bryan, having been in Chicago all day, was the first to arrive at the banquet hall in the Auditorium hotel. Mr. Taft, having delivered a speech at the opening of the deep waterways convention in the afternoon, went to Galesburg, Ill., to deliver another address during the afternoon, and returned to Chicago last night after the banquet was well under way.

Intense interest in the meeting had been manifested since it first became known that the two candidates were to meet in public, and every seat in three banquet halls, thrown together for the occasion, was occupied when the first course was served, save only a commodious chair reserved for Mr. Taft.

An ear-splitting shout gave warning of the arrival of Mr. Taft. Mr. Bryan in common with every one else, rose and looked toward the entrance. A huge frame, moving like a ship amidst a swarm of flags, came slowly by the narrow aisle between two tables. Those at a distance occasionally could catch a glimpse of a smiling face acknowledging greetings. Mr. Bryan turned his head slowly as his political rival drew near, smiling shyly.

Bryan's Hand Awaited Taft's. The dramatic moment, which had been anticipated with such deep interest, was soon over. Mr. Bryan's hand awaited that of Mr. Taft. A single lingering pressure, a word or so, which was soon overheard because of the music, and the republican leader passed on to a chair at the right of President Hall of the association. The cheering, continued for a minute or so after those at the speaker's table had taken their seats. At the first of the banquet, Mr. Bryan, looking to the side, and smiling broadly, looked at Mr. Taft as he had had a seat.

This display of friendship, on the part of the two candidates stirred the crowd to renewed cheering, and words were useless in the din. Mr. Taft looked at Mr. Bryan as he passed. Then Taft turned and the applause increased.

"What is the matter with Taft?"

cried some one in stentorian tones.

"He's all right."

"Who's all right?"

"Taft's all right."

It took music by the orchestra and a song by the guests to restore a semblance of quiet. When talking in ordinary tones became possible the two candidates entered into an animated conversation, in which President Hall joined. The speeches of both Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan were non-partisan. This was in consonance with the wishes of the association, which is non-partisan.

Toastmaster Lauds Bryan

When the last course of the dinner had been served, both of the distinguished guests were kept busy signing menu cards. Meanwhile the banquet hall remained in good natured disorder. Through it all the two candidates talked with smiling fortitude, signing their names. The tumult which began with the entrance of Mr. Taft lasted for 45 minutes.

Besides Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan, the speakers of the evening were A. C. Bartlett and David Forsman. Mr. Bartlett was the first speaker and Mr. Bryan was sandwiched between Mr. Bartlett and Mr. Taft. In introducing "Chamber of Commerce said:

"As I look on my distinguished associates I am forced to resort to the familiar protestation of the perplexed lover, 'How happy could I be with either. The evolution of politics has brought to a commanding place in the eyes of Nebraska. It has been a citizen of America, he has sought and held respect of his fellow men, and in the heart of his choice as standard-bearer of one of the great national parties by leaders of enthusiastic conviction. With the principles of leadership in a career of courage, fidelity and kindness Mr. Bryan has shown the purity of his patriotism. Gentlemen, Mr. Bryan."

Praises Taft's Life Work

The introduction of Mr. Taft followed. In the first place of war, we fought and won, and we have a government that is the envy of the world. The accomplishment of this purpose, the president said, is the highest of a citizen and eminent commander and a man with courage of the highest purpose of his mission, winning both the confidence of his constituents and the love and gratitude of a nation to his Success and honor. He showed his every effort in his active life as a citizen, a patriot, a leader of his people. Through all his life and in our history, his name is a standard for the integrity of his government and the purity of his character. Gentlemen, Mr. Taft."

William J. Carroll, Lowell's full-fledged socialist, is out for senatorial honors in the 8th district and now it is up to Senator "Joe" Hibbard to play a two-stop, for they do say that Mr. Carroll is not very strong on that particular dance, though he does waltz perfectly. Mr. Carroll filed his papers at the city hall last evening and you ought to see the endorsements. As it is known, however, that this is not the law student, Wm. J. Carroll, who by the way is an able young man. The names on his papers include republican candidates for office, democratic councilmen and democratic precinct officers, gentlemen of leisure and saloon keepers.

The gentlemen of the board of registrars of voters were busily engaged in ferreting out the names submitted by Mr. Carroll, when The Sun reporter dropped in on them this forenoon. They allowed that Mr. Carroll had presented the greatest variety that ever found a resting place in that office and it was suggested that Carroll be called the "Heinz candidate" because of the many varieties.

Mr. Carroll is fairly well known as a stump, street corner, common, city park, grass plot or soap box speaker and he is conceded to be one of the most earnest socialists in this section of the country.

With all due respect to the memory of the late "Tommy" Burns, whose stentorian tones, magnified by megaphone medium, filled the streets of Lowell, in days gone by, with a melodious offering of "peace, peace and a better life," "Tommy" was never in it for a minute with "Bill" Carroll who promptly in speech from the house tops through a megaphone.

They do say that Mr. Carroll has been urged into the contest by Mr. Hibbard's republican friends in order to take some votes from Rep. O'Donnell, the democratic candidate, but we surmise that Mr. O'Donnell's record will win for him not only the full democratic vote but also enough republicans to elect him in spite of the combined opposition of Joe Hibbard and Socialist Carroll.

W. C. T. U.

Mrs. E. Florence Soule, who is stopping on School street during the W. C. T. U. state convention, was taken suddenly ill yesterday and is confined to her room. She resides in Dorchester. She is the assistant treasurer and office secretary of the W. C. T. U. She overworked herself yesterday and also is a victim of a severe cold. She is already made many friends in Lowell by her courtesies and of her own accord and will be workers in attendance at the convention now being held in Lowell.

The annual report of the state treasurer, Mrs. Ida I. A. Morse, which was scheduled on the program to be read at Tuesday afternoon's session, was by vote omitted until today and was read at Tuesday afternoon's session.

Yesterday in the dining-room of the First Baptist church there was a meeting of the superintendents and those who are to participate in the "W. C. T. U. state convention" of this evening. Miss Emily Skille, a member of the First Baptist church, has agreed to furnish the necessary children for tomorrow's demonstration. There are 25 superintendents and 40 departments in the state engaged in children's work, which is considered as prevention, educational, legal, organization and social.

BERNIE WEFERS

FORMER LOWELL BOY IS COACHING COLUMBIA

"Bernie" Wefers, formerly of Lowell, who at one time resided in Central street, has begun his duties as coach of the Columbia cross-country and track and field men. More than 50 men came out in response to the first call for candidates, and if the quality comes up to the quantity, Wefers thinks that he will put a good team on the field next spring and have a fair representation in the cross-country runs next month. The track men who reported were mostly freshmen and sophomores, and they are training for the interclass meet.
